Powell's Move To Block Jury Inquiry Fails

New Justice Dept. Unit Will Handle Housing Scandals

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6 (AP)—Clyde L. Powell cried "politics" today as he sought unsuccessfully to block a grand jury investigation of his activities as a government housing official.

Daniel B. Maher, attorney for the ousted FHA rental housing chief, asked the U.S. District Court to "take judicial notice of countless predictions in newspapers and political forecasters that there would be political indictments returned against members of the former administration prior to the November election."

But District Judge F. Dickinson Letts rejected Maher's challenge of the legality of the grand jury and refused to quash a subpoena directing Powell to appear before it.

He said "no irregularity has been shown" in setting up the grand jury, and that no injustice to Powell had resulted.

The court developments came as Atty. Gen. Brownell announced formation of a special Justice Department division to handle prosecution of housing cases and the Senate Banking Committee continued a six-month probe of irregularities.

The committee developed testimony yesterday that Powell had demanded and received $10,000 to increase the FHA commitment of a Washington apartment loan, and had banked $138,000 more than his net government salary during a 10-year period. Other witnesses told of loans to Powell, and said he had gambled heavily.

Powell himself declined, as he had twice previously, to answer any questions before the committee, claiming his right under the Fifth Amendment to avoid giving testimony which might tend to incriminate him.

New Justice Dept. Unit

Brownell announced the assignment of Max. N. Goldschein, a top criminal prosecutor in the department to assist U.S. Attorney Leo A. Rover in presenting housing matters before the grand jury here.

He announced also that a new unit headed by Nathaniel E. Kossack will take over the department's handling of housing matters which have heretofore been spread among the fraud, government operations and common crimes units.

The idea is to speed up actual prosecutions here and throughout the country of cases involving government housing programs. Cases found to be justified will be referred to U.S. attorneys for presentation to grand juries.

Miss Truman Accepts Political Assignment

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., Oct. 6 (AP)—Miss Margaret Truman has accepted a Democratic political campaign assignment.

William Poindexter, district chairman of the Missouri Young Democrats, said today she had agreed to head the "Youth for Christopher" campaign in the 4th District. It is here that former Congressman George Christopher, Democrat, is seeking to unseat Rep. Jeffrey Hillelson, Republican.

Poindexter added that Miss Truman is expected to make several appearances at Democratic rallies in the district near election time.

Probers File Protest As Power Agreement Reported Approved

MARILYN WEEPS—Tears well in the eyes of Marilyn Monroe as she faces nearly 100 newsmen outside her Hollywood home for the first time since she announced Monday that she and her husband, Joe DiMaggio, were breaking up. She told reporters "I can't say anything today" and then was driven to her studio. (AP Wirephoto)

AEC "Yes" Or "No" Today Is Requested

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6 (AP)—Strong indications developed today that the Atomic Energy Commission has approved the Dixon-Yates power contract, and Sens. Langer (R-ND) and Kefauver (D-Tenn) fired an immediate protest to the commission.

The two senators, meeting as the Senate Judiciary Antimonopoly subcommittee, which is investigating the controversy-ridden contract, asked Chairman Lewis L. Strauss to report by 2:30 p.m. tomorrow whether it has been approved "in any manner whatsoever."

Langer and Kefauver told Strauss it would be "highly improper" for the government to go ahead with the contract while the subcommittee is investigating it.

Fulbright Told Pact OK'd

Meanwhile the Senate-House Atomic Committee telegraphed its members over the country that the AEC has advised Chairman Sterling Cole (R-NY) that "it is ready to present information concerning the Dixon-Yates contract." The committee scheduled open hearings tentatively for Oct. 13.

Earlier, the office of Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) had reported Fulbright has been told the contract had been approved and "we believe it to be true."

Fulbright has supported the contract, which calls for a 107 million dollar private utility plant to be built at West Memphis, Ark., to supply power to the Memphis area over lines of the Tennessee Valley Authority. This power would replace TVA power which goes to atomic plants.

Signing Is Denied

Asked about the Fulbright report, an AEC spokesman said only that the contract "has not been signed."

In still another development today, Sen. Langer announced he will ask a Justice Department investigation of the accounting methods used by Middle South Utilities, Inc., one of companies in the Dixon-Yates group.

Langer and Kefauver are among the sharp critics of the transaction. These critics generally assail it as an administration "giveaway" and a deal tailored to benefit big private power and interests.

French Cabinet Will Do-Or-Die In Pact's Behalf

PARIS, Oct. 6 (AP)—Premier Pierre Mendes-France launched his opening battle today for National Assembly indorsement of the nine-power London agreements for West German rearmament. The Cabinet gave him its political do-or-die backing.

The Cabinet ministers authorized Mendes-France at a three-hour meeting this morning to make the London accords an issue of confidence—putting the government's life at stake—if and when necessary in the Assembly debate.

Reports To Committee

Then the Premier reported to the Assembly's Foreign Affairs Committee on his London negotiations as a prelude to his appearance for a formal statement before the Assembly tomorrow.

Mendes-France predicted that a full and precise agreement can be achieved by the end of October, and the texts submitted to Parliament for ratification the following month. His aim now is only to put the Assembly on record behind the principles for an eventual ratification, he said.

The French Premier sought to ally the Assembly's fear on another point by announcing that he planned to discuss a settlement on the Saar problem in a special meeting in Paris with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer Oct. 20.

Committee Praises Premier

The Premier appeared to have won his first parliamentary success when the National Assembly's Foreign Affairs Committee issued a communique tonight praising his work in London. The committee did not officially vote for or against the agreements but said:

"The London conference has given us the satisfaction of instituting within the European organization a system of limitation and control of troops and armaments on the continent."

The meeting was closed, but reports said the Premier stated his case vigorously. He eventually will need the committee's support.

MacFadden Claims Son Punched Him In Face And Head

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 (AP)—Bernarr MacFadden, octogenarian physical culturist and publisher, charged today that his 30-year-old son, Berwyn, punched him in the face and head.

The elderly man made the charge in Special Sessions Court. The younger MacFadden was released in parole. He was formally charged with assault.

At the hearing Berwyn sought an assault complaint against his father, but Magistrate Harry G. Andrews denied the request.

The court hearing did not bring out what caused the alleged assault. Outside of court Berwyn said he had worked briefly for Arthur Murray, dance studio owner, and that his father was responsible for the loss of his job.

Dockers End Short Strike, Claim Victory

ILA Wins Retroactive Pay Hike But Pledges No Tieup For 45 Days

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 (AP)—A two-day strike of 25,000 longshoremen ended today. Union leaders claimed a clear-cut victory in one of the shortest all-out strikes in port history—although it cost them their right to strike for 45 days.

"It's 100 per cent sure everybody will be back to work tomorrow morning," was the word from headquarters of the striking International Longshoremen's Assn. (Ind). A few dockers went back today.

Picket signs along the idle piers were quickly replaced by back-to-work placards.

Third Strike In Year

The strike-third in little more than a year and the second in six months—began at midnight Monday, with very little advance warning. Seventy-one ships were stranded in the paralysis that suddenly gripped the world's largest and busiest port. However, the big passenger liners were able to come and go without any great discomfort.

Shippers were terrified at the prospect of another long strike. Of any cargo diverted elsewhere in a strike, an estimated 10 per cent—better than a million dollars worth a day—never returns and is lost permanently.

However, the shippers did gain a no-strike pledge from the ILA good for at least 45 days—which gives them time to get a head start on the annual flood of Christmas season imports.

Retroactive Pay Boost Granted

A dispute over retroactivity of wages and welfare payments sparked the walkout along 350 miles of waterfront. Further complications arose from a word battle between the ILA and the New York-New Jersey Waterfront Commission, a bistate regulatory agency on the docks.

The ILA demanded and got immediate payment of an 8-cent-an-hour wage boost retroactive to Oct. 1, 1953, when the last union-shipper contract ran out. Shippers wanted to make the retroactive boost part of general terms in a new contract yet to be tackled.

Injunction Won By Nevada GOP

RENO, Nev., Oct. 6 (AP)—Republicans late today won a permanent injunction from a district judge against a November election to fill out the two-year unexpired term of the late Sen. Pat McCarran, Democrat.

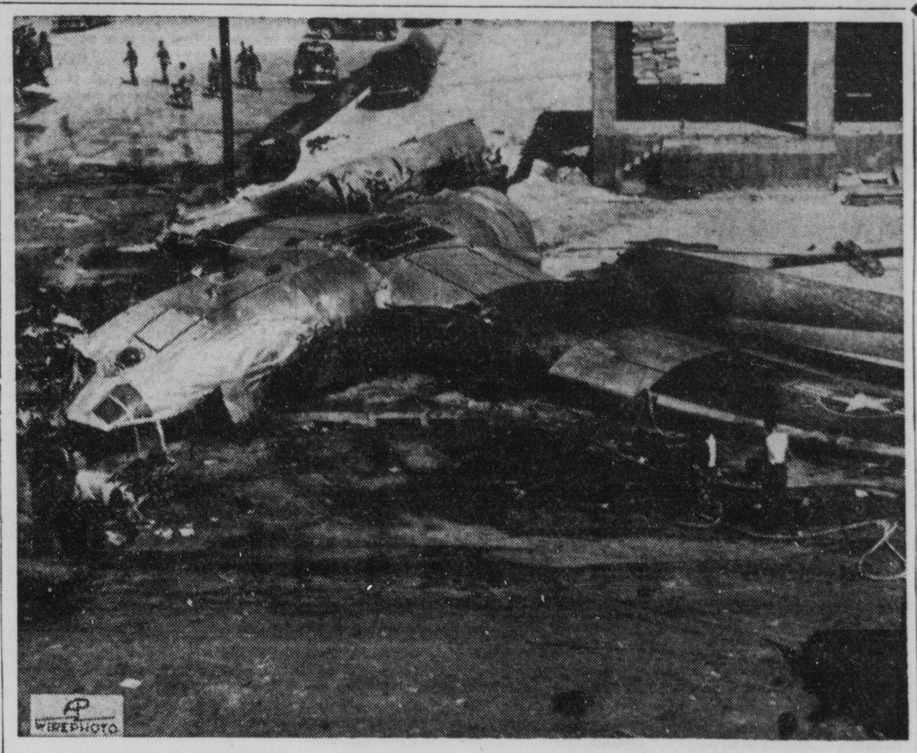

The Democrats announced immediately they would appeal to the State Supreme Court.

Republican Gov. Charles Russell already has appointed a Republican to the post. GOP legal maneuvering is aimed at keeping the appointee in the Senate until McCarran's term ends in January 1957.

Republican attorneys won the permanent injunction after a three-hour court battle.

Democratic chieftains promptly announced they will appeal the decision by District Judge A. J. Maestretti.

Democrats maintain the law is clear that an election should be held. The GOP holds Nevada's election code provides for Gov. Russell's Republican appointee, Reno Atty. Ernest Brown to fill out the unexpired term.

Flying Boxcar Crashes At Ft. Bragg

The pilot and co-pilot were killed in the crash yesterday of a Flying Boxcar at Ft. Bragg. Ten others aboard the plane and four civilian workers on the ground were injured. The pilot, in a desperate effort to keep from hitting men working on a barracks construction project, crashed the plane on a street.

Red China Voice In World Affairs Vital, India Says

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Oct. 6 (AP)—V. K. Krishna Menon of India told the U. N. Assembly today Communist China must have a place in talks on Southeast Asia, disarmament and other major problems if a lasting settlement is to be made.

Menon, top policy adviser to Prime Minister Nehru, put before the Assembly the appeal by the Indian leader last spring for an agreement halting the use of hydrogen and atomic bombs in experiments.

Manila Treaty Assailed

Menon also lashed out at the recently drafted Southeast Asia treaty agreement as introducing into Asia the menace of the cold war. He said India hopes the Manila agreement will not do too much harm.

Ranging far from Asia, Menon called on the leaders of East and West Germany to get together for direct talks on the unification of Germany. He explained that India has an interest in Germany because world wars start usually in Europea and eventually involve India.

The Indian delegate said he was convinced there would have been no Korean War if Red China had been in the U. N.

Israel Bids For Peace

He said it is immaterial whether some U.N. members like it or not; China already is in the U.N. and the big question is who represents China.

Earlier in the general debate, Abba Eban, Israel, offered to enter a series of nonaggression pacts with his country's Arab neighbors as the first step toward ending the mounting tension of the Middle East.

Mahmound Azmi, Egypt, spoke later and did not refer directly to the Eban proposal. He said, however, it is impossible to consider for one moment "the peaceful intentions of Israel as genuine."

Plane Crashes

RED BLUFF, Calif., Oct. 6 (AP)—A military transport plane with 16 men aboard crashed and exploded southeast of Willows tonight and sheriff's deputies said there were "some survivors."

Liberace Dates Dancer, Says He's Too Busy To Wed

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 6 (AP)—Liberace says he's keeping company with a comely 22-year-old dancer but as for marriage, "My kind of schedule wouldn't leave any time for that."

Video's virtuoso of the piano says he's too busy to wed now. But he admitted in an interview that a year from now he might give it serious consideration.

His frequent companion lately has been Joanne Rio, whom he squires to parties and premieres.

He also dates other girls, the 34-year-old pianist said. But friends point out that Joanne is the only one he brings home to mother. All his family seems fond of her.

Sobbing Marilyn, Joe Leave Home

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 6 (AP)—Marilyn Monroe, sobbing and scarcely able to speak, made an exit worthy of an Academy Ward today from the honeymoon house she once shared with Joe DiMaggio.

Leaning on her attorney and flanked by press agents, she faced nearly 100 newsmen when she emerged from the Beverly Hills home the ex-baseball star had left only an hour before.

"I can't say anything today," she said, falteringly, to reporters who had hoped she would explain the sudden breakup of her nine-month marriage.

"I have to go to work," the blonde beauty, absent from her movie job since she announced the split, exclaimed.

But she didn't go to work. Her studio at first said she had reported for work in a comedy and then was sent back home because she was "in no condition to work."

Later, however, a studio spokesman said she had gone to the office of her attorney, Jerry Giesler, where she was examined by a doctor and then sent home.

Madison Gets Divorce

Two Die, 14 Hurt As C119 Crashes At Ft. Bragg, N. C.

FT. BRAGG, N.C., Oct. 6 (AP)—A C119 Flying Boxcar, its left engine spouting flames, crashed into a barracks construction project here today and killed the pilot and co-pilot.

Ten aboard the giant ship were hurt—three crewmen and seven military passengers. Four civilians helping build barracks for the new home of the 82nd Airborne Division on this sprawling reservation also were injured.

Heroic Pilot Saves Lives

Only the heroic action of the pilot, W. L. Wiatt of Ft.Bragg, prevented a higher death toll. The co-pilot was Lt. S. N. Fulton of Southern Pines, N.C. Witnesses said the crippled plane, heading straight for the three-story brick barracks that was teeming with construction workers, suddenly veered away from the building and crashed on a paved street.

It was not known whether two of the injured civilians, C. D. Dubberly of Fremont, N.C. — who was seriously hurt — and Ralph S. Cole of CHapel Hill, N.C., were struck by the falling plane or by bits of wreckage that scattered over a 100-yard area. The big ship struck power lines, a telephone pole, a fire plug and a load of hot water tanks that were to be installed in the barracks.

Passenger Helps Rescuers

The plane, attached to the 464th Troop Carrier Group at nearby Pope Air Force Base, had just taken off for Olmstead AFB, Pa.

Pvt. G. E. Wilson, 22, of Mount Joy, Pa., a passenger, was credited with helping rescue several men from the burning wreckage. Witnesses, unable to say whether he was thrown from the wreckage or ran from it, said he reentered the plane and carried out several men. Wilson, who suffered shock, is a medic with the 325th Airborne Infantry Regiment of the 82nd Division.

Red Minister Blasts London Defense Pact

Proposes Big Four Discuss Unification, End To Occupation

BERLIN, Oct. 6 (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov struck back tonight at new Allied plans for getting West Germany to join in European defense. He called for a Big Four meeting on German reunification and an immediate end to Germán occupation.

Molotov, who made a surprise flight to East Berlin last night, made his major policy speech at a meeting of ranking East German officials and representatives of a dozen Communist countries including Red China. The speech came on the eve of the fifth anniversary of the founding of the Soviet-dominated East German government.

Attempt To Wreck Pact

He condemned the recent nine-power Western Allied conference in London as making German unification impossible and greatly increasing the danger of European war. His proposals were seen as the first big guns in a Soviet campaign to wreck the decisions of the London conference.

"The Soviet government declares today," he said, "that it proposes anew to the governments of the United States, Britain, and France to conclude an agreement on the withdrawal of occupation troops from the territory of East and West Germany and to solve this question immediately."

"The acceptance of this proposal would ease the situation of the population in East as well as in West Germany for reunification of Germany."

State Dept. Not Excited

He said the recent decisions in London have "nothing to do with the re-establishment of true German sovereignty" or European security. He gave this description of the Allied negotiations to strengthen West European defenses and restore German sovereignty:

"Recently there have been negotiations in London and Bonn about a plan which provides that the occupation troops be stationed until the year 1998, that is until the end of the century, in West Germany.

"Whatever is said to justify this kind of plan, one cannot but state that it has nothing to do with the re-establishment of true German sovereignty nor with safeguarding true security for the peoples of Europe."

In Washington, the State Department was asked if it would have any comment on Molotov's speech. "We do not comment on speeches," replied Press Officer Henry Suydam.

Hurricane Threatens Netherlands Antilles

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 6 (AP)—Northwest storm warnings were posted tonight over the Netherlands Antilles and the coastal islands of Venezuela as hurricane Hazel, a small but violent tropical storm, neared that region.

The hurricane, packing top winds of more than 100 miles per hour, was expected to pass north of these islands during the night, bringing them into the path of its strong outer gales.

Islands in the Netherlands Antilles include Curacao and Aruba, where large refineries operated by the Standard and Royal Dutch Shell companies refine oil.

Prison Guards Who Walked Off Job Draw Suspensions

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., Oct. 6 (AP)—Penitentiary guards—who want union representation—walked off their jobs today at the Indiana State Prison and authorities promptly suspended them.

Prison operations were described as normal by Hugh O'Brien, state Correction Department chairman, who added that the demonstration walkout "had fizzled out."

Forty-six guards were suspended for 10 days. Seven of these were placed on the inactive list when they refused to sign cards saying they would remain loyal to the state.

The 39 others—nearly half the normal daytime force—failed to report for guard duty at 8 a.m. They were listed as absent without leave. O'Brien said 42 regular men were on the job today plus 25 recruits and eight night workers who remained over.

The walkout, which the union insists is not a strike, began as the midnight shift went off duty early this morning. A 20-man contingent in civilian clothes set up a picket line outside the walled prison.

Nine state troopers stood watch over the picketing, and National Guard units remained on the alert in Gary and Anderson in case of any disturbances in the big prison, which houses 2,274 inmates. Between 500 and 600 of these are "lifers."

Warden J. Ellis Overlade said the prisoners were scoffing at the walkout and showed no sympathy for the guards.

Overlade said the lifers were passing a petition among themselves condemning the union for an earlier statement that they would riot if National Guardsmen were brought into the prison.

The Administration Reports

Gains Made In Correcting Errors In Federal Fiscal Affairs

This is another in a series of articles by top executives in the Eisenhower administration and offered by the New York Herald Tribune Syndicate to some 1,600 daily newspapers throughout the country as a public service. The articles are designed as mid-term reports to the American people on the administration's accomplishments and plans.

By GEORGE HUMPHREY
Secretary of Treasury

I have been in business for nearly 40 years. I have been in government for only 20 months.

As a business man looking at government from the inside, I believe that the Eisenhower administration has been making real gains in correcting some errors we found in the operations of the fiscal and tax affairs of the government.

In business the quarterly reports of a company currently show pretty much whether it is doing well or not. While we don't have anything quite comparable in government, those of us who have come into government from business can see quite clearly that the steps taken so far by the Eisenhower administration have been for the good of all Americans by turning us away from waste, away from bigger and bigger deficit spending, and bigger and bigger tax loads, toward a promising new era of development for our nation.

Strengthening The Economy

The Eisenhower administration is trying to help strengthen the economy and to make more and better jobs. We know that we must continually have more jobs for the good of all citizens in our growing population. And we must have them to provide for the security of our nation.

Let's look at some of the things which have been done to help the economy grow stronger and make more jobs by correcting fiscal and economic errors which we found when we came into the government 20 months ago.

We found a deficit for the fiscal year 1953 of almost $9,500,000,000, about which the new Administration could do little at such a late date. And for fiscal year 1954, the prior administration had charted a deficit of nearly $10,000,000,000. The Eisenhower administration reduced the 1954 deficit to $3,000,000,000 and turned the trend away from bigger and bigger deficit financing by cutting planned spending $7,000,000,000 in that one year alone. We will keep on working every day, every week, and every month to make every possible saving which is not detrimental to the needs of our national security or stability in the economy.

Taxes Have Been Cut

By getting federal spending under better control, we have been able to cut down on the intolerable burden od taxes which the American people have borne for so long. In the present calendar year, taxes

Reds Free Marine Airman, GI Taken Captive In Korea

PANMUNJOM, Korea, Thursday Oct. 7 (AP)—The Communists yesterday startled the Allied Command by voluntarily returning a U. S. Marine flier and an Army private held captive for several months.

They are Lt. Col. Herbert A. Peters, Seattle, Wash., whose wife lives at Mountain View, Calif., and Pfc. Charles Julius of Orlando, Fla.

While the men had been listed as missing, it was reported the Allied Command had no positive knowledge that the Communists had captured them.

Rear Adm. Thomas Brittain, senior Allied member of the Military Armistice Commission, said that, "The men appeared in good health and said they were well treated by the Communists." Correspondents were not permitted to talk to them when they were handed over here.

Peters was taken captive Feb. 5 when his light plane ran out of gasoline and he was forced to land on a Communist air strip near the Red base of Kaesong northwest of Panmunjom.

Julius, an artilleryman, was picked up near Heartbreak Ridge on the eastern front May 25 after he stepped on a mine in the neutral zone.

He showed scars on his back and one leg but appeared to have recovered from his wounds.

Peters' plane also was returned. A Communist truck drove up to Panmunjom carrying the wing. Another carried the fuselage. Allied officers said the plane appeared to be undamaged.

Peters and Julius wore blue woolen civilian suits when they stepped from two Russian-made jeeps at Panmunjom.

Injunction Won By Nevada GOP

RENO, Nev., Oct. 6 (AP)—Republicans late today won a permanent injunction from a district judge against a November election to fill out the two-year unexpired term of the late Sen. Pat McCarran, Democrat.

The Democrats announced immediately they would appeal to the State Supreme Court.

Republican Gov. Charles Russell already has appointed a Republican to the post. GOP legal maneuvering is aimed at keeping the appointee in the Senate until McCarran's term ends in January 1957.

Republican attorneys won the permanent injunction after a three-hour court battle.

Democratic chieftains promptly announced they will appeal the decision by District Judge A. J. Maestretti.

Democrats maintain the law is clear that an election should be held. The GOP holds Nevada's election code provides for Gov. Russell's Republican appointee, Reno Atty. Ernest Brown to fill out the unexpired term.

Flying Boxcar Crashes At Ft. Bragg

The pilot and co-pilot were killed in the crash yesterday of a Flying Boxcar at Ft. Bragg. Ten others aboard the plane and four civilian workers on the ground were injured. The pilot, in a desperate effort to keep from hitting men working on a barracks construction project, crashed the plane on a street.

Red China Voice In World Affairs Vital, India Says

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Oct. 6 (AP)—V. K. Krishna Menon of India told the U. N. Assembly today Communist China must have a place in talks on Southeast Asia, disarmament and other major problems if a lasting settlement is to be made.

Menon, top policy adviser to Prime Minister Nehru, put before the Assembly the appeal by the Indian leader last spring for an agreement halting the use of hydrogen and atomic bombs in experiments.

Manila Treaty Assailed

Menon also lashed out at the recently drafted Southeast Asia treaty agreement as introducing into Asia the menace of the cold war. He said India hopes the Manila agreement will not do too much harm.

Ranging far from Asia, Menon called on the leaders of East and West Germany to get together for direct talks on the unification of Germany. He explained that India has an interest in Germany because world wars start usually in Europea and eventually involve India.

The Indian delegate said he was convinced there would have been no Korean War if Red China had been in the U. N.

Israel Bids For Peace

He said it is immaterial whether some U.N. members like it or not; China already is in the U.N. and the big question is who represents China.

Earlier in the general debate, Abba Eban, Israel, offered to enter a series of nonaggression pacts with his country's Arab neighbors as the first step toward ending the mounting tension of the Middle East.

Mahmound Azmi, Egypt, spoke later and did not refer directly to the Eban proposal. He said, however, it is impossible to consider for one moment "the peaceful intentions of Israel as genuine."

Plane Crashes

RED BLUFF, Calif., Oct. 6 (AP)—A military transport plane with 16 men aboard crashed and exploded southeast of Willows tonight and sheriff's deputies said there were "some survivors."

Liberace Dates Dancer, Says He's Too Busy To Wed

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 6 (AP)—Liberace says he's keeping company with a comely 22-year-old dancer but as for marriage, "My kind of schedule wouldn't leave any time for that."

Video's virtuoso of the piano says he's too busy to wed now. But he admitted in an interview that a year from now he might give it serious consideration.

His frequent companion lately has been Joanne Rio, whom he squires to parties and premieres.

He also dates other girls, the 34-year-old pianist said. But friends point out that Joanne is the only one he brings home to mother. All his family seems fond of her.

Sobbing Marilyn, Joe Leave Home

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 6 (AP)—Marilyn Monroe, sobbing and scarcely able to speak, made an exit worthy of an Academy Ward today from the honeymoon house she once shared with Joe DiMaggio.

Leaning on her attorney and flanked by press agents, she faced nearly 100 newsmen when she emerged from the Beverly Hills home the ex-baseball star had left only an hour before.

"I can't say anything today," she said, falteringly, to reporters who had hoped she would explain the sudden breakup of her nine-month marriage.

"I have to go to work," the blonde beauty, absent from her movie job since she announced the split, exclaimed.

But she didn't go to work. Her studio at first said she had reported for work in a comedy and then was sent back home because she was "in no condition to work."

Later, however, a studio spokesman said she had gone to the office of her attorney, Jerry Giesler, where she was examined by a doctor and then sent home.

Two Die, 14 Hurt As C119 Crashes At Ft. Bragg, N. C.

FT. BRAGG, N.C., Oct. 6 (AP)—A C119 Flying Boxcar, its left engine spouting flames, crashed into a barracks construction project here today and killed the pilot and co-pilot.

Ten aboard the giant ship were hurt—three crewmen and seven military passengers. Four civilians helping build barracks for the new home of the 82nd Airborne Division on this sprawling reservation also were injured.

Heroic Pilot Saves Lives

Only the heroic action of the pilot, W. L. Wiatt of Ft.Bragg, prevented a higher death toll. The co-pilot was Lt. S. N. Fulton of Southern Pines, N.C. Witnesses said the crippled plane, heading straight for the three-story brick barracks that was teeming with construction workers, suddenly veered away from the building and crashed on a paved street.

It was not known whether two of the injured civilians, C. D. Dubberly of Fremont, N.C. — who was seriously hurt — and Ralph S. Cole of CHapel Hill, N.C., were struck by the falling plane or by bits of wreckage that scattered over a 100-yard area. The big ship struck power lines, a telephone pole, a fire plug and a load of hot water tanks that were to be installed in the barracks.

Passenger Helps Rescuers

The plane, attached to the 464th Troop Carrier Group at nearby Pope Air Force Base, had just taken off for Olmstead AFB, Pa.

Pvt. G. E. Wilson, 22, of Mount Joy, Pa., a passenger, was credited with helping rescue several men from the burning wreckage. Witnesses, unable to say whether he was thrown from the wreckage or ran from it, said he reentered the plane and carried out several men. Wilson, who suffered shock, is a medic with the 325th Airborne Infantry Regiment of the 82nd Division.

16 Hurt In Train Wreck

GAGE, Okla., Oct. 6 (AP)—Sixteen persons were injured today, none seriously, when an eastbound Santa Fe passenger train was derailed 2½ miles west of here.

Red Minister Blasts London Defense Pact

Proposes Big Four Discuss Unification, End To Occupation

BERLIN, Oct. 6 (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov struck back tonight at new Allied plans for getting West Germany to join in European defense. He called for a Big Four meeting on German reunification and an immediate end to German occupation.

Molotov, who made a surprise flight to East Berlin last night, made his major policy speech at a meeting of ranking East German officials and representatives of a dozen Communist countries including Red China. The speech came on the eve of the fifth anniversary of the founding of the Soviet-dominated East German government.

Attempt To Wreck Pact

He condemned the recent nine-power Western Allied conference in London as making German unification impossible and greatly increasing the danger of European war. His proposals were seen as the first big guns in a Soviet campaign to wreck the decisions of the London conference.

"The Soviet government declares today," he said, "that it proposes anew to the governments of the United States, Britain, and France to conclude an agreement on the withdrawal of occupation troops from the territory of East and West Germany and to solve this question immediately."

"The acceptance of this proposal would ease the situation of the population in East as well as in West Germany for reunification of Germany."

State Dept. Not Excited

He said the recent decisions in London have "nothing to do with the re-establishment of true German sovereignty" or European security. He gave this description of the Allied negotiations to strengthen West European defenses and restore German sovereignty:

"Recently there have been negotiations in London and Bonn about a plan which provides that the occupation troops be stationed until the year 1998, that is until the end of the century, in West Germany.

"Whatever is said to justify this kind of plan, one cannot but state that it has nothing to do with the re-establishment of true German sovereignty nor with safeguarding true security for the peoples of Europe."

In Washington, the State Department was asked if it would have any comment on Molotov's speech. "We do not comment on speeches," replied Press Officer Henry Suydam.

Hurricane Threatens Netherlands Antilles

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 6 (AP)—Northwest storm warnings were posted tonight over the Netherlands Antilles and the coastal islands of Venezuela as hurricane Hazel, a small but violent tropical storm, neared that region.

The hurricane, packing top winds of more than 100 miles per hour, was expected to pass north of these islands during the night, bringing them into the path of its strong outer gales.

Islands in the Netherlands Antilles include Curacao and Aruba, where large refineries operated by the Standard and Royal Dutch Shell companies refine oil.

Prison Guards Who Walked Off Job Draw Suspensions

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., Oct. 6 (AP)—Penitentiary guards—who want union representation—walked off their jobs today at the Indiana State Prison and authorities promptly suspended them.

Prison operations were described as normal by Hugh O'Brien, state Correction Department chairman, who added that the demonstration walkout "had fizzled out."

Forty-six guards were suspended for 10 days. Seven of these were placed on the inactive list when they refused to sign cards saying they would remain loyal to the state.

The 39 others—nearly half the normal daytime force—failed to report for guard duty at 8 a.m. They were listed as absent without leave. O'Brien said 42 regular men were on the job today plus 25 recruits and eight night workers who remained over.

The walkout, which the union insists is not a strike, began as the midnight shift went off duty early this morning. A 20-man contingent in civilian clothes set up a picket line outside the walled prison.

Nine state troopers stood watch over the picketing, and National Guard units remained on the alert in Gary and Anderson in case of any disturbances in the big prison, which houses 2,274 inmates. Between 500 and 600 of these are "lifers."

Warden J. Ellis Overlade said the prisoners were scoffing at the walkout and showed no sympathy for the guards.

Overlade said the lifers were passing a petition among themselves condemning the union for an earlier statement that they would riot if National Guardsmen were brought into the prison.

The Administration Reports

Gains Made In Correcting Errors In Federal Fiscal Affairs

This is another in a series of articles by top executives in the Eisenhower administration and offered by the New York Herald Tribune Syndicate to some 1,600 daily newspapers throughout the country as a public service. The articles are designed as mid-term reports to the American people on the administration's accomplishments and plans.

By GEORGE HUMPHREY
Secretary of Treasury

I have been in business for nearly 40 years. I have been in government for only 20 months.

As a business man looking at government from the inside, I believe that the Eisenhower administration has been making real gains in correcting some errors we found in the operations of the fiscal and tax affairs of the government.

In business the quarterly reports of a company currently show pretty much whether it is doing well or not. While we don't have anything quite comparable in government, those of us who have come into government from business can see quite clearly that the steps taken so far by the Eisenhower administration have been for the good of all Americans by turning us away from waste, away from bigger and bigger deficit spending, and bigger and bigger tax loads, toward a promising new era of development for our nation.

Strengthening The Economy

The Eisenhower administration is trying to help strengthen the economy and to make more and better jobs. We know that we must continually have more jobs for the good of all citizens in our growing population. And we must have them to provide for the security of our nation.

Let's look at some of the things which have been done to help the economy grow stronger and make more jobs by correcting fiscal and economic errors which we found when we came into the government 20 months ago.

We found a deficit for the fiscal year 1953 of almost $9,500,000,000, about which the new Administration could do little at such a late date. And for fiscal year 1954, the prior administration had charted a deficit of nearly $10,000,000,000. The Eisenhower administration reduced the 1954 deficit to $3,000,000,000 and turned the trend away from bigger and bigger deficit financing by cutting planned spending $7,000,000,000 in that one year alone. We will keep on working every day, every week, and every month to make every possible saving which is not detrimental to the needs of our national security or stability in the economy.

Taxes Have Been Cut

By getting federal spending under better control, we have been able to cut down on the intolerable burden od taxes which the American people have borne for so long. In the present calendar year, taxes

Reds Free Marine Airman, GI Taken Captive In Korea

PANMUNJOM, Korea, Thursday Oct. 7 (AP)—The Communists yesterday startled the Allied Command by voluntarily returning a U. S. Marine flier and an Army private held captive for several months.

They are Lt. Col. Herbert A. Peters, Seattle, Wash., whose wife lives at Mountain View, Calif., and Pfc. Charles Julius of Orlando, Fla.

While the men had been listed as missing, it was reported the Allied Command had no positive knowledge that the Communists had captured them.

Rear Adm. Thomas Brittain, senior Allied member of the Military Armistice Commission, said that, "The men appeared in good health and said they were well treated by the Communists." Correspondents were not permitted to talk to them when they were handed over here.

Peters was taken captive Feb. 5 when his light plane ran out of gasoline and he was forced to land on a Communist air strip near the Red base of Kaesong northwest of Panmunjom.

Julius, an artilleryman, was picked up near Heartbreak Ridge on the eastern front May 25 after he stepped on a mine in the neutral zone.

He showed scars on his back and one leg but appeared to have recovered from his wounds.

Peters' plane also was returned. A Communist truck drove up to Panmunjom carrying the wing. Another carried the fuselage. Allied officers said the plane appeared to be undamaged.

Peters and Julius wore blue woolen civilian suits when they stepped from two Russian-made jeeps at Panmunjom.

Byrd Backs Local Option In Desegregating Schools

Demo Candidate Takes Same View As Maryland GOP

BALTIMORE, Oct. 6 (AP) — Democrat H. C. Byrd clarified his position on segregation tonight by calling for local option so that each county can handle problems "involving public education x x x on a local basis."

Byrd's stand put him on the same side with the State Republican administration. Atty. Gen. Edward D. E. Rollins has said he would recommend to the Supreme Court that the start of integration be left to the discretion of local school authorities.

The position of the Democratic candidate was made known in a statement issued by his Baltimore headquarters while Byrd, himself, discussed juvenile delinquency at a women's rally in Silver Spring.

"I should like to give frank expression a month before the election to my views with respect to the conduct of the State's public schools," Byrd said, "a matter with which the people are undoubtedly vitally concerned."

Byrd noted that it has "long been the policy of the State of Maryland to maintain separate but equal facilities for white and colored children in the schools" and that it has long been one of the duties of the State government to "promote good will and progress among all of our citizens, regardless of race or religion."

"It is apparent, however, that conditions not only differ in the various communities but the thinking of our people on this subject likewise differs in various communities.

"It therefore seems to me," Byrd said, "to be unwise to take such drastic steps as to end immediately an educational plan that has worked with increasing benefits to all concerned for many years, and particularly unwise to take such steps where there is strong and sincere opposition to such a change."

The former University of Maryland president said he is convinced "no group in any county is more conversant with the ramifications of this problem than the school boards of each county..."

Byrd's statement had been expected since Monday night when he hinted to an Eastern Shore audience that he felt immediate integration in all sections was not advisable.

He had said:

"You will want members of the school board appointed who will be able to deal and act in accordance with the age-old customs and traditions that have been a part of our way of life."

The statement touched off a hurried conference of Democratic political leaders yesterday, and a Byrd aide said a statement "clarifying" the candidate's views would be issued.

IKE HOOKS A TROUT — Taking advantage of a sunny, crisp autumn day, President Eisenhower went fishing yesterday on the South Platte River 40 miles southwest of Denver. He hooked a good-sized trout five minutes after he began whipping the stream at the ranch of a Denver friend, Bal Swan.

Navy Investigates Mixup In Nautilus Steam Piping

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6 (AP) — A Navy investigation is under way to fix responsibility for a mixup which resulted in the wrong kind of steam piping going into the atomic submarine Nautilis.

The Navy estimates that least three months will be needed to untangle the trouble and get the Nautilus ready for sailing.

The Navy said today that sections of a 1½-inch steamline in the world's first nuclear submarine contain welded piping instead of seamless tubing called for in the Navy's specifications.

It was a section of welded piping, bursting under a test Sept. 18, which led to discovery of the error, a Navy official said.

Pending completion of the inquiry, he said, it is impossible to say precisely where the blame lies whether it was failure by naval inspectors and workmen or a combination.

This official said that the seamless tubing passed naval inspection at the fabrication plant and was shipped from there to the Groton, Conn., yard of the Electric Boat division of General Dynamics Corp., where the Nautilus has been built.

The EB division, which has built hundreds of submersibles for the American and other Navies, stocks large quantities of 1½-inch pipe, both seamless and welded, he said, adding:

Somehow during installation of the steam system portions of the welded pipe were unwittingly mixed with seamless tubing, unnoticed either by inspectors or workmen.

Welded piping is used for comparatively low pressures, such as water lines, or for making stanchions. Seamless tubing is stressed for comparatively high pressure systems, such as steam lines. But the dimensions and general appearance of both are identical.

When once installed, it is impossible to detect the difference by ordinary ocular means, officials said.

The only way to determine which sections are the correct seamless tubing and which the welded piping is to make sample cuttings from each portion of the hundreds of feet of piping woven intricately into the machinery and framework of the Nautilus. Seamless tubing will be substituted for the welded pipe portions of the system.

Old Munitions Blow Up On Fortress Island

VERONA, Italy, Oct. 6 (AP)—A tiny World War I fortress island in scenic Lake Garda is blowing to bits in a series of terrific explosions of stored war materiel.

The explosions, which started late last night and continued into this afternoon, shattered windows in the lakeshore village of Assenza and drove its residents into the hills in alarm.

There were no reports of casualties. The island, Trimeloni de Malcesine, is not normally inhabited.

It was a World War I fortress island. After World War II the old fortress dungeons were used to store arms and munitions gathered up in this part of north Italy in the wake of the German retreat and Allied advance.

Cause of the explosions was not determined.

Three Bats Strike Tallest Building As "Radar" Fails

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 (AP)—Three bats and 123 birds batted their brains out early today against the Empire State Building, long a fatal landfall for migrants.

Bats are supposed to have a radar-like sense that keeps them from hitting things even in the dark, notes the National Audubon Society, and so these casualties were all the more remarkable. Bats had never been killed there before, insofar as is known.

Could be, a spokesman for the society suggested, that the television aerials on top of the quarter mile high tallest building in the world interfered with the "radar" fields of the bats.

Lutherans Re-Elect Dr. Fry President

TORONTO, Oct. 6 (AP)—Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, a leading figure of worldwide Protestantism, was today re-elected president of the United Lutheran Church in America. He promptly said the job isn't clear.

"I accept happily, and will serve you to the best of my ability, but I make that statement in somewhat of a quandry," he said. "I'm less sure than ever before what the office is to which I've been elected."

His reference was to a proposed big reorganization in the church to consolidate its administrative powers, and broaden the president's duties to make him the church's over-all "leader and counsellor."

"Homecoming" For Hoover Is Held By Commerce Dept.

WASHINGTON, Oct. ¾ (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover came back today to the Commerce Department, where, he said, he spent "eight years of the happiest period of my life."

He was speaking at a reunion with 871 Commerce Department employes who were on the payroll when he was secretary of commerce from 1921 to 1928.

The 80-year-old former chief of state told his audience the present is "a fortunate time" in American history, with the standard of living advancing despite "the burdens we carry."

Hoover's visit jogged long memories among his former associates. They recalled him as a man who liked to slip away for an afternoon of vaudeville and was handy with a buck for departmental charities and activities.

Hoover said this was only the third time he had been back to the department in the decades since he left office. "For some reason," he added, "the people who inhabited this place were not at all times entirely friendly to me."

Secretary of Commerce Weeks, who had set the day aside at the department as "Homecoming Day" for Hoover, presented him with the Commerce Department secretarial flag. "It is something you forgot to take when you left," he told Hoover. The 5 by 3½ foot nylon flag of the secretary of commerce has a blue field, four large white stars, with a white shield in the center crested with a blue sailing ship and lighthouse.

Weeks introduced Hoover as "a great humanitarian, who, he said, had grown steadily in general esteem. In preparation for the homecoming day, Weeks' office prodded memories of old timers at the department for recollections of the President-to-be of the 1920's.

In those days, according to the resulting informal biography from Weeks office:

Hoover often dug into his pocket to make up deficiencies in charity collections at the department.

He also put up the money to field a Commerce Department baseball team in full uniform and equipment.

But he was known to go away on official trips without a cent in his pocket.

French Red Boss Denies Receiving Military Secrets

PARIS, Oct. 6 (AP)—Jacques Duclos, French Communist chieftain, denied today having a hand in the mysterious leak of defense secrets to the Reds. He hurled such epithets as "French McCarthyist" and "dirty dog" at his accuser.

Duclos was grilled by an examining magistrate—one-man equivalent of a grand jury—on statements yesterday by Andre Baranes, a leftist newspaperman and police informer, that he had passed on secret information to Duclos. Baranes said Duclos laughed in his face, saying, "We already have that."

Baranes' Story Denied

Those attending the closed session said Duclos denied Baranes had ever given him secret data, declaring:

"The Communist party does not need to be informed by a cop."

He was apparently referring to Police Inspector Jean Dides, whose suspension when he was found with secret documents touched of the probe. Dides in turn said he got the documents from Baranes and was preparing to turn them over to higher authorities.

Attacks On Party Denounced

The acting head of the French Communist party during the long illness of Maurice Thorez, Duclos said the attacks on the party in connection with the defense leaks was "to discredit it and its patriotic policy."

"We are in the presence of an organization in America's pay, the aim of which is to fight all those in France who do not yield to orders from Washington," Duclos said.

Civilian Orientation Conference Opens

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6 (AP)—About 80 civilian representatives of all walks of American industrial, educational and business life gathered here tonight for the Defense Department's 19th Civilian Orientation Conference.

The visitors met as a group for the first time at a cocktail party. Tomorrow will be devoted to military briefings given by the civilian and military chiefs of the services.

From Washington the group will go to Quantico, Va., Friday for a demonstration of Marine Corps amphibious landing techniques.

Pair Who Robbed Cab Driver Sent To Prison

BALTIMORE, Oct. 6 (AP) — A 20-year-old Hagerstown youth and his 24-year-old companion from Baltimore were sentenced to prison today for robbing a Hagerstown taxicab driver after he had driven them to Baltimore.

Judge S. Ralph Warnken sentenced John F. Gensler of Baltimore to seven years in the House of Correction and Harry L. Peck, 20 of Hagerstown to five years in the State Reformatory for Males.

Italian Officers Enter Trieste

TRIESTE, Oct. 6 (AP)—Ten Italian officers entered the territory of Trieste today in a ceremony heralding the imminent departure of American and British troops.

The rites were brief but historic. It was the first time in 11 years that an Italian soldier had come to this long-disputed area in an official capacity.

The delegation was headed by Maj. Gen. Edmondo de Renzi, designated as governor extraordinary of the Trieste zone being restored to Italy under the Yugoslav-Italian agreements initialed in London yesterday.

He will take over the military government from the allies when the last of the British and American garrison troops leave, presumably by the end of October.

At ancient Duino Castle, De Renzi met the man who now commands the Allied zone A, British Gen. Sir John Winterton. The meeting was highlighted by the flash of press cameras, but the two men discussed privately the outlines of the change-over plan.

Crump Suffers Relapse

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 6 (AP) — E. H. Crump, ailing leader of the Shelby County political organization, suffered a relapse today. His physician said Crump is critically ill.

The 80-year-old politico is "much weaker and I consider him critically sick," the doctor said. "It is cardiac trouble and oxygen is the only stimulant being given."

Air Force Men Help Maine Farmers Save Spud Crop

PRESQUE ISLE, Maine, Oct. 6 (AP)—Men of the U.S. Air Force traveled along rows of potatoes instead of the skyways today trying to harvest Maine spuds before frost ruins them in the ground.

Several hundred military personnel from the huge Loring Air Force Base at Limestone and the Presque Isle AFB here volunteered to join an inadequate force of harvesters hampered by heavy rain.

Farmers in trucks and automobiles lined up at air base gates, ready to transport to their fields the men given special leave. Loring has 5,000 personnel and Presque Isle 2,000.

Employment service managers, scouring Maine and bordering Canadian provinces for help, hoped that the extra money brought back to the bases nightly by the airmen harvesters would influence others to forsake the air for the ground.

Only 35 per cent of the estimated 39 million bushels of tubers have been taken from the fertile Aroostook County soil which usually yields the nation's most bountiful crop. The rain and cold weather cut the harvest about 25 per cent below last year's.

This crisis is the second in a row for Maine potato farmers. Last year, with a bumper crop, the price sagged to the lowest point in history.

"The situation doesn't look so good," said Elliott Barker, Caribou manager for the Maine Employment Security Commission. Barker went to New Brunswick today but was able to recruit only 56 workers. Right now Canada needs the manpower to harvest its own potatoes.

Five Huge Oil Tanks And Warehouse Burn

EL DORADO, Ark., Oct. 6 (AP)—A spectacular fire that raged out of control for two hours this afternoon destroyed five huge oil storage tanks, a warehouse and a district sales office.

The fire was brought under control about 3 p.m. today after threatening three other oil tanks at a Lion Oil Co. bulk storage station in a thinly populated area on the south fringe of El Dorado.

Kenneth George, El Dorado fireman, was hospitalized from heat prostration. His condition was described as good by hospital attendants.

John H. Gray, public relations director for Lion Oil, said that a total of 62,000 gallons of gasoline, kerosene, Diesel fuel and tractor distillate were lost.

Sir Roderic Hill Dies

LONDON, Oct. 6 (AP)—Sir Roderic Hill, 60, retired air chief marshal who was largely responsible for Britain's effective defense against the Nazi flying bombs of World War II, died today on a London street.

School Honors Will Be Denied Demonstrators

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6 (AP)—Pupils who stay out of Washington schools in protest against mixing whites and Negroes will be barred from holding school office or taking part in athletics if they don't return by Friday morning.

Dr. Hobart M. Corning, superintendent of schools, laid down the ruling tonight. He also asked adults, especially parents, to "use their mature leadership in ending a situation which has now become disgraceful and dangerous."

Some 50 white boys and girls protesting school integration staged a brief demonstration at the Supreme Court building today. Police moved them away after one youth wrote "we want our rights" in red letters on the white marble steps.

The protest, latest in an apparently waning series of strikes and other manifestations in Washington, was aimed at the court's decision last May that segregation of white and Negro pupils in public schools is unconstitutional.

Dr. Corning's ruling instructed principals of schools "where such absences are now occuring. . . to declare absentees who will not have returned to school by Friday morning Oct. 8 ineligible to receive or enjoy school honors during the balance of the present school year."

He said this would mean students absent after Thursday would disqualify themselves from holding commissions or warrants in the Cadet Corps, from representing the schools on athletic teams, in rifle matches or in music and dramatic performances, from holding positions on publications, and from holding office in organizations or clubs that come under direction of the school.

At Anacostia High School one of three high schools involved in three-day-old disturbances, a back-to-classes rally arranged by school authorities broke up in confusion, and some 750 pupils remained away from school.

Bryant Bowles, head of the recently organized National Assn. for the Advancement of White People, put in an appearance at the Anacostia rally but did not address it. Bowles has been active in organizing opposition to mixing of Negro and white pupils in Milford, Del., and elsewhere.

The position of the Democratic candidate was made known in a statement issued by his Baltimore headquarters while Byrd, himself, discussed juvenile delinquency at a women's rally in Silver Spring.

"I should like to give frank expression a month before the election to my views with respect to the conduct of the State's public schools," Byrd said, "a matter with which the people are undoubtedly vitally concerned."

Byrd noted that it has "long been the policy of the State of Maryland to maintain separate but equal facilities for white and colored children in the schools" and that it has long been one of the duties of the State government to "promote good will and progress among all of our citizens, regardless of race or religion."

"It is apparent, however, that conditions not only differ in the various communities but the thinking of our people on this subject likewise differs in various communities.

"It therefore seems to me," Byrd said, "to be unwise to take such drastic steps as to end immediately an educational plan that has worked with increasing benefits to all concerned for many years, and particularly unwise to take such steps where there is strong and sincere opposition to such a change."

The former University of Maryland president said he is convinced "no group in any county is more conversant with the ramifications of this problem than the school boards of each county..."

Byrd's statement had been expected since Monday night when he hinted to an Eastern Shore audience that he felt immediate integration in all sections was not advisable.

He had said:

"You will want members of the school board appointed who will be able to deal and act in accordance with the age-old customs and traditions that have been a part of our way of life."

The statement touched off a hurried conference of Democratic political leaders yesterday, and a Byrd aide said a statement "clarifying" the candidate's views would be issued.

IKE HOOKS A TROUT — Taking advantage of a sunny, crisp autumn day, President Eisenhower went fishing yesterday on the South Platte River 40 miles southwest of Denver. He hooked a good-sized trout five minutes after he began whipping the stream at the ranch of a Denver friend, Bal Swan.

Navy Investigates Mixup In Nautilus Steam Piping

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6 (AP) — A Navy investigation is under way to fix responsibility for a mixup which resulted in the wrong kind of steam piping going into the atomic submarine Nautilis.

The Navy estimates that least three months will be needed to untangle the trouble and get the Nautilus ready for sailing.

The Navy said today that sections of a 1½-inch steamline in the world's first nuclear submarine contain welded piping instead of seamless tubing called for in the Navy's specifications.

It was a section of welded piping, bursting under a test Sept. 18, which led to discovery of the error, a Navy official said.

Pending completion of the inquiry, he said, it is impossible to say precisely where the blame lies whether it was failure by naval inspectors and workmen or a combination.

This official said that the seamless tubing passed naval inspection at the fabrication plant and was shipped from there to the Groton, Conn., yard of the Electric Boat division of General Dynamics Corp., where the Nautilus has been built.

The EB division, which has built hundreds of submersibles for the American and other Navies, stocks large quantities of 1½-inch pipe, both seamless and welded, he said, adding:

Somehow during installation of the steam system portions of the welded pipe were unwittingly mixed with seamless tubing, unnoticed either by inspectors or workmen.

Welded piping is used for comparatively low pressures, such as water lines, or for making stanchions. Seamless tubing is stressed for comparatively high pressure systems, such as steam lines. But the dimensions and general appearance of both are identical.

When once installed, it is impossible to detect the difference by ordinary ocular means, officials said.

The only way to determine which sections are the correct seamless tubing and which the welded piping is to make sample cuttings from each portion of the hundreds of feet of piping woven intricately into the machinery and framework of the Nautilus. Seamless tubing will be substituted for the welded pipe portions of the system.

Old Munitions Blow Up On Fortress Island

VERONA, Italy, Oct. 6 (AP)—A tiny World War I fortress island in scenic Lake Garda is blowing to bits in a series of terrific explosions of stored war materiel.

The explosions, which started late last night and continued into this afternoon, shattered windows in the lakeshore village of Assenza and drove its residents into the hills in alarm.

There were no reports of casualties. The island, Trimeloni de Malcesine, is not normally inhabited.

It was a World War I fortress island. After World War II the old fortress dungeons were used to store arms and munitions gathered up in this part of north Italy in the wake of the German retreat and Allied advance.

Cause of the explosions was not determined.

Lutherans Re-Elect Dr. Fry President

TORONTO, Oct. 6 (AP)—Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, a leading figure of worldwide Protestantism, was today re-elected president of the United Lutheran Church in America. He promptly said the job isn't clear.

"I accept happily, and will serve you to the best of my ability, but I make that statement in somewhat of a quandry," he said. "I'm less sure than ever before what the office is to which I've been elected."

His reference was to a proposed big reorganization in the church to consolidate its administrative powers, and broaden the president's duties to make him the church's over-all "leader and counsellor."

Three Bats Strike Tallest Building As "Radar" Fails

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 (AP)—Three bats and 123 birds batted their brains out early today against the Empire State Building, long a fatal landfall for migrants.

Bats are supposed to have a radar-like sense that keeps them from hitting things even in the dark, notes the National Audubon Society, and so these casualties were all the more remarkable. Bats had never been killed there before, insofar as is known.

Could be, a spokesman for the society suggested, that the television aerials on top of the quarter mile high tallest building in the world interfered with the "radar" fields of the bats.

"Homecoming" For Hoover Is Held By Commerce Dept.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6 (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover came back today to the Commerce Department, where, he said, he spent "eight years of the happiest period of my life."

He was speaking at a reunion with 871 Commerce Department employes who were on the payroll when he was secretary of commerce from 1921 to 1928.

The 80-year-old former chief of state told his audience the present is "a fortunate time" in American history, with the standard of living advancing despite "the burdens we carry."

Hoover's visit jogged long memories among his former associates. They recalled him as a man who liked to slip away for an afternoon of vaudeville and was handy with a buck for departmental charities and activities.

Hoover said this was only the third time he had been back to the department in the decades since he left office. "For some reason," he added, "the people who inhabited this place were not at all times entirely friendly to me."

Secretary of Commerce Weeks, who had set the day aside at the department as "Homecoming Day" for Hoover, presented him with the Commerce Department secretarial flag. "It is something you forgot to take when you left," he told Hoover. The 5 by 3½ foot nylon flag of the secretary of commerce has a blue field, four large white stars, with a white shield in the center crested with a blue sailing ship and lighthouse.

Weeks introduced Hoover as "a great humanitarian, who, he said, had grown steadily in general esteem. In preparation for the homecoming day, Weeks' office prodded memories of old timers at the department for recollections of the President-to-be of the 1920's.

In those days, according to the resulting informal biography from Weeks office:

Hoover often dug into his pocket to make up deficiencies in charity collections at the department.

He also put up the money to field a Commerce Department baseball team in full uniform and equipment.

But he was known to go away on official trips without a cent in his pocket.

French Red Boss Denies Receiving Military Secrets

PARIS, Oct. 6 (AP)—Jacques Duclos, French Communist chieftain, denied today having a hand in the mysterious leak of defense secrets to the Reds. He hurled such epithets as "French McCarthyist" and "dirty dog" at his accuser.

Duclos was grilled by an examining magistrate—one-man equivalent of a grand jury—on statements yesterday by Andre Baranes, a leftist newspaperman and police informer, that he had passed on secret information to Duclos. Baranes said Duclos laughed in his face, saying, "We already have that."

Baranes' Story Denied

Those attending the closed session said Duclos denied Baranes had ever given him secret data, declaring:

"The Communist party does not need to be informed by a cop."

He was apparently referring to Police Inspector Jean Dides, whose suspension when he was found with secret documents touched of the probe. Dides in turn said he got the documents from Baranes and was preparing to turn them over to higher authorities.

Attacks On Party Denounced

The acting head of the French Communist party during the long illness of Maurice Thorez, Duclos said the attacks on the party in connection with the defense leaks was "to discredit it and its patriotic policy."

"We are in the presence of an organization in America's pay, the aim of which is to fight all those in France who do not yield to orders from Washington," Duclos said.

Civilian Orientation Conference Opens

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6 (AP)—About 80 civilian representatives of all walks of American industrial, educational and business life gathered here tonight for the Defense Department's 19th Civilian Orientation Conference.

The visitors met as a group for the first time at a cocktail party. Tomorrow will be devoted to military briefings given by the civilian and military chiefs of the services.

Pair Who Robbed Cab Driver Sent To Prison

BALTIMORE, Oct. 6 (AP) — A 20-year-old Hagerstown youth and his 24-year-old companion from Baltimore were sentenced to prison today for robbing a Hagerstown taxicab driver after he had driven them to Baltimore.

Judge S. Ralph Warnken sentenced John F. Gensler of Baltimore to seven years in the House of Correction and Harry L. Peck, 20 of Hagerstown to five years in the State Reformatory for Males.

Italian Officers Enter Trieste

TRIESTE, Oct. 6 (AP)—Ten Italian officers entered the territory of Trieste today in a ceremony heralding the imminent departure of American and British troops.

The rites were brief but historic. It was the first time in 11 years that an Italian soldier had come to this long-disputed area in an official capacity.

The delegation was headed by Maj. Gen. Edmondo de Renzi, designated as governor extraordinary of the Trieste zone being restored to Italy under the Yugoslav-Italian agreements initialed in London yesterday.

He will take over the military government from the allies when the last of the British and American garrison troops leave, presumably by the end of October.

At ancient Duino Castle, De Renzi met the man who now commands the Allied zone A, British Gen. Sir John Winterton. The meeting was highlighted by the flash of press cameras, but the two men discussed privately the outlines of the change-over plan.

Crump Suffers Relapse

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 6 (AP) — E. H. Crump, ailing leader of the Shelby County political organization, suffered a relapse today. His physician said Crump is critically ill.

The 80-year-old politico is "much weaker and I consider him critically sick," the doctor said. "It is cardiac trouble and oxygen is the only stimulant being given."

Air Force Men Help Maine Farmers Save Spud Crop

PRESQUE ISLE, Maine, Oct. 6 (AP)—Men of the U.S. Air Force traveled along rows of potatoes instead of the skyways today trying to harvest Maine spuds before frost ruins them in the ground.

Several hundred military personnel from the huge Loring Air Force Base at Limestone and the Presque Isle AFB here volunteered to join an inadequate force of harvesters hampered by heavy rain.

Farmers in trucks and automobiles lined up at air base gates, ready to transport to their fields the men given special leave. Loring has 5,000 personnel and Presque Isle 2,000.

Employment service managers, scouring Maine and bordering Canadian provinces for help, hoped that the extra money brought back to the bases nightly by the airmen harvesters would influence others to forsake the air for the ground.

Only 35 per cent of the estimated 39 million bushels of tubers have been taken from the fertile Aroostook County soil which usually yields the nation's most bountiful crop. The rain and cold weather cut the harvest about 25 per cent below last year's.

This crisis is the second in a row for Maine potato farmers. Last year, with a bumper crop, the price sagged to the lowest point in history.

"The situation doesn't look so good," said Elliott Barker, Caribou manager for the Maine Employment Security Commission. Barker went to New Brunswick today but was able to recruit only 56 workers. Right now Canada needs the manpower to harvest its own potatoes.

Five Huge Oil Tanks And Warehouse Burn

EL DORADO, Ark., Oct. 6 (AP)—A spectacular fire that raged out of control for two hours this afternoon destroyed five huge oil storage tanks, a warehouse and a district sales office.

The fire was brought under control about 3 p.m. today after threatening three other oil tanks at a Lion Oil Co. bulk storage station in a thinly populated area on the south fringe of El Dorado.

Kenneth George, El Dorado fireman, was hospitalized from heat prostration. His condition was described as good by hospital attendants.

John H. Gray, public relations director for Lion Oil, said that a total of 62,000 gallons of gasoline, kerosene, Diesel fuel and tractor distillate were lost.

School Honors Will Be Denied Demonstrators

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6 (AP)—Pupils who stay out of Washington schools in protest against mixing whites and Negroes will be barred from holding school office or taking part in athletics if they don't return by Friday morning.

Dr. Hobart M. Corning, superintendent of schools, laid down the ruling tonight. He also asked adults, especially parents, to "use their mature leadership in ending a situation which has now become disgraceful and dangerous."

Some 50 white boys and girls protesting school integration staged a brief demonstration at the Supreme Court building today. Police moved them away after one youth wrote "we want our rights" in red letters on the white marble steps.

The protest, latest in an apparently waning series of strikes and other manifestations in Washington, was aimed at the court's decision last May that segregation of white and Negro pupils in public schools is unconstitutional.

Dr. Corning's ruling instructed principals of schools "where such absences are now occuring. . . to declare absentees who will not have returned to school by Friday morning Oct. 8 ineligible to receive or enjoy school honors during the balance of the present school year."

He said this would mean students absent after Thursday would disqualify themselves from holding commissions or warrants in the Cadet Corps, from representing the schools on athletic teams, in rifle matches or in music and dramatic performances, from holding positions on publications, and from holding office in organizations or clubs that come under direction of the school.

At Anacostia High School one of three high schools involved in three-day-old disturbances, a back-to-classes rally arranged by school authorities broke up in confusion, and some 750 pupils remained away from school.

Bryant Bowles, head of the recently organized National Assn. for the Advancement of White People, put in an appearance at the Anacostia rally but did not address it. Bowles has been active in organizing opposition to mixing of Negro and white pupils in Milford, Del., and elsewhere.

Baltimore School Attendance Near Normal; Police On Alert

Segregation Issue Appears Fading Out

BALTIMORE, Oct. 6 (AP)—School attendance was nearly back to normal today after a wave of anti-integration demonstrations that at one time embraced nine Baltimore schools.

Today, only one school reported attendance that didn't approach normal: No. 34 where action aimed at reviving segregation was spawned last Thursday.

At Southern High School, scene of the only violence in the uprising, attendance was normal—92.5 per cent.

Attendance at No. 34, by contrast, was only 74 per cent. But even this was a sharp improvement over last Thursday.

In the other schools affected during demonstrations and picketing last Thursday, Friday and Monday, there continued the upward trend to normal attendance.

A detail of 50 policemen was on duty at Southern High today.

Principal Clara Crockett said some adults appeared at school No. 34 this morning and a few asked permission to picket. Police told them they would be arrested if they interferred with school functions.

Dr. John H. Fisher, superintendent of schools, referred to school attendance law yesterday in ordering pupils to be in class today "without fail."

Judge James K. Cullen of the Baltimore Supreme Bench strengthened the stand of school authorities yesterday when he refused to order a return of segregation as requested by the National Association for the Advancement of White People and the Maryland Petition Committee.

Sister Of Ocean City Mayor Killed By Car

OCEAN CITY, Md., Oct. 6 (AP)—Mrs. Margaret Trimper Selby, about 80, sister of Ocean City's Mayor Daniel Trimper Jr., was struck and killed by an automobile today as she took her customary walk along U. S. 50.

Despite her advanced years, it was Mrs. Selby's custom to walk the mile from her home in West Ocean City into Ocean City daily.

State Trooper First Class James Monaghan said a preliminary investigation showed that Mrs. Selby was hit by an automobile operated by Philip James Townsend, 30, of Frankfort, Del. The trooper said Mrs. Selby apparently walked in front of the car.

Ex-Wife Denies General's Charge Of Misconduct

BALTIMORE, Oct. 6 (AP)—The ex-wife of a retired general today denied misconduct described by her former husband who is seeking custody of their son.

On the stand was Mrs. George M. Bunker, now the wife of the president of the Glenn L. Martin Aircraft Co. She was divorced last February from Brig. Milton Wylie Arnold, a retired Air Force general.

The general yesterday accused his ex-wife of misconduct with an English Air Wing commander and with a veterinarian in Howard County.

The proceedings are before Judge E. Paul Mason in Circuit Court, where Mrs. Bunker and Arnold, now living in Georgetown, are engaged in a custody battle over their 7-year-old adopted son, Wylie.

Erickson Tells Of Beard Payoff

BALTIMORE, Oct. 6 (AP) — Frank Erickson, once a multi-million dollar gamblers' boss, testified in Federal Court today that he once paid Washington gambler Samuel R. Beard $180,000 in bets in 1945.

Beard is on trial on charges of evading payments of $1,600,000 in income taxes for the years 1944, 1946 and 1947.

Erickson's gambling empire collapsed in 1950 when he was sent to prison.

He acknowledged under cross-examination that the huge payoff to Beard was actually for his customers and that checks were made out to them totaling that amount.

Erickson, who served time in prison on gambling and income tax evasion charges, was subpoenaed by U. S. Attorney George Cochran Doub.

He was ordered to testify to support government charges that Beard took in enormous amounts of money through gambling.

Construction Company Employe, $8,000 Missing

TOWSON, Md., Oct. 6 (AP)—Police today widened their search for 45-year-old William R. Runkle, of Parkville, accused of running away with $8,000 of his employer's funds.

Runkle is an officer in the Wallace Construction Co. The firm obtained a warrant for his arrest charging that he pocketed down payments on seven houses.

North America has about 225 million people.

SRC Says Byrd Tunnel Figures 'Far Out Of Line'

BALTIMORE, Oct. 6 (AP) — The State Roads Commission said today it will spend no more than $9,772,000 for rights of way for the 144-million dollar tunnel it plans to build under Baltimore harbor.

Its statement was in reply to a declaration by H. C. Byrd, Democratic candidate for governor, that the rights of way would cost 20 to 40 million.

The commission—two Republicans and a Democrat, all appointed by Republican Gov. McKeldin—said Byrd was "far out of line with the facts."

The commission, with half a dozen advisers, labored most of the day over a page and a half statement it issued in reply to Byrd.

Byrd had criticized the commission for employing two Baltimore real estate firms to round up the land for the tunnel and approaches, saying they would get 1½ to 3 millions in fees.

The commission said today the David M. Nichols and William Martien companies will get no more than $732,900, perhaps considerably less, under a contract signed with them in June.

Byrd particularly criticized the Nichols part of the arrangement. Nichols served as a member of the Roads Commission up until a few weeks before he and his firm were employed to help buy the rights of way. He was the Democratic minority member of the commission at Gov. McKeldin's appointment.

The commission reiterated each of the two firms is to get 3¾ per cent, a total of seven per cent, on the cost of the property they help acquire. It had pointed out previously outside agencies received commissions of 10 to 13 per cent for buying up rights of way from the Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana turnpikes.

Removes Son

Woman Says Spring Grove Security Ward 'Snake Pit'

LEONARDTOWN, Md., Oct. 6 (AP)—A prominent St. Marys County woman has removed her son from Spring Grove State Hospital, charging the mental institution's maximum security ward is a dirty, unkempt "snake pit."

Mrs. Stuart Edmonds of Clements charged that her 37-year-old son, Charles Sidney, was herded into a ward with 90 dangerous men where his person and clothing were dirty and at one time bloody from a nose bleed administered him by a fellow inmate three days earlier.

The St. Marys Beacon, weekly county newspaper, printed a story in its Thursday edition which was off the presses today, quoting Mrs. Edmonds as saying she has placed her son in Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore for care.

After complaining to the county commissioners, Mrs. Edmonds, who operates three St. Marys County farms, wrote reports to the board, the County Health Department and Gov. McKeldin.

She said she placed her son in the state institution last March on advice of a psychiatrist. The son was suffering from a nervous condition as a result of encephalitis (inflamation of the brain).

She said the conditions at the Hamilton Building and the convalescent cottage where she first visited him were "very near as perfect as possible," but that in July he was moved to the maximum security section. Her son said he was told by a social worker at the hospital that his condition would not get any better, she said.

Ex-Wife Denies General's Charge Of Misconduct

BALTIMORE, Oct. 6 (AP)—The ex-wife of a retired general today denied misconduct described by her former husband who is seeking custody of their son.

On the stand was Mrs. George M. Bunker, now the wife of the president of the Glenn L. Martin Aircraft Co. She was divorced last February from Brig. Milton Wylie Arnold, a retired Air Force general.

The general yesterday accused his ex-wife of misconduct with an English Air Wing commander and with a veterinarian in Howard County.

The proceedings are before Judge E. Paul Mason in Circuit Court, where Mrs. Bunker and Arnold, now living in Georgetown, are engaged in a custody battle over their 7-year-old adopted son, Wylie.

Erickson Tells Of Beard Payoff

BALTIMORE, Oct. 6 (AP) — Frank Erickson, once a multi-million dollar gamblers' boss, testified in Federal Court today that he once paid Washington gambler Samuel R. Beard $180,000 in bets in 1945.

Beard is on trial on charges of evading payments of $1,600,000 in income taxes for the years 1944, 1946 and 1947.

Erickson's gambling empire collapsed in 1950 when he was sent to prison.

He acknowledged under cross-examination that the huge payoff to Beard was actually for his customers and that checks were made out to them totaling that amount.

Erickson, who served time in prison on gambling and income tax evasion charges, was subpoenaed by U. S. Attorney George Cochran Doub.

He was ordered to testify to support government charges that Beard took in enormous amounts of money through gambling.

SRC Says Byrd Tunnel Figures 'Far Out Of Line'

BALTIMORE, Oct. 6 (AP) — The State Roads Commission said today it will spend no more than $9,772,000 for rights of way for the 144-million dollar tunnel it plans to build under Baltimore harbor.

Its statement was in reply to a declaration by H. C. Byrd, Democratic candidate for governor, that the rights of way would cost 20 to 40 million.

The commission—two Republicans and a Democrat, all appointed by Republican Gov. McKeldin—said Byrd was "far out of line with the facts."

The commission, with half a dozen advisers, labored most of the day over a page and a half statement it issued in reply to Byrd.

Byrd had criticized the commission for employing two Baltimore real estate firms to round up the land for the tunnel and approaches, saying they would get 1½ to 3 millions in fees.

The commission said today the David M. Nichols and William Martien companies will get no more than $732,900, perhaps considerably less, under a contract signed with them in June.

Byrd particularly criticized the Nichols part of the arrangement. Nichols served as a member of the Roads Commission up until a few weeks before he and his firm were employed to help buy the rights of way. He was the Democratic minority member of the commission at Gov. McKeldin's appointment.

The commission reiterated each of the two firms is to get 3¾ per cent, a total of seven per cent, on the cost of the property they help acquire. It had pointed out previously outside agencies received commissions of 10 to 13 per cent for buying up rights of way from the Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana turnpikes.

Woman Says Spring Grove Security Ward 'Snake Pit'

LEONARDTOWN, Md., Oct. 6 (AP)—A prominent St. Marys County woman has removed her son from Spring Grove State Hospital, charging the mental institution's maximum security ward is a dirty, unkempt "snake pit."

Mrs. Stuart Edmonds of Clements charged that her 37-year-old son, Charles Sidney, was herded into a ward with 90 dangerous men where his person and clothing were dirty and at one time bloody from a nose bleed administered him by a fellow inmate three days earlier.

The St. Marys Beacon, weekly county newspaper, printed a story in its Thursday edition which was off the presses today, quoting Mrs. Edmonds as saying she has placed her son in Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore for care.

After complaining to the county commissioners, Mrs. Edmonds, who operates three St. Marys County farms, wrote reports to the board, the County Health Department and Gov. McKeldin.

She said she placed her son in the state institution last March on advice of a psychiatrist. The son was suffering from a nervous condition as a result of encephalitis (inflamation of the brain).

She said the conditions at the Hamilton Building and the convalescent cottage where she first visited him were "very near as perfect as possible," but that in July he was moved to the maximum security section. Her son said he was told by a social worker at the hospital that his condition would not get any better, she said.

Farmer's Daughter Takes Message Of Faith To Rural Areas In Pulpit-On-Wheels

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 (AP)—Bouncing along a Midwestern country road today is a strange-looking vehicle—a sort of pulpit-on-wheels.

Inside is a trim, blue-eyed farmer's daughter, who once wanted to be a foreign missionary but who switched her sights to rural America.

"That's where my work belongs," said the Rev. Leila Anderson. "They're the people I know."

Miss Anderson is the "pilgrim circuit rider" for the Congregational Christian churches. She traveled 20,000 miles last year pumping new life into isolated country churches.

"I don't know how I could ever settle down now," she said. "every day is fresh and different, and brings some new inspiration. I love it."

This Illinois-born lady minister, now in her mid-30's, can milk a cow or shuck corn. She also holds degrees from several universities. She's the first woman to be given such a job by her denomination since circuit riders made the rounds on horseback.

"It's even more important now," she said during a visit here. "There are so many more places that need and want guidance, encouragement and contact with the overall work of the churches."

Traveling alone in her specially built station wagon, its rear section an efficient storehouse for training materials and personal equipment, Miss Anderson has visited nearly 200 out-of-the-way churches.

"My car is my home," she said, "I'm equipped for everything—cooking, sleeping, even washing and ironing my clothes."

"The objective," she said, "is to provide the small rural churches with the inspiration for doing a better spiritual job, and to show them some of the tools for getting that job done more effectively."

She began her hamlet-hopping tour in August 1953 in Douglas, Wyo. Since then, she has circulated through the back country of Utah, Idaho, Washington, Oregon, northern California, Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado, Montana, South Dakota, North Dakota, and parts of Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota, where she is touring now.

"Our fellowship has become more conscious of the importance of the rural churches," she said. "It is necessary for them to have assurance that they are part of a fellowship that cares."

Miss Anderson's journeys into remote sections have been punctuated with incidental drama, and occasional mishaps.

At each stop, Miss Anderson goes into a busy whirl of lectures, interviews, conferences, instructing the congregation on how to set up various programs, on duties of deacons and trustees, on Sunday School teaching methods, on forming youth groups and men's and women's service units.

Usually, she spends only one or two days at each church. In Kansas, she hit a record of two churches a day for three straight weeks leaving behind a bustle of activity, literature and advice.

When she moves on, a trail of letters follows her.

"It's surprising," she said, "how close friends can become in a one-day visit when you're concerned about the spiritual job we're doing."

Miss Anderson, whose parents live on a farm at La Moille, Ill., specialized in counseling, mission work and teaching at the United Presbyterian College, Monmouth, Ill., and the University of Chicago.

She taught at Ozark Mountain School and Iberia Junior College before joining the Congregationalists' Home Missions Board, later working with the Sioux Indians in the Dakotas.

The churches Miss Anderson has visited have congregations ranging from 15 to 300. Some of them are more than 100 miles from a railroad or the nearest neighbor church.

By the summer of 1956, she expects to have touched the most needy rural areas in every state, and then hopes to start over again.

Ohio Election May Be Decided In Cleveland Industrial Area

Editors Note: This is another of several stories by roving Associated Press reporters analyzing the campaign in key state.

By DON WHITEHEAD

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 6 (AP)—The November voting of industrial Cleveland and its suburbs in Cuyahoga County appeared today to hold the answer to whether a Democrat or a Republican will occupy the Senate seat of Ohio's late Sen. Robert A. Taft.

Political analysts hereabouts are inclined to look on Cuyahoga County as the key to the whole riddle of whether the new Ohio senator will be Republican George H. Bender, or Democratic Sen. Thomas A. Burke. They are running for the two years remaining of Taft's 6-year term.

The experts figure it this way: If Burke can swamp Bender in the Cleveland area, he's a winner. But if Bender gets anywhere near an even break in the Cleveland vote, he'll walk off with the election.

Burke said in an interview: "I agree if I can come out of Cuyahoga County with a 100,000 majority over Bender, then I'll win. I'm inclined to think the Cuyahoga vote will be the determining factor in the race." Cuyahoga County casts about one-fifth of the total state vote.

This situation is all the more interesting since Cuyahoga County is the home district of both Burke and Bender. Burke was mayor of Cleveland for nine years before he was appointed Oct. 12, 1953, by Democratic Gov. Frank J. Lausche to hold Taft's seat until the general election this fall. Bender's congressional district is the 23rd just outside Cleveland.

Bender's main strength may prove to be in the downstate Republican strongholds, but Burke is working hard to build up his own appeal in that area.

Bender's name is well known across the state from past races he ran for the office of representative-at-large. He is rounding out 14 years in Congress and 34 years in Ohio politics. There were times when he even outran Taft and Sen. John W. Bricker (R-Ohio). Also he gained considerable attention as the tub-thumping cheer leader for Taft at the 1952 GOP national convention.

Some people say this episode will hurt him more than it will help come November.

In the GOP primary, Bender was opposed for the Senate nomination by Ohio House Speaker William Saxbe of Mechanicsburg, a lawyer and World War II bomber pilot. Saxbe ripped into Bender as a "psalm-singing, bell-ringing voice of doom" for Taft and said he represented the "ward-heeler" type of politician.

Since these harsh words, Saxbe has come around to supporting Bender in the name of harmony, but the Democrats lose no chance in reminding voters of this language coming from the lips of a Republican.

Ohio's 1952 voting record sheds little light on what might be expected in November. Eisenhower carried the state in 1952 by 2,100,391 votes to 1,600,367 for Democratic nominee Adlai Stevenson. In Cuyahoga County, Eisenhower's majority was less than 5,000 in a total of 350,000 votes cast.

Despite the Eisenhower steamroller, Gov. Lausche rolled up a 2,015,110 vote total in the state and outran Eisenhower 408,453 to 329,465 in Cuyahoga County.

It's a debatable point whether the popularity of either Eisenhower or Lausche can be transferred to a candidate. But in a sense, the Ohio campaign represents a test between the Eisenhower and Lausche popularity even though Eisenhower isn't on the ballot.

Lausche is running for an unprecedented fifth term as governor against State Auditor James A. Rhodes, the GOP nominee. And Lausche is expected to help Burke by campaigning with him from the same platform. Just how far Lausche will go to help Burke isn't known, but Burke is counting on this support.

On the other side, Bender is making an "I Like Ike" campaign with the obvious belief that the Eisenhower popularity still is running at high tide in Ohio.

The "Cleaningest" Cleaner!
There's Been a Change Made in FINA FOAM

The new Triple Strength Fina Foam produces the highest level cleaning efficiency. It has a definite advantage where the resoiling of carpeting or upholstery is considered. When carpets are home cleaned, a good portion of the cleaner remains in the pile because rinsing has been omitted. Any of the new Fina Foam left in the carpet dries to a fine invisible crystalline powder which is easily removed by vacuuming. Ordinarily, soaps and some synthetic detergents leave a gummy deposit in the pile; this traps dirt and causes the carpet to resoil rapidly. The new Fina Foam does not cause the fibres to mat and on drying leaves the rugs or upholsetry fabrics with an open lofty pile. The new Fina Foam is triple strength. One gallon makes 3 gallons, so not only is it much more efficient and easy to apply, it is much less costly to use. The new Triple Strength Fina Foam is available at Rosenbaum's.

Democrats Plan Final Rally October 30; Meetings Scheduled Today And Friday

Topped with a county tour, rally and campaign dinner on October 30, when all candidates on the Democratic state and county ticket will appear, a series of meetings, rallies and other activities were outlined by the party's State Central Committee and campaign leaders Tuesday night.

Meeting in the party headquarters at the Algonquin Hotel, Thomas B. Finan, chairman, said the party leaders and candidates had one of the most enthusiastic sessions seen in party circles here for many years.

Richard J. Stakem, headquarters manager, reported on activities of his office and said that workers are being engaged rapidly, every precinct captain is being contacted and voter lists are prepared.

W. Earle Cobey, financial campaign committee chairman, said that a number of contributions are already in hand and a fund campaign is under way.

State Central Committee members and some of the candidates were enthused with the response received to invitations extended the supporters of George P. Mahoney in the recent primary. Many Mahoney people have made personal pledges to support the party ticket, and Finan said that committeemen from all parts of the county report there is no noticeable split in the ranks of Allegany County Democrats.

Among the rallies scheduled are two this week. Today the Young Democratts will meet at 7:30 p. m. at the Algonquin Hotel. William L. Wilson, candidate for state senator from Allegany County will talk on "Democratic Victory In This County."

Other candidates will be guests as will be members of the committee and campaign steering committee. Thomas F. Conlon Jr., president of the Young Democrats, said this meeting will be further proof that the Young Democratic Clubs are much more than "paper organizations" as was recently charged by members of the opposition party. In addition to members and party leaders, Conlon said this meeting of the Young Democrats is open to the general public, especially any Republicans who might be interested in better government at all levels.

Tomorrow at 7:30 p. m., precinct captains and workers of Cumberland and adjacent precincts will meet at the Algonquin. Candidates will be present and reports will be given on campaign activities and work that is yet to be done, Finan said. Stakem has prepared some information for these workers, and all are being urged to attend this important rally.

On October 13 at 7:30 p. m. a rally of Georges Creek Democrats is being sponsored at the American Legion Home in Lonaconing. William P. Kelly, president of the Georges Creek Democrat Club, said candidates have been invited and precinct captains and workers of that area are to be present.

On Friday, October 20, at 7:30 p. m., a rally for Democratic workers in Frostburg and vicinity will be held in Frostburg at St. Michael's Hall. Dr. W. O. McLane, general campaign chairman and Frostburg Democratic leader, said Democrats have been meeting each Monday night in Frostburg and will continue to do so until after the election. The rally on October 20 is open to the public and candidates will speak.

On Wednesday, October 27, at 7:30 a rally will be held at Westernport.

Byrd To Speak

On October 30, a dinner is being planned, possibly in the Fort Cumberland ballroom, as a windup of the campaign. Party candidates will make a tour of the county during the day and all Democrat workers of the county, with guests from neighboring counties will be invited to the dinner.

Dr. Harry C. Byrd, candidate for governor, sent his greetings to the local campaign committee and assured party leaders here that he and his running mates, J. Millard Tawes for comptroller and C. Ferdinand Sybert for attorney general will be here for the rally and dinner on Saturday, October 30.

Edward J. Ryan, local attorney who is a candidate for congress, will also be present, along with the local candidates, William L. Wilson for state senate, Leslie J. Clark and Charles Buskirk for House of Delegates; Graydon S. Dunlap, for sheriff; and James P. Russell, for county commissioner.

Edward J. Ryan Against Armament Of Arab States

Edward J. Ryan, Democratic candidate for Congress from the Sixth Maryland District, yesterday stated he is opposed to any grant of arms to any of the Arab States.

In making his stand on U. S. policy in the Middle East, Ryan said he is against armament of the Arab states unless they declare their readiness to join in the defense of the free world against communistic aggression.

He also said the Arab states should agree to negotiate a peace settlement with the State of Israel and in advance of any such negotiations abandon their direct and indirect boycott and blockade of Israel, and in the case of Egypt, abandon the restrictions on the free movement of shipping to and from Israel through the Suez Canal.

Ryan remarked that he felt the administration should make a new and vigorous effort to bring the Arab states and Israel together for peace negotiations.

Tuesday night Ryan spoke in Takoma Park before the Community League and Central Takoma Park Citizens Association in Montgomery County, — the home ground of his Republican opponent, incumbent DeWitt S. Hyde of Bethesda.

Yesterday he appeared at three meetings in Montgomery County. At noon yesterday he participated in a public forum with Hyde at a luncheon of the Officers Club of Bethesda Naval Medical Center.

Safe-Cracking Being Probed

State and County authorities are continuing the investigation of a safe-cracking which occurred Monday night or early Tuesday at the Midland Elementary School. Some $100 in school funds was reported taken.

Cpl. William F. Baker, criminal investigator for the State Police here, said the safe-cracking was discovered by George Eisentrout, custodian at the school, when he went to work at 7 a. m. Tuesday.

The intruders forced a rear window of the school and gained entrance to the auditorium. Another door was forced to gain admittance to the hallway and then the school office on the second floor was broken into.

The money taken from the safe included the school's petty cash and cafeteria money. Assisting Cpl. Baker in the investigation are Deputy Sheriffs George Harris and Robert Smith.

Error In Map Necessitates Relocation Of Sewer Line

The proposed sewer line in the Frederick Street improvement project must be relocated because a 34-year-old map of water and sewer lines in that area has been found in error.

City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum said the error was found when excavation for the new sewer line was undertaken. The old lines are not in the position as shown in a map prepared in 1920, he added.

It means, the engineer said, the new line will have to be moved from the right to the left side of Frederick Street for a distance of approximately 1,400 feet beginning at Linden Avenue to Woodlawn Terrace.

Nuzum and G. Bates Chaires, district engineer of the State Roads Commission conferred on the problem yesterday. The contractor claims, it was said, he should be paid extra for the work as a result of the necessity for relocating the line.

Nuzum said no decision has been reached.

County's 1954 Share Of Sales Tax $825,399

Allegany County assessment and sales tax collections laid $825,399.83 in the state's coffers in the fiscal year which ended June 30, according to a report just released by State Comptroller J. Millard Tawes.

The county's contribution, though only 2.52 per cent of the state total of $32,790,828.75, represents a slight increase over the two previous years.

The state total also was up—by 2.55 per cent over last year's total collections of $31,975,296.43.

A breakdown of Allegany County figures show that sales of general merchandise provided the largest single source of revenue — $219,123.86.

Food and beverage sales were second with $140,249.89; apparel, third with $98,914.71; furniture and appliances, fourth with $85,044.61; lumber, builders and contractors, fifth with $76,382.54; utilities and transportation, sixth with $73,265.96; miscellaneous gross, seventh with $73,259.16, and automotive, eighth, with $59,159.10.

Maryland's 23 counties provided a total of $13,744,998.79 of the state total. Another $16,551,515.68 came from Baltimore City; $1,152,853.97 from the District of Columbia, and $968,010.92 from other out-of-state sources.

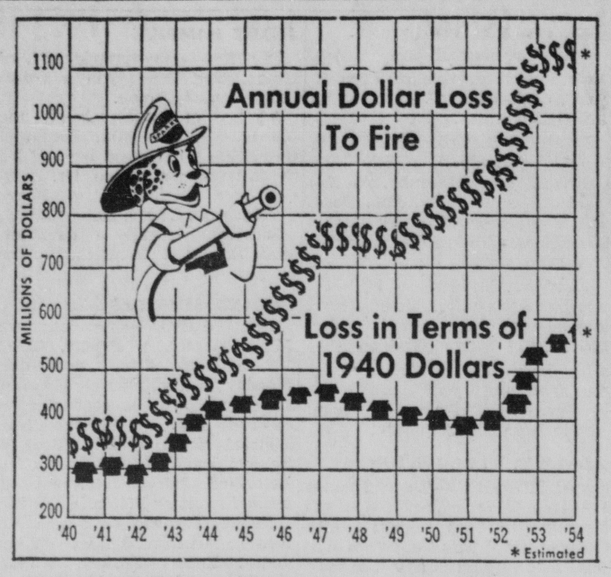

Miscellaneous use tax accounted for $373,449.39.

Allegany County ranked sixth among the counties in its contribution. It was topped by Baltimore County, Montgomery, Prince George's, Washington and Anne Arundel counties.

Washington County, in fourth place, contributed $989,628.78. Garrett, in 22d place, accounted for $118,364.88, and Frederick, in seventh place, $634,130.63.

Allegany's record since the sales tax was started in 1947 shows, to the nearest dollar:

1947-48	$922,237
1948-49	$996,828
1949-50	$892,190
1950-51	$893,293
1951-52	$816,957
1952-53	$818,576
1953-54	$825,400

FIRE PREVENTION WORKS—Sparky trains his hose on fire losses. The graph shows that, when inflation of the dollar is taken into account, the loss is not so great as it otherwise seems. The National Fire Protection Association, sponsor of Fire Prevention Week, now being observed, estimates that the 1954 loss will hit $1,190,000,000, but this amount would be more than cut in half in terms of the 1940 value of the dollar.

Wineow Street Man Faces Trial Today

Roland R. Myers, 33, of 172 Wineow Street, is scheduled for trial in Allegany County Circuit Court this morning on a morals charge involving his 10-year-old stepdaughter.

State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher yesterday filed a two-count criminal information against Myers, who has been confined in the County Jail since August 30. The offense allegedly occurred on July 17, according to the information. Law enforcement officers said that Myers had assaulted the girl on a number of occasions since then.

Myers is the father of Roland Myers Jr., an eight-year-old boy who drowned in the Potomac River August 7 when he fell off a raft.

Seven Divorces Granted In Court

Seven divorces have been granted in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Anna E. Willet was divorced from George M. Willet and was given the right to resume use of her maiden name of Anna Edith Easton. Hugh Stride Sr. was divorced from Audrey Pauline Stride.

Lorraine Wells was divorced from Regnald Wells and was given the right to resume use of her maiden name of Lorraine Byrd. Ruby Wolford was granted a divorce from Oscar Wolford and the right to resume use of her former name of Ruby Lechliter. Wanda Lee Turano was divorced from Robert John Turano and was given custody of their two minor children.

Agnes Lucille Hockaday was granted a divorce from Robert Eugene Hockaday and custody of their minor child. Dolly V. Knight was divorced from Robert W. Knight and retained custody of their infant children.

RR Officials Conduct Tour Of Inspection

A special seven-car train, carrying officials of four railroads, pulled into the Western Maryland Railway station here yesterday afternoon for a five-minute service stop.

Purpose of their trip is to inspect connecting lines from Chicago, Philadelphia to Chicago. The train, according to Joseph M. Miller, superintendent of the Elkins Division of the WM, arrived here from Philadelphia and was en route to Pittsburgh.

The railroads represented on the inspection tour include Nickel Plate, Reading, Pittsburgh and West Virginia, and the Western Maryland.

C. W. Zarforas, vice president in charge of traffic for the WM, said these four railroads have combined to provide one of the fastest east-west freight services available.

A train of beef can leave Chicago or St. Louis one morning and arrive in Philadelphia the following morning, he pointed out. Similar service is offered from Philadelphia to Chicago and St. Louis, he added.

Previously, the interlocking railroads were inspected one by one but Zarfoss said this traffic inspection is being combined to take in all of the four roads at one trip.

William Jennings Bryan and Clarence Darrow were the opposing lawyers in the famous Scopes trial of 1925.

Registration Talks Set

Representatives of Cumberland and Allegany County will go to Hagerstown Friday morning to confer with Claude D. Williams, Hagerstown city engineer, on the mechanics of adopting a unified registration plan for city and county.

The meeting originally was planned for Friday night but was advanced to satisfy the interested parties. Attending from here will be William A. Wilson, chairman of the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors; Wallace G. Ullery, city clerk, and Lester L. Bolinger of the city engineer's office. Hagerstown and Washington County adopted a unified registration in 1951 and local officials hope to take action under similar plans.

County's 1954 Share Of Sales Tax $825,399

Allegany County assessment and sales tax collections laid $825,399.83 in the state's coffers in the fiscal year which ended June 30, according to a report just released by State Comptroller J. Millard Tawes.

The county's contribution, though only 2.52 per cent of the state total of $32,790,828.75, represents a slight increase over the two previous years.

The state total also was up—by 2.55 per cent over last year's total collections of $31,975,296.43.

A breakdown of Allegany County figures show that sales of general merchandise provided the largest single source of revenue — $219,123.86.

Food and beverage sales were second with $140,249.89; apparel, third with $98,914.71; furniture and appliances, fourth with $85,044.61; lumber, builders and contractors, fifth with $76,382.54; utilities and transportation, sixth with $73,265.96; miscellaneous gross, seventh with $73,259.16, and automotive, eighth, with $59,159.10.

Maryland's 23 counties provided a total of $13,744,998.79 of the state total. Another $16,551,515.68 came from Baltimore City; $1,152,853.97 from the District of Columbia, and $968,010.92 from other out-of-state sources.

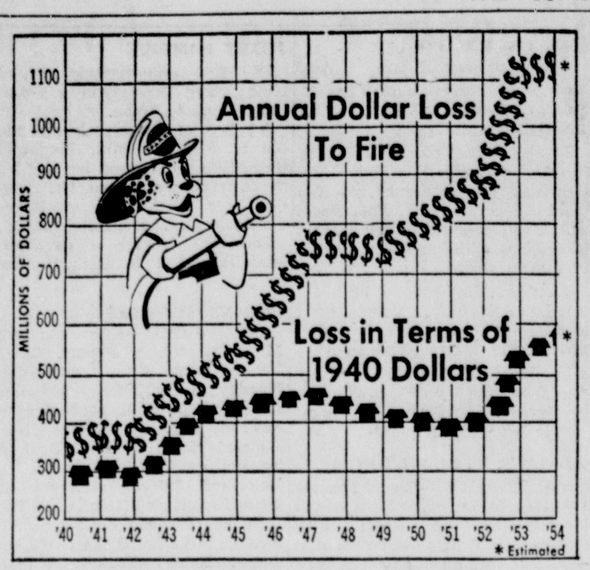

Miscellaneous use tax accounted for $373,449.39.

Allegany County ranked sixth among the counties in its contribution. It was topped by Baltimore County, Montgomery, Prince George's, Washington and Anne Arundel counties.

Washington County, in fourth place, contributed $989,628.78. Garrett, in 22d place, accounted for $118,364.88, and Frederick, in seventh place, $634,130.63.

Allegany's record since the sales tax was started in 1947 shows, to the nearest dollar:

1947-48	$922,237
1948-49	$996,828
1949-50	$892,190
1950-51	$893,293
1951-52	$816,957
1952-53	$818,576
1953-54	$825,400

FIRE PREVENTION WORKS—Sparky trains his hose on fire losses. The graph shows that, when inflation of the dollar is taken into account, the loss is not so great as it otherwise seems. The National Fire Protection Association, sponsor of Fire Prevention Week, now being observed, estimates that the 1954 loss will hit $1,190,000,000, but this amount would be more than cut in half in terms of the 1940 value of the dollar.

Housing Authority Re-Elects Officers

Rev. H. Maunsell Richardson, rector of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, was re-elected chairman of the Housing Authority of the City of Cumberland at its annual meeting yesterday.

Also re-elected were Earle L. Bracey, principal of Carver High School, vice chairman, and James B. Raines, executive director. William M. Long was named acting executive director during Raines' illness.

Other members of the Housing Authority are F. Patrick Allender, William H. Geppert and Paul D. Pickens.

Group Organizes

The Pine Avenue Playground Association was organized and officers were elected at a meeting last evening at the home of Mrs. Evelyn Peck, Central Avenue.

Mrs. Marian Simms was elected president; Mrs. Magnolia Denmark, vice president; Mrs. Peck, secretary, and Mrs. Geraldine Gordon, treasurer.

Plans were formulated for a games party to be held October 13 at the home of Mrs. Peck, 325 Central Avenue.

Ambitious People Live In America

The average visitor to the United States is aghast at the hustle and bustle of an American metropolis. He is amazed at the productivity and willingness to work of the American workingman. In fact, many visitors have stated that the American workman is the best toiler they have ever seen.

But ask an American to describe an average fellow-countryman and he would give a much more modest appraisal of his work output. Chances are he would say Americans never reach 60 per cent of their working abilities and, in fact, that the majority are just downright lazy.

Of course, the reason for this rather unusual comparison is the highly competitive system of free enterprise under which the nation has prospered. Citizens have become so used to fighting for everything they desire they have geared their every movement toward an ultimate goal, anticipating the self-satisfaction which comes with each of life's successes.

It is not a cold, heartless competition, as it is painted by the Kremlin dictators. Many of the nation's greatest men have stepped aside and allowed a competitor to pass because he knew such a course would be the best one for his country. In every walk of life can be found men and women who seem to receive as much pleasure in helping others as they do in climbing their own ladders of life.

If there is anything that could share the spotlight with an American's working capacity in a foreigner's view, it must be the universal affinity for comfort. The American shows this weakness, if it is a weakness, in many ways. Today there are many developments which can be traced directly to this love of comfort. The mass exodus of city-dwellers to the country now taking place must be attributed largely to this urge. Luxurious homes and automobiles are universal indulgences.

Even clothes are changing to fit the new mood. The accent this year is definitely on the casual side, with men's suits especially adopting the country-dweller atmosphere.

It isn't hard to understand why a visitor from a more backward and less fortunate country is awed by what he sees here for this is indeed a remarkable nation populated by remarkable people.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

To A Favorite Senator

Senator Ralph E. Flanders
U. S. Senate
My Dear Senator Flanders:

I am wondering whether I ought not to apologize to you for accepting what Joe McCarthy said about you. Maybe I should have believed what you say about Joe and then I would be riding the current. Otherwise, I might be censured and how horrible that would be. I might never be able to run for the United State Senate, which I could not do anyhow because I would not have the price for a campaign and I have no friends who would give me the cash under the table which I am told is one of the ways to do it.

I envy you the fun that you are having in your old age. It is not often that anybody finds so exciting a hobby as breaking down a fighter against Communists. It has won you such acclaim as you have not known in all your career, either as a business man or a senator. In fact, yours has been a very quiet and peaceful career as senator. But now you are the center of worldwide approval. The British Labor Party, the French Socialists, the ADA in this country, and lots of people who dislike Joe McCarthy and his methods believe that you are the very cat's meow. It is a wonderful achievement.

My good friend, Pat McCarran, as you know, had planned to rip the hide off you on constitutional grounds. But Pat died while he was fighting. Pat was an old man, too. He knew that his days were numbered because he had had a few attacks before the final one came to him. Pat, as you know, was a devout man who had given his daughters to his church as he had given his life to his God.

At his age, he did not get much fun out of seeing a life-work destroyed by a diversion from the battle against Soviet infiltration into our government to selecting one senator as a target and aiming all the shafts at him. Pat McCarran always expected that that would happen to Joe Mc-Carthy because it is a normal characteristic of this battle, not only in the United States, but in all the world.

Pat McCarran took plenty of abuse in his later years, not only because of his masterly investigation of the Institute of Pacific Relations but also because of his very thorough studies of our immigration problems. He faced these attacks and abuses with courage and fortitude but without compromise. I discussed these matters with him many times and he took the position that he had to see through what he believed to be true in the few years remaining to him.

Each man to his taste: Pat McCarran enjoyed fighting Communists and you enjoy fighting Joe McCarthy. Between us, Joe may lose this fight. He may be expended. One way or the other, we are all expendable and, in the end, we all go to our maker to answer for our sins. Who knows what bourne awaits us in the end, if an end there be?

Lao Tze said: (in Witter Bynner's translation)
"Existence is beyond the power of words
To define:
Terms may be used
But are none of them absolute.
In the beginning of heaven and earth there were no words,
Words came out of the womb of matter;
And whether a man dispassionately
Sees to the core of life
Or passionately
Sees the surface,
The core and the surface
Are essentially the same,
Words making them seem different
Only to express appearance . . . "

Perhaps that is all there is to the Tower of Babel of which you are now so honored a member and Joe so lowly that he is to be booted in his teeth. You know, Lao Tze was an exceeding wise man. It is said that he was 90 years old the day he was born—a myth, of course. He once said:

" . . . To accept naturally without self-importance:
If you never assume importance
You never lose it."

With that thought I must leave you.

That Detour Worked Out Pretty Well

Different Picture Painted About H-Bomb Scientists

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—Quite a furor is being stirred up because some of the top scientists in the country are being criticized for their laxity in developing the H-bomb.

Judged by some of the comments being made in support of those scientists, it might be imagined that, unless these men are immunized from criticism hereafter, they will engage in a sit-down strike and refuse to serve their country.

But there is evidence that not all scientists believe that a man who lies to his own government on a vital security matter, when information is sought from him, is a hero. There are scientists who believe that morality does not stop at the laboratory door—nor honesty either.

Different Picture

Lest the country think that scientists with Communist connections or affiliations or sympathies are in the majority inside or outside the government, evidence is presented here which paints an entirely different picture. Thus a top scientist, whose identity must for the present be withheld, says in a letter to this correspondent:

"In the recent particularly trying case of Dr. Oppenheimer, your analysis of the situation and the conclusions you have reached are receiving more support among physical scientists than you perhaps realize. They are not so vocal as those on the other side, nor are they given so much to passing resolutions, but plenty of them exist and form an influential group.

"I have had many contacts with nuclear physicists at the California Institute of Technology and the University of California. I came to know Dr. Oppenheimer and served upon committees with him. He impressed me as a person of very pleasant personality and enormous ability in his field, but also as a case of almost arrested development in social problems and in his relation to constituted authority. Like Einstein, he seems to be governed by his emotions rather than his reason in such matters, and I am not at all surprised at what has finally happened.

"The Oppenheimer case leads me to a few remarks about the large group, mainly in the colleges and universities, who call themselves 'liberals'—a much abused word—and sometimes 'intellectuals,' but the irreverent public calls them 'pinks' and on occasion 'eggheads.'

"They are an amazingly inconsistent group. They make a good living out of the system of private enterprise, but then seek to undermine it by favoring all sorts of socialistic ventures and enterprises. They dislike intensely McCarty and his methods—as we all do—but go along with him in allowing individuals to set up their own standards of secrecy, regardless of governmental and military regulations.

Experience No Help

"They learn nothing from experience, and the leakage of information about the atomic bomb and the loss of China, in part at least through leftist sympathizers in the Department of State, have never been taken to heart by them. Apparently, too, they have no conception of the distinction between what a man may believe and practice as a private individual and what he may believe and practice in a public position of trust. Although a man's beliefs are normally a matter of private concern, they can well debar him from many positions he might like to hold. For example, we can hardly conceive that the directors of a bank would elect to its presidency a believer in Marxian theories of finance and economics.

"There are two brief quotations which I feel might well be recommended to the collegiate self-styled 'liberals' of this country. Th first is by Winston Churchill and, as I remember, it runs: 'Although socialism and communism are not the same thing, I have always found that communism flourishes in an atmosphere of socialism.'

"The second quotation goes back to Socrates and the Athens of his day. His pet abhorrence was a group of well-educated men who, to show their assumed intellectual superiority, utilized their abilities to twist and distort the beliefs and motives of the common people until they were unrecognizable. Socrates said of these 'Sophists,' as he called them: 'They delight to make the worse the better reason.' "

The author of the foregoing letter was head of an important scientific body for many years, is a member of the National Academy of Sciences, a member of the French Academy and a foreign associate of the Royal Society of London and an outstanding scientist in his field.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Mendes-France is the philanthropist who put the hill in the bowling alley.

We don't blame him much about squawking against re-arming his German neighbors. Napoleon had the same problem 150 years ago when he limited 'em to 15,000 Uhlans.

The teeth of the dragon doubled each year. It was this dentrifice that sharpened the allies at Waterloo. Blucher eluded Grouchy and bit Napoleon from the rear.

France is a republic founded on gestures and spoon-fed with opportune resignations. Mendes-France is a diplomat who promises you nothing and makes good.

Political preference is powered by concessions and sparked by intrigue. Premiers are rabbits in high hats.

It was not treason when Petain ate the mess of porridge. The treason consisted of licking the spoon. De Gaulle might have been premier if he hadn't paraded twice on one permit. When they were playing touch tag with the finger of suspicion in 1950 Pleven, Mollet and Queuille all refused the honor of leaving a tri-colored ring in history's bath tub.

We all know the home-loving Prussians have a recipe for baking a cake that become a base for a big Bertha. Their tennis courts are honey-combed with underground corridors. Their butter tubs show up in the streamer lanes.

Gives 'em enough beer and their stein-aged gangs start watching the Rhine to the tune of the Blue Danube.

While we feel Mendes-France has tossed the stilson wrench into the details we cannot blame him too much. He is operating on the theory the Germans hate the Russians more than they hate the French.

They do. But they have enough to go around.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

When Mr. Nichols moved into his Vermont retreat one day in June, the problem presented itself of how to get rid of his garbage. "Get yourself a pig," suggested a knowing native, and that's just what Mr. Nichols did. He bought a skinny little one from Farmer Sheean for ten dollars.

Came September, and the New York-bound Mr. Nichols proposed to sell the pig, now grown fat and sleek, back to Farmer Sheean. The latter would offer only five dollars for it.

"How come?" demanded Nichols. "When it was a lot smaller, you made me pay you double that sum."

"True," agreed Farmer Sheean. "But you have to remember you had the use of it all summer."

When Hobby Becomes Work It's Time To Take Stock

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Most of us cherish leisure time and look forward to working in the back yards or basement as a physical means of mental and physical relaxation. The popularity of the do-it-yourself movement serves to emphasize this trend. It is a welcome relief from the hustle and bustle of modern living.

But leisure is not synonymous with idleness. It is more fun to do something in your spare time and in this respect the do-it-yourself movement has many advantages. The man of the house finds himself attracted to jobs unlike his everyday routine. The brain is employed but not pushed and the muscles are used but not strained.

But trends, like a pendulum, may swing too far in one direction. Some do-it-yourselfers are beginning to realize they are not fooling themselves. The hobby has become work and they are doing jobs for which their parents and grandparents previously hired outside help.

In addition, they are becoming amateur carpenters, painters, and plumbers. Calling this a hobby is a nicer way of saying, "Taxes are so high and labor is so expensive I can't afford to have someone else do it for me."

Is there any harm in this? Probably not, as work never has hurt anyone. On the other hand, there are objections when a hobby does not permit leisure. Bankers, lawyers, editors, physicians, and shoe clerks are hurrying from one job to become entangled with another.

The shorter hours put in by workers today was supposed to afford more leisure but actually give us less. Furthermore, some are beginning to feel the pressure of their avocation and now are under more stress than when they accepted the challenge of a hobby.

As a physician, I believe that many men would profit by taking stock of what they are doing during their leisure hours. Some unquestionably will benefit more by reading, listening to music, or playing bridge or chess than from pushing the lawn mower, papering a wall or building a doghouse. As a confirmed do-it-yourselfer, I feel I know what I'm talking about. Let's keep it a hobby and don't permit it to become a chore. Avoid the rush jobs that hang heavy until completed.

"Never put off until tomorrow what you can do today" has no place in any hobby. Hang the slogan over your desk at the office but not over the workbench in the basement. You might live longer.

ULCER IN CHILDHOOD

Mrs. J. writes: Could a 6-year-old boy have a duodenal ulcer?
REPLY
Yes, and the medical profession is becoming increasingly aware of the fact that bizarre abdominal pain in children may be due to peptic ulcer.

HEART FAILURE

R. L. writes: What is a decomposed cardiac?
REPLY
Cardiac decompensation is the term used when a diseased heart begins to fail and the individual develops shortness of breath and dropsy.

WITHOUT A SPLEEN

Mrs. E. writes: Can a woman who has had her spleen removed give birth to a healthy baby?
REPLY

JAUNDICED

T. L. writes: Why does the skin become yellow in jaundice?
REPLY
Because the tissues, including the skin, are saturated with bile pigments. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on jaundice.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

LA PAZ, Bolivia—Henry Holland, Eisenhower's assistant secretary of state, stood on the balcony of the presidential palace facing a great crowd of people in the square below.

Behind him in the president's reception room the ceiling was pock-marked with the scars of machine-gun fire. Even a marble-topped table was cracked by a bullet—reminder of the precarious life led by the presidents of Bolivia.

But beside Holland stood President Victor Paz Estenssorro, who has been in office longer than any other recent president and who had traveled with Holland past cheering Indians over 300 miles of new Bolivian highway. As a result of that ovation, there could be no question in Holland's mind or that of any other observer that the president was the hero of Bolivia's Indians. And the Indians comprise 90 per cent of Bolivia's population.

Looking down at the crowd below the president's balcony, Assistant Secretary Holland was called upon to make a speech. The applause which greeted his introduction was formal and polite. There were no huzzas from the assembled Indians.

Holland, who speaks perfect Spanish, was also formal and polite—at first. He paid the usual tribute to the beautiful city of La Paz. Then he continued:

"I am most happy to be here with your president and with you—you whom, if you will permit me, I should like to call 'companeros'."

The Two Henrys

The crowd went wild. From that point on the assistant secretary of state was the Indians' friend, the president's friend, and the friend of the "Movement National Revolutionary." For the word "companeros" while not quite the same as "comrades" is close enough to it to mean that Holland identified himself with the new Bolivian land reform, the seizure of the tin mines and the other drastic measures enforced by the MNR.

Later Holland put himself even closer. In his speech he not only praised the "national revolutionary" program of President Paz but in a conversation with leftist Labor Minister Lechin he was quoted as saying: "I now consider myself a member of the party."

This reference to the MNR party obviously was meant as a joke on Holland's part, but it was not so considered by Bolivians. Bolivian exiles and opponents of President Paz stormed with rage. Many Americans lifted their eyebrows. But Bolivian supporters of the president—and they make up the great majority—were delighted.

Probably stanch GOP conservatives back in the U. S. A. also would have raised their eyebrows when they read El Diario's comment next day that "Henry Holland's visit was the most successful since that of Henry Wallace."

Nevertheless that was the general consensus. For the former Vice President had endeared himself to Bolivians not only by playing three sets of tennis on the same day he arrived in the two-mile altitude of La Paz, but by demanding that the tin mines increase wages to miners if the United States was to buy more tin.

Careful Eisenhower Policy

Henry Holland's endorsement of the national revolutionary government of President Paz was no accident. His speech was no slip of the tongue. It was very carefully considered and represents the most important policy the United States has taken in South America for some time—namely, to back popular political parties whose reforms, even though radical, may prevent communism.

The fact that Holland was not talking for himself alone was indicated by Sen. Bourke Hickenlooper, an Iowa GOP conservative, who, speaking at Compara, along the new American-built Andean highway, said:

"I confess that I came down here with some misgivings. But after seeing you, Mr. President, and the support given you by the people, I have come to realize that you are fighting for principles.

"I have traveled in 56 countries," continued Senator Hickenlooper, "and never have I seen more effort on behalf of a country than yours on behalf of Bolivia. If there is any service I can render in my small capacity, please call on me."

Ike's Brother Decided

Actually, the Eisenhower decision to support the Movement National Revolutionary was made one year ago by President Eisenhower's brother, Milton. Visiting La Paz in the summer of 1953, Milton decided that President Paz was the best bet Bolivia had against communism, that the MNR land reforms were overdue, that the United States should not interfere with the nationalization of the tin mines.

Tin, Milton Eisenhower also decided, is vital to the American housewife and to American industry And Bolivian tin would become our lone major supplier—if Southeast Asia goes Communist.

The Eisenhower decision and the Holland approach to carrying it out are not unlike that made by another conservative Republican in another Latin-American country.

When Mexico seized its large estates and parceled them out among the peons, the State Department at first objected; and Frank B. Kellogg, secretary of state under Coolidge, wrote a series of notes that sent U. S.-Latin American relations to their lowest ebb. To repair the damage, Coolidge sent Dwight Morrow, millionaire partner of the J. P. Morgan banking firm, as ambassador to Mexico, and Morrow surprised the world by endorsing the Mexican land reforms. Morrow's cooperation with Mexico set a new landmark for Mexican-American friendship.

Many Injustices

The land reforms of the national revolutionary movement in Bolivia are a long way from being equitably carried out. Local Indians branishing machine guns have moved in on various landowners and taken away not only all their land but their farm machinery and cattle. They have even seized the farm property of the American Evangelist Mission and the farm experimental tract of the U. S. Point Four program, both engaged in trying to do what the Bolivian government wants done—teaching the Indians to increase agricultural production.

Nevertheless, despite these injustices—which result from uncontrolled local leaders—there can be little question that land reform is the best way to stop communism in Bolivia, and that Milton Eisenhower and Henry Holland basically are right.

A Great Triumph

By Joseph And Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON

President Eisenhower considers the London agreement on German rearmament "a great triumph." If so, the President himself can claim a big share of the credit.

For the President is the architect of what is becoming known in administration circles as "the partnership policy." The President outlined "the partnership policy" to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles before Dulles left for London.

The President said, in effect, that he had been doing a lot of thinking about this country's relations with its allies, since the failure of EDC. He had concluded that the time had passed when the United States could lay down policy for the whole Western Alliance, and expect all its allies automatically to fall in line.

Instead, the United States must act as a "partner" in the alliance — the most powerful partner, but still a partner. And those decisions which principally concern Europe must be made in Europe, not in Washington.

This is, obviously, less a policy than an attitude. Secretary Dulles took this attitude with him to London. It is reflected in the fact that, while there were detailed British, French and German drafts of the proposed agreement on Germany, there was no American draft.

Knew What He Wanted

At the same time, Dulles had rather clear ideas about what he wanted. One of the things he wanted was a British offer to maintain forces on the Continent during the life of the proposed agreement. He did not, however, badger the British to make such an offer.

Instead, in frank conversations with British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, he calmly described the probable reaction in this country to a failure of the London Conference, coming on the heels of the repudiation of EDC.

Thereafter, on Eden's initiative, the British cabinet met on the evening of September 28. With Sir Winston Churchill presiding, the cabinet discussed seriously, for the first time since NATO was formed, the nightmarish possibility of the withdrawal of American forces from Europe.

The next day, after a brief speech by Dulles, Eden rose to speak at the conference. Dulles asked him, "Are you going to shoot the works, Anthony?" Eden grinned and nodded. He then proceeded to make the historic British offer to keep four divisions in Europe indefinitely.

This was, of course, an immense British concession to France. Yet French Prime Minister Pierre Mendes-France suddenly upped his demands as the conference was about to end. When this happened, Eden, for the first time in his history as a diplomat, thoroughly lost his temper.

Dulles kept his. He also kept his freedom of action. And thanks to some generous concessions by German Chancellor Conrad Adenauer, Dulles was able to move in at the last crucial moment with compromise proposals which saved the day.

Not Ratified Yet

It may be, of course, that the President spoke too soon when he hailed the results as a "great triumph." For one thing, the French prime minister's enemies suspect — no doubt unjustly — that he has all along wanted to prevent a real German settlement, and that he will use the issue of the Saar to scuttle the London agreement. There remains also the necessity for ratification of the new agreement by the French, German and other parliaments, which is anything but a sure thing. And the Soviet reaction may be violent.

In short, the "great triumph" still has a hard course to run. But it now seems on balance probable that the London agreement will stay the course. If so, it will have one immense advantage over the dead EDC. If EDC had been forced through the French Parliament, all Europe would have said that it was an artificial agreement, manufactured in Washington, and without real validity.

No one can say this of BRUTO, as the new agreement is rather unpleasantly called. At the same time, it can certainly be said that President Eisenhower's "partnership policy" has worked remarkably well on its first try.

Ambitious People Live In America

The average visitor to the United States is aghast at the hustle and bustle of an American metropolis. He is amazed at the productivity and willingness to work of the American workingman. In fact, many visitors have stated that the American workman is the best toiler they have ever seen.

But ask an American to describe an average fellow-countryman and he would give a much more modest appraisal of his work output. Chances are he would say Americans never reach 60 per cent of their working abilities and, in fact, that the majority are just downright lazy.

Of course, the reason for this rather unusual comparison is the highly competitive system of free enterprise under which the nation has prospered. Citizens have become so used to fighting for everything they desire they have geared their every movement toward an ultimate goal, anticipating the self-satisfaction which comes with each of life's successes.

It is not a cold, heartless competition, as it is painted by the Kremlin dictators. Many of the nation's greatest men have stepped aside and allowed a competitor to pass because he knew such a course would be the best one for his country. In every walk of life can be found men and women who seem to receive as much pleasure in helping others as they do in climbing their own ladders of life.

If there is anything that could share the spotlight with an American's working capacity in a foreigner's view, it must be the universal affinity for comfort. The American shows this weakness, if it is a weakness, in many ways. Today there are many developments which can be traced directly to this love of comfort. The mass exodus of city-dwellers to the country now taking place must be attributed largely to this urge. Luxurious homes and automobiles are universal indulgences.

Even clothes are changing to fit the new mood. The accent this year is definitely on the casual side, with men's suits especially adopting the country-dweller atmosphere.

It isn't hard to understand why a visitor from a more backward and less fortunate country is awed by what he sees here for this is indeed a remarkable nation populated by remarkable people.

These Days

To A Favorite Senator

Senator Ralph E. Flanders
U. S. Senate
My Dear Senator Flanders:

I am wondering whether I ought not to apologize to you for accepting what Joe McCarthy said about you. Maybe I should have believed what you say about Joe and then I would be riding the current. Otherwise, I might be censured and how horrible that would be. I might never be able to run for the United State Senate, which I could not do anyhow because I would not have the price for a campaign and I have no friends who would give me the cash under the table which I am told is one of the ways to do it.

I envy you the fun that you are having in your old age. It is not often that anybody finds so exciting a hobby as breaking down a fighter against Communists. It has won you such acclaim as you have not known in all your career, either as a business man or a senator. In fact, yours has been a very quiet and peaceful career as senator. But now you are the center of worldwide approval. The British Labor Party, the French Socialists, the ADA in this country, and lots of people who dislike Joe McCarthy and his methods believe that you are the very cat's meow. It is a wonderful achievement.

My good friend, Pat McCarran, as you know, had planned to rip the hide off you on constitutional grounds. But Pat died while he was fighting. Pat was an old man, too. He knew that his days were numbered because he had had a few attacks before the final one came to him. Pat, as you know, was a devout man who had given his daughters to his church as he had given his life to his God.

At his age, he did not get much fun out of seeing a life-work destroyed by a diversion from the battle against Soviet infiltration into our government to selecting one senator as a target and aiming all the shafts at him. Pat McCarran always expected that that would happen to Joe Mc-Carthy because it is a normal characteristic of this battle, not only in the United States, but in all the world.

Pat McCarran took plenty of abuse in his later years, not only because of his masterly investigation of the Institute of Pacific Relations but also because of his very thorough studies of our immigration problems. He faced these attacks and abuses with courage and fortitude but without compromise. I discussed these matters with him many times and he took the position that he had to see through what he believed to be true in the few years remaining to him.

Each man to his taste: Pat McCarran enjoyed fighting Communists and you enjoy fighting Joe McCarthy. Between us, Joe may lose this fight. He may be expended. One way or the other, we are all expendable and, in the end, we all go to our maker to answer for our sins. Who knows what bourne awaits us in the end, if an end there be?

Lao Tze said: (in Witter Bynner's translation)
"Existence is beyond the power of words
To define:
Terms may be used
But are none of them absolute.
In the beginning of heaven and earth there were no words,
Words came out of the womb of matter;
And whether a man dispassionately
Sees to the core of life
Or passionately
Sees the surface,
The core and the surface
Are essentially the same,
Words making them seem different
Only to express appearance . . . "

Perhaps that is all there is to the Tower of Babel of which you are now so honored a member and Joe so lowly that he is to be booted in his teeth. You know, Lao Tze was an exceeding wise man. It is said that he was 90 years old the day he was born—a myth, of course. He once said:

" . . . To accept naturally without self-importance:
If you never assume importance
You never lose it."

With that thought I must leave you.

That Detour Worked Out Pretty Well

Different Picture Painted About H-Bomb Scientists

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON—Quite a furor is being stirred up because some of the top scientists in the country are being criticized for their laxity in developing the H-bomb.

Judged by some of the comments being made in support of those scientists, it might be imagined that, unless these men are immunized from criticism hereafter, they will engage in a sit-down strike and refuse to serve their country.

But there is evidence that not all scientists believe that a man who lies to his own government on a vital security matter, when information is sought from him, is a hero. There are scientists who believe that morality does not stop at the laboratory door—nor honesty either.

Different Picture

Lest the country think that scientists with Communist connections or affiliations or sympathies are in the majority inside or outside the government, evidence is presented here which paints an entirely different picture. Thus a top scientist, whose identity must for the present be withheld, says in a letter to this correspondent:

"In the recent particularly trying case of Dr. Oppenheimer, your analysis of the situation and the conclusions you have reached are receiving more support among physical scientists than you perhaps realize. They are not so vocal as those on the other side, nor are they given so much to passing resolutions, but plenty of them exist and form an influential group.

"I have had many contacts with nuclear physicists at the California Institute of Technology and the University of California. I came to know Dr. Oppenheimer and served upon committees with him. He impressed me as a person of very pleasant personality and enormous ability in his field, but also as a case of almost arrested development in social problems and in his relation to constituted authority. Like Einstein, he seems to be governed by his emotions rather than his reason in such matters, and I am not at all surprised at what has finally happened.

"The Oppenheimer case leads me to a few remarks about the large group, mainly in the colleges and universities, who call themselves 'liberals'—a much abused word—and sometimes 'intellectuals,' but the irreverent public calls them 'pinks' and on occasion 'eggheads.'

"They are an amazingly inconsistent group. They make a good living out of the system of private enterprise, but then seek to undermine it by favoring all sorts of socialistic ventures and enterprises. They dislike intensely McCarty and his methods—as we all do—but go along with him in allowing individuals to set up their own standards of secrecy, regardless of governmental and military regulations.

Experience No Help

"They learn nothing from experience, and the leakage of information about the atomic bomb and the loss of China, in part at least through leftist sympathizers in the Department of State, have never been taken to heart by them. Apparently, too, they have no conception of the distinction between what a man may believe and practice as a private individual and what he may believe and practice in a public position of trust. Although a man's beliefs are normally a matter of private concern, they can well debar him from many positions he might like to hold. For example, we can hardly conceive that the directors of a bank would elect to its presidency a believer in Marxian theories of finance and economics.

"There are two brief quotations which I feel might well be recommended to the collegiate self-styled 'liberals' of this country. Th first is by Winston Churchill and, as I remember, it runs: 'Although socialism and communism are not the same thing, I have always found that communism flourishes in an atmosphere of socialism.'

"The second quotation goes back to Socrates and the Athens of his day. His pet abhorrence was a group of well-educated men who, to show their assumed intellectual superiority, utilized their abilities to twist and distort the beliefs and motives of the common people until they were unrecognizable. Socrates said of these 'Sophists,' as he called them: 'They delight to make the worse the better reason.' "

The author of the foregoing letter was head of an important scientific body for many years, is a member of the National Academy of Sciences, a member of the French Academy and a foreign associate of the Royal Society of London and an outstanding scientist in his field.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Mendes-France is the philanthropist who put the hill in the bowling alley.

We don't blame him much about squawking against re-arming his German neighbors. Napoleon had the same problem 150 years ago when he limited 'em to 15,000 Uhlans.

The teeth of the dragon doubled each year. It was this dentrifice that sharpened the allies at Waterloo. Blucher eluded Grouchy and bit Napoleon from the rear.

France is a republic founded on gestures and spoon-fed with opportune resignations. Mendes-France is a diplomat who promises you nothing and makes good.

Political preference is powered by concessions and sparked by intrigue. Premiers are rabbits in high hats.

It was not treason when Petain ate the mess of porridge. The treason consisted of licking the spoon. De Gaulle might have been premier if he hadn't paraded twice on one permit. When th_ were playing touch tag with the finger of suspicion in 1950 Pleven, Mollet and Queuille all refused the honor of leaving a tri-colored ring in history's bath tub.

We all know the home-loving Prussians have a recipe for baking a cake that become a base for a big Bertha. Their tennis courts are honey-combed with underground corridors. Their butter tubs show up in the streamer lanes.

Gives 'em enough beer and their stein-aged gangs start watching the Rhine to the tune of the Blue Danube.

While we feel Mendes-France has tossed the stilson wrench into the details we cannot blame him too much. He is operating on the theory the Germans hate the Russians more than they hate the French.

They do. But they have enough to go around.

When Hobby Becomes Work It's Time To Take Stock

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Most of us cherish leisure time and look forward to working in the back yards or basement as a physical means of mental and physical relaxation. The popularity of the do-it-yourself movement serves to emphasize this trend. It is a welcome relief from the hustle and bustle of modern living.

But leisure is not synonymous with idleness. It is more fun to do something in your spare time and in this respect the do-it-yourself movement has many advantages. The man of the house finds himself attracted to jobs unlike his everyday routine. The brain is employed but not pushed and the muscles are used but not strained.

But trends, like a pendulum, may swing too far in one direction. Some do-it-yourselfers are beginning to realize they are not fooling themselves. The hobby has become work and they are doing jobs for which their parents and grandparents previously hired outside help.

In addition, they are becoming amateur carpenters, painters, and plumbers. Calling this a hobby is a nicer way of saying, "Taxes are so high and labor is so expensive I can't afford to have someone else do it for me."

Is there ahy harm in this? Probably not, as work never has hurt anyone. On the other hand, there are objections when a hobby does not permit leisure. Bankers, lawyers, editors, physicians, and shoe clerks are hurrying from one job to become entangled with another.

The shorter hours put in by workers today was supposed to afford more leisure but actually give us less. Furthermore, some are beginning to feel the pressure of their avocation and now are under more stress than when they accepted the challenge of a hobby.

As a physician, I believe that many men would profit by taking stock of what they are doing during their leisure hours. Some unquestionably will benefit more by reading, listening to music, or playing bridge or chess than from pushing the lawn mower, papering a wall or building a doghouse. As a confirmed do-it-yourselfer, I feel I know what I'm talking about. Let's keep it a hobby and don't permit it to become a chore. Avoid the rush jobs that hang heavy until completed.

"Never put off until tomorrow what you can do today" has no place in any hobby. Hang the slogan over your desk at the office but not over the workbench in the basement. You might live longer.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

When Mr. Nichols moved into his Vermont retreat one day in June, the problem presented itself of how to get rid of his garbage. "Get yourself a pig," suggested a knowing native, and that's just what Mr. Nichols did. He bought a skinny little one from Farmer Sheean for ten dollars.

Came September, and the New York-bound Mr. Nichols proposed to sell the pig, now grown fat and sleek, back to Farmer Sheean. The latter would offer only five dollars for it.

"How come?" demanded Nichols. "When it was a lot smaller, you made me pay you double that sum."

"True," agreed Farmer Sheean. "But you have to remember you had the use of it all summer."

Eisenhower Latin American Diplomat Backs Bolivian President's Program

The next day, after a brief speech by Dulles, Eden rose to speak at the conference. Dulles asked him, "Are you going to shoot the works, Anthony?" Eden grinned and nodded. He then proceeded to make the historic British offer to keep four divisions in Europe indefinitely.

This was, of course, an immense British concession to France. Yet French Prime Minister Pierre Mendes-France suddenly upped his demands as the conference was about to end. When this happened, Eden, for the first time in his history as a diplomat, thoroughly lost his temper.

Dulles kept his. He also kept his freedom of action. And thanks to some generous concessions by German Chancellor Conrad Adenauer, Dulles was able to move in at the last crucial moment with compromise proposals which saved the day.

Not Ratified Yet

It may be, of course, that the President spoke too soon when he hailed the results as a "great triumph." For one thing, the French prime minister's enemies suspect — no doubt unjustly — that he has all along wanted to prevent a real German settlement, and that he will use the issue of the Saar to scuttle the London agreement. There remains also the necessity for ratification of the new agreement by the French, German and other parliaments, which is anything but a sure thing. And the Soviet reaction may be violent.

In short, the "great triumph" still has a hard course to run. But it now seems on balance probable that the London agreement will stay the course. If so, it will have one immense advantage over the dead EDC. If EDC had been forced through the French Parliament, all Europe would have said that it was an artificial agreement, manufactured in Washington, and without real validity.

No one can say this of BRUTO, as the new agreement is rather unpleasantly called. At the same time, it can certainly be said that President Eisenhower's "partnership policy" has worked remarkably well on its first try.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 6 (INS) — The original TV detective series "Martin Kane, Private Eye," has been sold to motion pictures. Mark Stevens, who is currently playing Martin Kane on TV will act in and direct the film version and share in the profits.

Agent Nat Goldstone, who will figure as the producer, bought the film rights from Myron Kirk, representing the Whitney Peterson Tobacco Company.

If I sound mixed up, let me say that Peterson owns the rights to "Martin Kane, Private Eye," which has gone on for 12 years and has had Lee Tracy, William Gargan and Lloyd Nolan as well as Stevens all playing the role of Kane at different times on television.

George Jessel is giving up TV, radio, speechmaking and everything else to bring to the screen "Blessed Is the Land," Lewis Zara's book. George says it's the greatest story he's ever read.

"It's the history of the arrival of the Jewish people from Brazil to New Amsterdam in 1654. Of course, New Amsterdam later became New York," said Mr. Jessel.

"Whom do you want to star in it?" I asked.

"Oh, I don't know," he said, "probably Danny Thomas for one, and others who look the part of the characters."

I have little doubt in my mind that Russell Birdwell's flight to Paris to see Anne Baxter was something more than to discuss the purchase of a story.

Anne won't make a movie without Russell. She thinks he is responsible for her success in "Carnival Story" and her whole new approach to glamor.

The people who have always surrounded Anne in her career have all disappeared. It's said that Anne's father, who was her business manager, is no longer in the picture nor is her one-time lawyer.

If Anne and Russell are thinking of anything like marriage, however, it couldn't happen for a year because Birdwell just obtained a divorce from Mabel Conway.

My vacationing girl friend, Dorothy Manners, telephoned me news from Las Vegas. She says that Victor Mature has been in Vegas and has bought some property and plans to build a house. But he told Dorothy he has no intention of getting a divorce there.

Dorothy asked him if he and his wife were going to make up. He told her no, that they had gone past the place where there is a chance for a reconciliation.

Vic is back in Hollywood now to consult with his attorney and he has decided to sit out his suspension from 20th Century-Fox until January, which goes to prove what I've always said about Vic—he must have plenty of the folding money.

When Tyrone Power goes east to co-star wtih Katharine Cornell in Christopher Fry's "The Dark Is Light Enough," it will be the second time he has played with Kit.

Twenty years ago, Ty played a bit part in "Romeo and Juliet" with the great lady of the stage. This only proves the fascination of the theatre business, and it must be a source of great satisfaction to Ty to return to co-star wtih Miss Cornell.

Mervyn Le Roy is wearing a pair of engraved baseball shaped cuff links, given him by his pal, Leo Durocher. That's because Merv is a Giants fan.

Brynie Foy has such a bad case of laryngitis he can only speak in a whisper, but that doesn't keep him from his job at Columbia.

Many of my pals are in Las Vegas. Ann Blyth, they report, is one of the biggest smash hits in a long time and she is bringing them into the Sahara. Her doctor husband, Jim McNulty, has to go home so Ann's uncle and aunt are with her.

Bob Merrill and old Satchmo, who closed at the Sands, changed tunes. Bob, with the opera voice, sang "Honeysuckle Rose," and Armstrong sang "Vesta Le Giubba" from Pagliacci. Mary Healy and Peter Lind Hayes opened at the Sands last night and there to greet them were Nancy Sinatra, Jerry Lewis with the John Haskells among the Hollywood contingent. Mary and Pete are very popular.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

AWOL Military Police Soldier Arrested Here

An AWOL soldier, Pvt. Clyde Elwood Layton, 26, of Clement Street, was arrested early yesterday by Detective Donald H. Smith.

Police said Layton has been absent without official leave from the 503rd Military Police Company, Third Armored Division at Fort Knox, Ky., since September 13. He was held for military authorities.

Mind your business manners, wherever you work!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

If you're in business, strive to be the best in the business. Set personal goals of achievement, and you'll find more enjoyment in your job. Financial reward will follow.

Dress the part of an alert, intelligent girl-about-the-office. Wear clothes that are both fashion-right and business-right. Leave for evening the frills and the fluff.

Let your grooming bear out the impression of charm and ability that your wardrobe suggests. Too little glamour is as mistaken as too much. Your makeup should be fresh and natural, your hair gleaming, your hands manicured. Keep a repair kit in your desk (include makeup, a clothes brush, a sewing kit, tissues), but don't use its equipment at your desk. You should be able to arrive in the office (on time!) bright and shining, and leave at the end of the working day looking just as fresh.

Between times, mind your manners! Observe the little rules that endear you to co-workers, and live up to the high standards you set for yourself. Shoulder your share of the responsibilities. If you've been assigned more than one person can reasonably tackle, ask your superior to let someone help you; complaining in whispers to the girl next to you won't get the job done.

When you don't understand something, ask questions before you stumble blindly. Listen to instructions so as to have them clear in your mind. Should you err (and everybody does, occasionally), admit you were wrong.

One thing you don't indulge in is gossip of a malicious nature. A certain amount of talk filters through every working establishment, but taking part in an office feud or passing along a harmful rumor is something else again. More important, don't carry criticism to outside ears. There is nothing old-fashioned about loyalty, you know.

Good Traits

No less old-fashioned are the qualities of sincerity, enthusiasm, modesty, courtesy, ambition, tact, fairness — and hard work. You won't have to carry work home with you, mentally or physically, if you concentrate—as is expected of you—during business hours. Just as you put away your working-day problems at five o'clock, you leave your personal problems (and take your personal phone calls) at home.

Develop greater interest in your work and greater regard for others by having respect for yourself. Such self-respect goes with you wherever you go, making your working life and your private life happier.

YOUR STEPS TO A SUCCESSFUL CARREER

A worthwhile investment in charm for every girl starting a business career—every girl or woman now in business who is eager to reach top-flight success. It tells you how to make that important "good impression" to get your job . . . reveals secrets on how to hold your job. See how easy it is to choose a suitable wardrobe. Save time—uncertainty—needless worry through these short cut steps in charm that lead to YOUR SUCCESS. Write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper and enclose 10c in coin, plus stamped, self-addressed return envelope, for a copy of the booklet, YOUR STEPS TO A SUCCESSFUL CAREER.

Town Plans Benefit Dance For Little Girl

HAGERSTOWN, Oct. 6 (AP)—Some 600 residents of Funkstown, just east of here, are planning a big community dance for next Saturday night with all of the proceeds earmarked for Patty Kline, who is three and a half.

The orchestra, the tickets—all of the necessary arrangements—are being furnished gratis so Patty will get all of the money.

The funds will be used for medical care and perhaps for an early Christmas for Patty—if that becomes necessary.

She has leukemia, a wasting, nearly-always-fatal blood disease.

Patty has been taking a new drug at Washington County Hospital here. It is called methotrexate, and her carpenter father, Robert Kline, says she has been showing some improvement.

She dropped from 53 to 30 pounds under the onslaught of the disease, but lately her appetite has improved.

Funkstown residents are determined Patty shall have the best of medical care. Meanwhile, the Klines are hoping.

AHS To Open 21-Game Basketball Schedule December 10

Campers Play Southern And Berlin Cagers

Drop Romney Pioneers From Slate; WMI Loop Begins On January 7

Allegany High's state champions basketball team will get an early start toward defending its laurels this year as Coach Walter L. "Bill" Bowers has lined up a 21-game cage slate beginning Dec. 10 at Oakland.

Beginning his 29th year at the helm of the Campobello powerhouses Bowers said the opening game is one of the earliest he's ever remembered for a Camper team.

The schedule will find two newcomers on the card including the opener with Southern High's Highlanders at Oakland. The other new face will be that of Berlin-Brothersvalley High which will be met in Berlin December 14. This will be their first meeting with the Pennsylvanians.

Replace Romney High

Southern and Berlin replace Romney High's Pioneers which dropped off the Campers' schedule this season.

Returning to the Campobello five's slate for home-and-home games will be Keyser, Ridgeley, Hagerstown, LaSalle, and the five Western Maryland Interscholastic League opponents, Mt. Savage, Valley, Bruce, Beall and Fort Hill. An Alumni team will provide the opposition in the other encounter.

Bowers will be putting an entirely new team on the floor this season as last year's Class A state, district, WMI and city champions lost all five varsity regulars through graduation.

Lost Only To Beall

The Alleganians won the WMI with a 9-1 slate and swept the city series with double victories over both LaSalle and Fort Hill. They lost only to Beall High at Frostburg, 64-58, in overtime. Among their wins was a 73-47 decision over Southern in the district playoff finals at Fort Hill March 6.

Lettermen who are expected to return when Bowers puts his call out for players November 15 are Rodney Breedlove, Bucky Rice, Allen Haines, Hugh Steele and Jim Sisk. The schedule:

Dec. 10—Oakland, away
Dec. 14—Berlin, away
Dec. 17—Hagerstown, home
Dec. 23—Keyser, away
Dec. 27—Alumni, home
Dec. 30—LaSalle, home (City)

Seven Players Batted Over .300 On Sacrifice Fly Rule

Gil Hodges Led Both Leagues With Total 19

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 (AP)—The sacrifice fly generally increased 1954 major league batting averages 2.4 points with seven players owing their .300 or better marks to baseball's revived regulation.

All told, major leaguers went to bat 83,947 times and collected 21,904 hits for a percentage of .2609. Counting the 778 sacrifice flies which were hit during the season as times at bat, the collective average would have been .2585.

Gil Hodges of Brooklyn, Sid Gordon of Pittsburgh, Bill Sarni of the St. Louis Cards, Al Rosen of Cleveland, Andy Carey and Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees and Jim Finigan of the Philadelphia Athletics were the players who benefited the most, figures compiled by the Associated Press revealed.

The "lucky seven" reached the .300 group and would not have done so under the rules which existed from 1939 through 1953 when a run-scoring fly ball was counted as a time at bat.

Hodges finished with a .304 batting average, but it would have been .294 under last year's rules. The husky first baseman hit 19 sacrifice flies and led both leagues in that department.

Gordon wound up at .305 and adding his nine sacrifice flies onto his at bat total he would have been at .298.

Sarni, with an even .300, benefited by six points with eight sacrifice flies and Rosen, also at .300, picked up six points with 11 SF's. Carey compiled a .301 average with five sacrifice flies (a four-point gain) and Mantle and Finigan, both with .300 marks, would have ended up at .298 a year ago. Mantle had four "free" at bats and Finigan three.

In addition to Rosen, Frank Thomas of Pittsburgh, Ray Jablonski of the Cardinals, Del Ennis of the Philadelphia Phillies and Jackie Jensen of the Boston Red Sox hit 11 sacrifice flies. Washington's Roy Sievers had 10.

Willie Mays of the New York Giants, the National League's batting champion, collected seven sacrifice flies. His pace-setting average of .345 would have been .341 without the rule.

Don Mueller of the Giants, runnerup to Mays, also had seven and would have wound up with a .339 average instead of .342. Brooklyn's Duke Snider, in third place with .341, would have hit .337 were it not for his six sacrifice flies.

Cleveland's Bobby Avila, who captured the American League title with .341, was credited with four sacrifice flies, gaining four points.

Banquet Set Oct. 16

The Old German Hermanettes softball team of the Atlantic Coast girls league will hold a banquet at the Central YMCA October 16 beginning at 6 p. m. to honor members of the team. Chad Riley, local radio announcer, will be toastmaster for the affair.

Norkus Kayoes Powell In 7th

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 6 (AP)—Charlie Norkus, baldish heavyweight slugger from Port Washington, N. Y., dimmed the fistic hopes of Charlie Powell when he knocked out the San Diego bomber tonight in the seventh round of their scheduled 10-round fight, at Pacific Auditorium.

Norkus weighed 193 and Powell 212.

Al Weill, manager of heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano, had said before the nationally televised fracas that he would regard the winner as among top contenders for Marciano's crown.

Norkus, a spoiler of the pugilistic ambitions of other heavies, dropped Powell with rights and lefts to the jaw for an eight-count. Powell staggered to his feet and then down from another barrage of smashing lefts and rights to the chin for the full count.

The fight ended in 2:10 of the round.

AL To Decide Athletics Fate

Meeting Of League Is Set For Tuesday

CHICAGO, Oct. 6 (AP)—American League club owners will meet here again next Tuesday to determine if the Philadelphia Athletics must be sold by the Mack family.

The meeting was called by League President Will Harridge, setting it exactly two weeks after a Sept. 28 New York session at which Roy Mack was given 14 days to raise $750,000 to buy control of the A's.

The owners will confront Mack with a put-up or sell-out attitude. Roy has strongly opposed the wishes of his father, Connie and his brother, Earle, to peddle the debt-ridden A's to the highest bidder.

At the New York meeting, it was reported Roy gave the American League written assurance he will listen to outside offers to buy the club if he failed to raise the $750,000. The money would be used by Roy to buy out Connie and Earle.

Also, the owners heard details of two plans to buy out the Macks. One was from Arnold Johnson, Chicago business executive, who wants to shift the A's to Kansas City. The other came from Thomas Richardson, an A's director and president of the Eastern League.

Win Golf Match

Dr. Frank Cawley and John A. Moberly defeated Ben LaNeve and Dr. Frank McCagh 5 and 3 yesterday in their scotch foursome match at the Cumberland Country Club. The winners shot a gross 81 while the losers had an 88 for the 18 holes of golf.

Allegany Meets Keyser Eleven Here Saturday

Morgantown UHS At Romney Friday

Allegany High School's unbeaten Campers shoot for their third victory Saturday at Fort Hill stadium when they meet Coach Fred Clark's Keyser High Golden Tornado eleven under the lights.

Roy Lester's Campobello gridders have only a 13-13 deadlock with Hagerstown to mar their record, having defeated Beall 20-0 and Bladensburg 32-7. The Campers will also be striving for their seventh consecutive victory over a Keyser eleven in the 8 p. m. contest.

Keyser, which had defeated Charles Town 12-0, Beall 19-6 and Ridgeley 14-7 while losing to Parsons High, 32-14, has not beaten an Allegany team since 1946 when the Tornado registered a 19-14 decision. In 1947 the two teams played to a 13-13 tie and since then Allegany has rolled up six wins in a row. Last year the Campers won, 26-7.

Timmons Is Captain

Lester said last night Eddie Timmons, regular Allegany tackle, will be the captain for the Alco eleven on Saturday.

Officiating the game will be Bee Orndorff, Hubert Feeney, Bobby Cavanaugh and Johnny Blough.

In an important Friday engagement Coach Wes Abrams' Romney High Pioneers take on University High of Morgantown at 1:30 p. m. on the Pioneers field.

Romney is undefeated in four starts and will be striving to make it five in a row over Coach Homer Fizer's Morgantown eleven. University carries a 3-1 record into the fray with victories over Roosevelt-Wilson of Clarksburg, Philippi and Masontown after losing its season's opener to Parsons, 13-7.

University, which runs from the single wing instead of the conventional "T" used by most high school coaches, is sparked by Fullback Teets, its leading scorer. The game with Romney was added to fill in an open date for the two teams just prior to the opening of the season.

Meanwhile, Coach Ray Hull has had his Beall High Mountaineers prepping for two weeks for their Friday night engagement with Coach Bill Hahn's Fort Hill Sentinels at Frostburg.

The Beall squad was idle last week and Hull said the team has looked much sharper in the past week or so during practice.

Looks For First Win

Beall, looking for its first victory this season, has lost three in a row, but Hull said the veteran team is beginning to round out and look like the eleven pre-season dope said it would be.

The team has discarded its helmets with face guards, the coach stated, and he believes the players have looked much better blocking and tackling since the move, adding "it begins to look as though the face guards were hampering the boys' vision."

The only casualty on the Beall squad is tackle Roy Niner's shoulder separation which will keep him out of the Fort Hill game. Ronald Plummer will move from guard to fill the tackle spot and Roy Wolford will take over at guard.

Fort Hill will be on the rebound after a tough loss at the hands of Martinsburg last Friday. The Sentinels will be forced to make a lineup change to replace End Ken Poling who suffered a leg injury in the game. Fort Hill beat Beall last year, 41-0.

Many Problems Face Will Harridge In Effort To Rebuild Junior Loop

Prime Headache Is Philadelphia Woes

(Second in a three-part series)
By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 (AP)—Will a new city heal the sick Philadelphia Athletics? Can fresh cash pump new life into the American League's weak sisters? How long can American League owners make money with five clubs 42 or more games behind the leaders?

These are a few of the problems facing President Will Harridge and his owners this winter after the shocking unbalance of the league was spotlighted by Cleveland's collapse in the World Series.

Not Proven Wrong

Critics who claimed Cleveland's 111-game winners fattened on a diet of pushovers while the National League's New York Giants fought their way past tougher every-day competition, can't be proven wrong—at least until 1955.

Prime headache of the league is the Philadelphia situation, now familiar to most people. The house of Mack is divided. The club's financial situation is precarious. The team finished in the cellar, 60 games behind Cleveland with 103 defeats.

By Columbus Day we may have the answer to whether the offer of Arnold Johnson to move the franchise will be accepted or whether Tommy Richardson's new group will be given a chance to make another try in Philadelphia.

No matter where the club goes or who buys it, the team must undergo a thorough reorganization before it can hope to climb out of the doldrums. Last in hitting, last in fielding, last in the standings and last in attendance, it will take millions of brave money to return the A's to their heights of the early 1930s.

Baltimore, also, presents a tremendous challenge to Paul Richards, its new general manager, although there is no money problem with the Orioles. They topped the million mark in attendance in their first year, but the club must do better in the won-and-lost columns if that is to keep up many seasons.

The Orioles did escape the cellar threat by a late spurt, but they were a collection of castoffs from other clubs. Bob Turley (14-15) was the big man of the club and even this ace pitcher may be sacrificed in the general rebuilding program. The club hit only 52 home runs all season, low in the majors, and had nobody hitting higher than Cal Abrams' .293.

Washington, too, needs new blood, if it's going to do any better against the top clubs. Bob Porterfield, Dean Stone and Johnny Schmitz make the pitching respectable but Chuck Dressen, the new manager, will need infield and outfield help to make a move.

Long, Tough Pull

Summing up, it looks like a long tough pull before the Senators, Orioles and A's are in the same league with the others. Boston and Detroit are improving and may give the league more balance with a "big five" and a "little three" in 1955.

No matter how you look at it, this is a winter of deep thought for all American League club owners. A league with two 100-game winners and two 100-game losers leaves much to be desired.

Valdes Is Rated Top Contender

Nino Lone Choice To Fight Marciano

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 6 (AP)—Nino Valdes of Cuba is the lone logical contender for Rocky Marciano's world heavyweight boxing title, the National Boxing Assn. said today.

Valdes, the Cuban champion, is the first heavyweight to earn the logical contender distinction since last spring, according to Fred J. Saddy, chairman of the NBA Rating Committee. Former champion Ezzard Charles, now named at the top of the list of outstanding heavyweights, was designated the only contender before his first bout with Marciano last June.

Three weight divisions were cluttered with logical contenders. Carmen Basilio, Del Flangan and Johnny Saxton were rated in that class behind welterweight champion Kid Gavilan; Percy Bassett and Redtop Davis were given the same distinction in back of featherweight titlist Sandy Saddler, and Leo Espinosa and Tanny Campo earned the honor below flyweight king Yoshio Shirai.

Richards Makes First Player Deal

BALTIMORE, Oct. 6 (AP) — Paul Richards pulled off his first player deal today since becoming general manager of the American League Baltimore Orioles Sept. 15.

Richards said the Orioles had traded pitcher Jehosie Heard and an undisclosed amount of cash to Portland of the Pacific Coast League for pitcher Robert S. Alexander.

Mt. Savage Plays At Bruce Today In Soccer League

Two Western Maryland Interscholastic Soccer League teams seeking their first win will collide today at Westernport when Bruce High's booters host the Mt. Savage Braves at 3:30 p.m. at Memorial Stadium.

Bruce lost its only encounter to defending champion Valley on Tuesday while Mt. Savage has dropped a pair of encounters to Beall and Valley. Johnny Thomas is at the helm of the Mt. Savage eleven while Augie Eichhorn is mentor for Bruce.

Henry Stafford of Lonaconing will officiate the tilt.

Lopez Is Given Tampa Welcome

Parade And Dance Feature Celebration

TAMPA, Fla., Oct. 6 (AP)—Home town folks hollering, "We'll get them next year!" put on a big hero's welcome party today for Al Lopez, the Tampa sandlotter who went on in baseball and to manage the Cleveland Indians.

You'd have thought Lopez had managed the winner of the World Series instead of the club that lost to the New York Giants in four straight games.

Tampa friends honored him at a ceremony at the city's new big baseball park named Al Lopez Field. Then they paraded him through the business district and through the Latin Quarters and topped it off with a street dance tonight.

At the baseball park, modest Al was visibly overcome as he made a brief talk.

"The folks here have been real nice to me since I've been home. They've given me plenty of encouragement and after a pat on the back and a handshake tell me to 'get them again next year.' I presume they mean the Giants..."

Seixas, Trabert Win In Pan-Am Tennis Tourney

All Seeded Players Score In Singles

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 6 (AP) — Vic Seixas and Tony Trabert, aces of the United States' Davis Cup team, slipped through their second round matches with ease today in the 19th Pan-American Tennis Tournament. Both won in straight sets, as did all seeded players in the men's singles.

Sexias, seeded No. 1 showed an improved game after his unimpressive play in the North American Zone Davis Cup finals against Mexico and whipped Eduardo Guzman Jr., 6-2, 6-0. Guzman, however, is an almost unknown Mexican and didn't have enough to extend the Philadelphian.

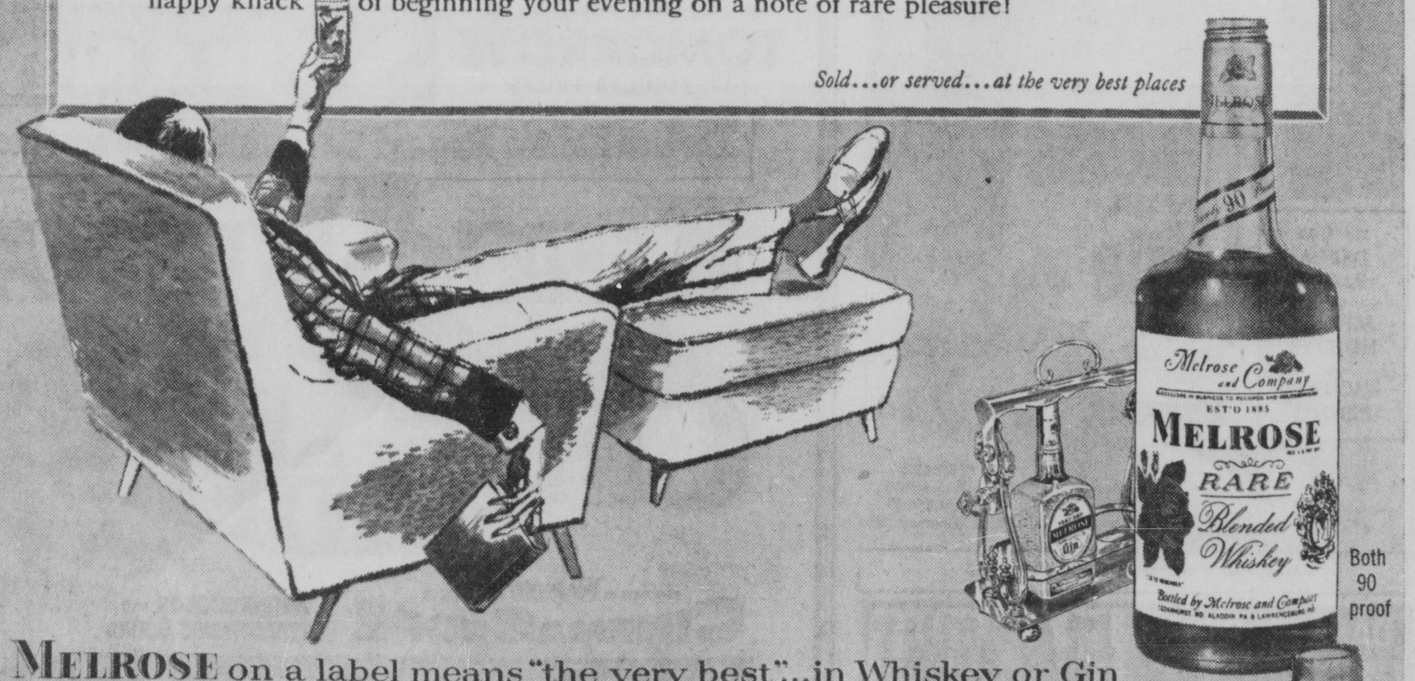

Trabert also lost but two games in his second round success. Ranked second, the Cincinnati star disposed of Antonio Sanchez of Mexico 6-1, 6-1.

Other U.S. players who advanced were Art Larsen of San Leandro, Calif., who defeated Esreban Reyes Jr., Mexico, 6-2, 6-4; Eddie Moylan of Trenton, N. J., who beat Rodolfo May, Mexico, 7-5, 6-0, and Bernart Bartzen of San Angelo, Tex., who whipped Alfredo Millet, Mexico, 6-2, 6-2. Larsen is ranked third and Moylan fifth.

Frostburg K-C Wins

The Frostburg Knights of Columbus shuffleboard team defeated the Cumberland Woodmen of the World, 2-1, last night at Frostburg in a men's Allegany County Shuffleboard League match. Bill Gibson paced the Woodmen with 18 points while Kenny had 25 for Frostburg.

Morgantown UHS At Romney Friday

Allegany High School's unbeaten Campers shoot for their third victory Saturday at Fort Hill stadium when they meet Coach Fred Clark's Keyser High Golden Tornado eleven under the lights.

Roy Lester's Campobello gridders have only a 13-13 deadlock with Hagerstown to mar their record, having defeated Beall 20-0 and Bladensburg 32-7. The Campers will also be striving for their seventh consecutive victory over a Keyser eleven in the 8 p. m. contest.

Keyser, which had defeated Charles Town 12-0, Beall 19-6 and Ridgeley 14-7 while losing to Parsons High, 32-14, has not beaten an Allegany team since 1946 when the Tornado registered a 19-14 decision. In 1947 the two teams played to a 13-13 tie and since then Allegany has rolled up six wins in a row. Last year the Campers won, 26-7.

Timmons Is Captain

Lester said last night Eddie Timmons, regular Allegany tackle, will be the captain for the Alco eleven on Saturday.

Officiating the game will be Bee Orndorff, Hubert Feeney, Bobby Cavanaugh and Johnny Blough.

In an important Friday engagement Coach Wes Abrams' Romney High Pioneers take on University High of Morgantown at 1:30 p. m. on the Pioneers field.

Romney is undefeated in four starts and will be striving to make it five in a row over Coach Homer Fizer's Morgantown eleven. University carries a 3-1 record into the fray with victories over Roosevelt-Wilson of Clarksburg, Philippi and Masontown after losing its season's opener to Parsons, 13-7.

University, which runs from the single wing instead of the conventional "T" used by most high school coaches, is sparked by Fullback Teets, its leading scorer. The game with Romney was added to fill in an open date for the two teams just prior to the opening of the season.

Meanwhile, Coach Ray Hull has had his Beall High Mountaineers prepping for two weeks for their Friday night engagement with Coach Bill Hahn's Fort Hill Sentinels at Frostburg.

The Beall squad was idle last week and Hull said the team has looked much sharper in the past week or so during practice.

Looks For First Win

Beall, looking for its first victory this season, has lost three in a row, but Hull said the veteran team is beginning to round out and look like the eleven pre-season dope said it would be.

The team has discarded its helmets with face guards, the coach stated, and he believes the players have looked much better blocking and tackling since the move, adding "it begins to look as though the face guards were hampering the boys' vision."

The only casualty on the Beall squad is tackle Roy Niner's shoulder separation which will keep him out of the Fort Hill game. Ronald Plummer will move from guard to fill the tackle spot and Roy Wolford will take over at guard.

Fort Hill will be on the rebound after a tough loss at the hands of Martinsburg last Friday. The Sentinels will be forced to make a lineup change to replace End Ken Poling who suffered a leg injury in the game. Fort Hill beat Beall last year, 41-0.

Many Problems Face Will Harridge In Effort To Rebuild Junior Loop

Prime Headache Is Philadelphia Woes

(Second in a three-part series)
By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 (AP)—Will a new city heal the sick Philadelphia Athletics? Can fresh cash pump new life into the American League's weak sisters? How long can American League owners make money with five clubs 42 or more games behind the leaders?

These are a few of the problems facing President Will Harridge and his owners this winter after the shocking unbalance of the league was spotlighted by Cleveland's collapse in the World Series.

Not Proven Wrong

Critics who claimed Cleveland's 111-game winners fattened on a diet of pushovers while the National League's New York Giants fought their way past tougher every-day competition, can't be proven wrong—at least until 1955.

Prime headache of the league is the Philadelphia situation, now familiar to most people. The house of Mack is divided. The club's financial situation is precarious. The team finished in the cellar, 60 games behind Cleveland with 103 defeats.

By Columbus Day we may have the answer to whether the offer of Arnold Johnson to move the franchise will be accepted or whether Tommy Richardson's new group will be given a chance to make another try in Philadelphia.

No matter where the club goes or who buys it, the team must undergo a thorough reorganization before it can hope to climb out of the doldrums. Last in hitting, last in fielding, last in the standings and last in attendance, it will take millions of brave money to return the A's to their heights of the early 1930s.

Baltimore, also, presents a tremendous challenge to Paul Richards, its new general manager, although there is no money problem with the Orioles. They topped the million mark in attendance in their first year, but the club must do better in the won-and-lost columns if that is to keep up many seasons.

The Orioles did escape the cellar threat by a late spurt, but they were a collection of castoffs from other clubs. Bob Turley (14-15) was the big man of the club and even this ace pitcher may be sacrificed in the general rebuilding program. The club hit only 52 home runs all season, low in the majors, and had nobody hitting higher than Cal Abrams' .293.

Washington, too, needs new blood, if it's going to do any better against the top clubs. Bob Porterfield, Dean Stone and Johnny Schmitz make the pitching respectable but Chuck Dressen, the new manager, will need infield and outfield help to make a move.

Long, Tough Pull

Summing up, it looks like a long tough pull before the Senators, Orioles and A's are in the same league with the others. Boston and Detroit are improving and may give the league more balance with a "big five" and a "little three" in 1955.

No matter how you look at it, this is a winter of deep thought for all American League club owners. A league with two 100-game winners and two 100-game losers leaves much to be desired.

Valdes Is Rated Top Contender

Nino Lone Choice To Fight Marciano

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 6 (AP)—Nino Valdes of Cuba is the lone logical contender for Rocky Marciano's world heavyweight boxing title, the National Boxing Assn. said today.

Valdes, the Cuban champion, is the first heavyweight to earn the logical contender distinction since last spring, according to Fred J. Saddy, chairman of the NBA Rating Committee. Former champion Ezzard Charles, now named at the top of the list of outstanding heavyweights, was designated the only contender before his first bout with Marciano last June.

Richards Makes First Player Deal

BALTIMORE, Oct. 6 (AP) — Paul Richards pulled off his first player deal today since becoming general manager of the American League Baltimore Orioles Sept. 15.

Richards said the Orioles had traded pitcher Jehosie Heard and an undisclosed amount of cash to Portland of the Pacific Coast League for pitcher Robert S. Alexander.

Mt. Savage Plays At Bruce Today In Soccer League

Two Western Maryland Interscholastic Soccer League teams seeking their first win will collide today at Westernport when Bruce High's booters host the Mt. Savage Braves at 3:30 p.m. at Memorial Stadium.

Bruce lost its only encounter to defending champion Valley on Tuesday while Mt. Savage has dropped a pair of encounters to Beall and Valley. Johnny Thomas is at the helm of the Mt. Savage eleven while Augie Eichhorn is mentor for Bruce.

Lopez Is Given Tampa Welcome

Parade And Dance Feature Celebration

TAMPA, Fla., Oct. 6 (AP)—Home town folks hollering, "We'll get them next year!" put on a big hero's welcome party today for Al Lopez, the Tampa sandlotter who went on in baseball and to manage the Cleveland Indians.

You'd have thought Lopez had managed the winner of the World Series instead of the club that lost to the New York Giants in four straight games.

Tampa friends honored him at a ceremony at the city's new big baseball park named Al Lopez Field. Then they paraded him through the business district and through the Latin Quarters and topped it off with a street dance tonight.

At the baseball park, modest Al was visibly overcome as he made a brief talk.

"The folks here have been real nice to me since I've been home. They've given me plenty of encouragement and after a pat on the back and a handshake tell me to 'get them again next year.' I presume they mean the Giants..."

Seixas, Trabert Win In Pan-Am Tennis Tourney

All Seeded Players Score In Singles

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 6 (AP) — Vic Seixas and Tony Trabert, aces of the United States' Davis Cup team, slipped through their second round matches with ease today in the 19th Pan-American Tennis Tournament. Both won in straight sets, as did all seeded players in the men's singles.

Sexias, seeded No. 1 showed an improved game after his unimpressive play in the North American Zone Davis Cup finals against Mexico and whipped Eduardo Guzman Jr., 6-2, 6-0. Guzman, however, is an almost unknown Mexican and didn't have enough to extend the Philadelphian.

Trabert also lost but two games in his second round success. Ranked second, the Cincinnati star disposed of Antonio Sanchez of Mexico 6-1, 6-1.

Other U.S. players who advanced were Art Larsen of San Leandro, Calif., who defeated Esreban Reyes Jr., Mexico, 6-2, 6-4; Eddie Moylan of Trenton, N. J., who beat Rodolfo May, Mexico, 7-5, 6-0, and Bernart Bartzen of San Angelo, Tex., who whipped Alfredo Millet, Mexico, 6-2, 6-2. Larsen is ranked third and Moylan fifth.

Frostburg K-C Wins

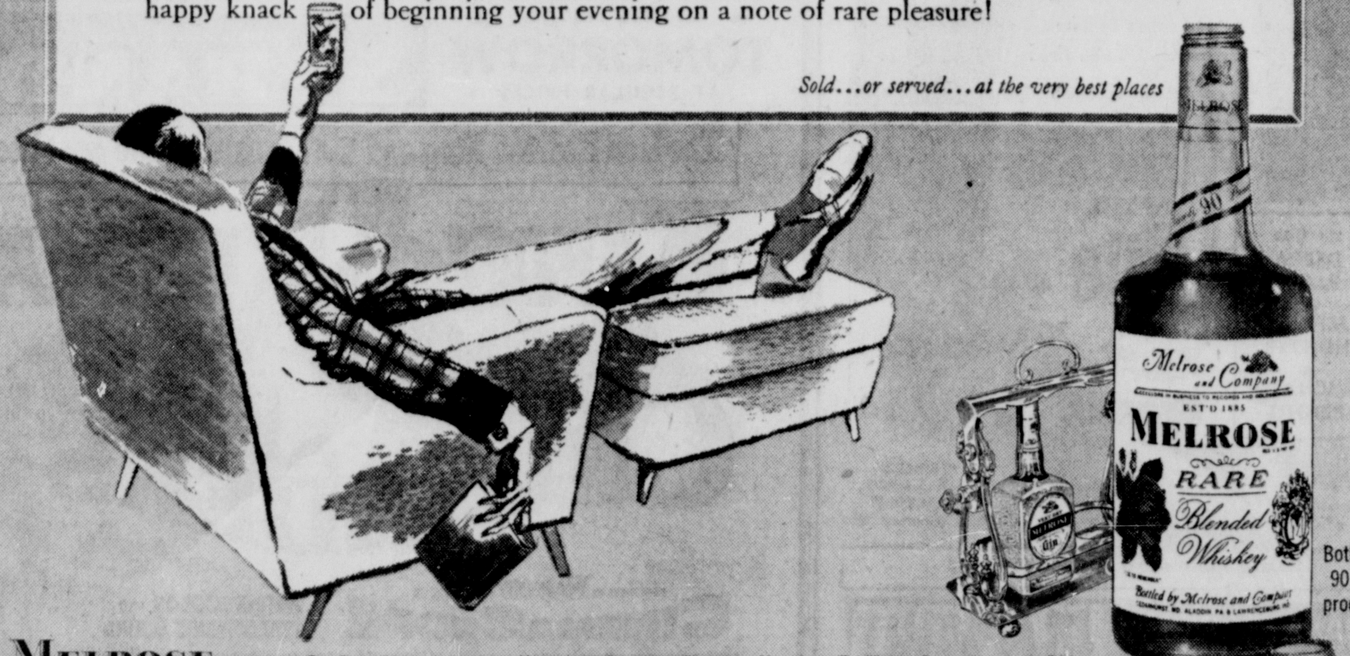

The Frostburg Knights of Columbus shuffleboard team defeated the Cumberland Woodmen of the World, 2-1, last night at Frostburg in a men's Allegany County Shuffleboard League match. Bill Gibson paced the Woodmen with 18 points while Kenny had 25 for Frostburg.

PAC Removes Bratton Ban

Fighter's Purse Is Still Held Up

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 6 (AP) — Chairman Frank Weiner said today the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission has lifted its suspension of welterweight boxer Johnny Bratton for an unsatisfactory performance in his nationally televised bout with Johnny Saxton last Feb. 24.

Weiner's statement said:

"It is not the policy of this commission to impose any hardship on a boxer and his family by preventing him making a living after what we consider has been a just punishment. Therefore, the State Athletic Commission unanimously voted to reinstate Johnny Bratton as of this date. . . ."

The commission is still seeking to have Bratton forfeit his purse of $3,500 because of his performance in the 10-round bout, which drew boos from the crowd. Some of the crowd at the arena threw chairs, pillows and soft drink cups into the ring at the end of the fight.

Dodgers Call Up Five Farm Players

BROOKLYN, Oct. 6 (AP)—Brooklyn raised its roster to 38 players today by transferring the contracts of five players from the Dodgers triple A farm clubs.

The Dodgers called up pitcher Charlie Templeton, second baseman Charlie Neal and shortstop Humberto Chico Fernandez from the Montreal team of the International League. They got Herb Olson and Joe Pignatano, both catchers, from St. Paul of the American Association.

Richmond Gridders Hold Good Scrimmage

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 6 (AP)—The cold front which moved through Richmond today made a new team of the University of Richmond Spiders, who engaged in a spirited scrimmage with the junior varsity.

Coach Ed Merrick said the blocking of the entire first string line was unusually crisp and he singled out for praise his 230-pound flankman, Eric Christensen.

"Miracle" Braves Outfielder Dies

Six-Man Footballer

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. — Larry McMullen, North Carolina fullback, played two years of six-man football in high school before he got a chance to run with a regular 11-man team. The switch came about through a transfer in high schools.

PAC Removes Bratton Ban

Fighter's Purse Is Still Held Up

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 6 (AP) — Chairman Frank Weiner said today the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission has lifted its suspension of welterweight boxer Johnny Bratton for an unsatisfactory performance in his nationally televised bout with Johnny Saxton last Feb. 24.

Weiner's statement said:

"It is not the policy of this commission to impose any hardship on a boxer and his family by preventing him making a living after what we consider has been a just punishment. Therefore, the State Athletic Commission unanimously voted to reinstate Johnny Bratton as of this date. . . ."

The commission is still seeking to have Bratton forfeit his purse of $3,500 because of his performance in the 10-round bout, which drew boos from the crowd. Some of the crowd at the arena threw chairs, pillows and soft drink cups into the ring at the end of the fight.

Dodgers Call Up Five Farm Players

BROOKLYN, Oct. 6 (AP)—Brooklyn raised its roster to 38 players today by transferring the contracts of five players from the Dodgers triple A farm clubs.

Templeton is a 6-foot-3, 210-pound lefthander who had a brilliant strikeout record with Union City, Tenn., in the Kitty League.

Richmond Gridders Hold Good Scrimmage

RICHMOND, Va., Oct. 6 (AP)—The cold front which moved through Richmond today made a new team of the University of Richmond Spiders, who engaged in a spirited scrimmage with the junior varsity.

The 2-year-old race at Garden State Park already is worth $239,965, and with each starter paying an additional $2,000 the race seems certain to surpass the $269,395 value last year. Turn-To won it last fall, netted $155,000 and became winter book favorite for the Kentucky Derby.

Conley Wants Money In Professional Sports

BOSTON, Oct. 6 (AP)—Milwaukee Braves pitcher Gene Conley said today he signed to play basketball with the Boston Celtics this winter because he is in professional sports "to get ahead and make money."

WARDS

On The Line

by Bob Considine

(Editor's Note: This is the third of five special articles telling the story of newspapers, their growth and production in the U. S. Bob Considine is writing the series in conjunction with the observance of National Newspaper Week.)

NEW YORK—(INS)—You hold a newspaper that is the end product of many crafts, professions and talents. Myriad labors attended its birth.

Its advertisements spread the world's bazaars before your eyes. Its features will instruct, its comics delight, its editorials remind you that the American press remains militantly free.

But its primary purpose is to bring you the news and enable you to keep that news with you as long as you wish.

The news in your paper was harvested by an astonishing network of wire services, foreign and domestic correspondents, special writers and others in the American press's far-flung army of news reapers. It is the exposed heart of the world. It is basic knowledge; the hard facts, almost invariably clear of bias, unencumbered by interpretation.

The three big news services alone gather, write, edit and transmit to their clients throughout the U. S. an average of 500,000 words of hard news every day of the year. News never takes a holiday. Nor can these global organizations ever relax, so keen is the competition, so urgent the need for speed. Nature produces nothing as perishable as news.

The wire services spend $45,000,000 a year gleaning, shaping and distributing the news and pictures you see in your paper. Tremendous additional sums are spent by individual papers for supplementary news and to bring knowledge of local events to you. In its finished form your newspaper presents you with the news in orderly, readable columns of type. Before it reached you in that form it might have been a few words scratched on a reporters pad at a small-time fire or an embossed edict from the court of the Dalai Lama.

Reporters and photographers from here to Timbuktu labored to reduce today's news into words and illuminate it with pictures. If the straight news came from abroad it most likely was transmitted to this country in condensed form and hydrated on the cable desk of a news service. For example:

INTERNEWS NYK SMITH SIXYEAROLD AMERICAN STEPHEN RUTTER FROM PINEFORGE PENNA SELECTED BE ONE PRINCE CHARLES SPARRING PARTNERS WHEN THRONE HEIR STARTS BOXING LESSONS EARLY THIS FALL STOP STEPHEN SON PETER RUTTER SECOND SECRETARY WORKING POLITICAL SECTION LONDON EMBASSY CAME LONDON TEN MONTHS AGO WITH PARENTS ATTENDED SMALL ENGLISH PRIVATE SCHOOL EATONSQUARE AREA LONDON SHAPED SO WELL BOXING LESSONS SELECTED GIVE EXHIBITION MATCH WITH SIXYEAROLD ENGLISH BOY GILES STIMSON SCHOOL . . .

In a matter of minutes, hundreds of U. S. newspapers had received and were putting this story into type. But by now it read:

BY CHARLES A. SMITH

"LONDON, Oct. 4 — (INS) — In this corner—Bonnie Prince Charles, Duke of Cornwall and the Tiger of Buckingham Palace.

"In this corner: Stephen Rutter, American, the pride of Pine Forge, Pennsylvania.

"It was announced today that six-year-old Stephen Rutter has been selected to be one of the sparring partners of Prince Charles, heir to the British throne, when Charles starts his boxing lessons early this fall . . ."

A skim through a New York paper this week, which is National Newspaper Week, brought news of a historic pact-signing in London, full details from Bonn as to what West Germany will deliver militarily to the defense of western civilization, and the results of a nationwide poll indicating that the Democrats are in the ascendancy in senatorial races.

Many weeks and months once would have had to pass before such news was known.

And the same is true of the news that day from Madrid, where Franco was pictured as priming a Bourbon prince as his successor, from Trebinje in Yugoslavia, where Tito offered to mediate in the Arab-Israeli trouble, from Anchorage, where the frozen earth quaked, from New Delhi, where Nehru was considering quitting, from Shiraz in Iran, where civil war brewed, from Kiev in the Soviet Union, where a great drought ended, from Rio De Janeiro, where an election was held, and from Castel Gandolfo, where the Pope received 6,000 pilgrims.

It took seven weeks for news of the official end of the War of 1812 between America and Britain to reach the United States from the treaty-signing site, Ghent, Belgium. Battles were fought here in the interim, hundreds died and rancor flamed, for want of news. The task of getting it to you faster and more complete is as paramount in the newsman's character today as in the days before the cable, telephone and wireless. Then enterprising editors used fleets of homing pigeons, semaphor systems, the Pony Express, and rowed small boats out to meet sailing ships bringing tidings from abroad.

Wartime developments by the Army Signal Corps, with improvements by the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., and the research department of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, have made possible 600 word per minute transmission of finished news, instead of the standard 60 W.P.M. that has been the gait for years. Most wire services now use radio facilities which can speed news from abroad at 300 words per minute. RCA has produced an electronic marvel which transmitted the complete text of "Gone With the Wind" in two minutes and 20 seconds.

Daily Bridge Lesson

LENGTH JUST AS USEFUL

DON'T be too stolid in applying any measure given you for determining the amount of high card strength needed for a reply to your partner's opening bid of one in a suit or No Trump. If you have extreme distributional values in the form of a six or seven card suit or perhaps two five-carders, your holding is by no means valueless. Instead of thinking only of the point-count of your honor cards or your honor trick total, consider also the playing-trick power of your long strings of cards. If you find as many as four of them, you may have enough for a minimum one-time call regardless of how low your honor potency may be.

	♠ 9 8 6 4 2 ♥ K 10 8 6 5 ♦ 4 ♣ K 2
♠ A 7 ♥ A Q 7 4 2 ♦ A Q 7 ♣ A 6 5	N W E S	♠ Q J ♥ 3 ♦ 10 6 5 2 ♣ Q J 9 8 7 4
	♠ K 10 5 3 ♥ J 9 ♦ K J 9 8 3 ♣ 10 3

(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
1 ♥	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
3 NT

That was not the bidding of this deal. What actually happened was a pass-out of West's 1-Heart. Even that low contract was set one because of North's bunch of trumps, his exasperating spade leads and West's own confused play because of discomfiture over his partner's pass.

East got a lesson when the deal was over. Not a very experienced player, he had been told by somebody that he shouldn't respond to his partner's opening bid of one unless he had "about one honor trick with a long suit or at least one and a half with a four-card suit, or else about a 7-count by the 4-3-2-1 method." Lacking these minima, he should pass, according to that advice.

West pointed out, then, the value of suit-lengths. East had about 3½ playing tricks in clubs alone and about one more in spades and diamonds combined. If he had bid 2-Clubs, West said he would have called 3-No Trumps. In that contract, even against a spade lead, nine tricks would have been easy—two in spades, five in clubs and the red aces, without even trying the diamond finesse for an extra trick.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ J 9 7 5 ♥ J 8 ♦ 9 7 5 ♣ K Q 7 3

(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

How should East play for 4-Spades if South scores the club K and shifts to the heart J?

On The Line

by Bob Considine

(Editor's Note: This is the third of five special articles telling the story of newspapers, their growth and production in the U. S. Bob Considine is writing the series in conjunction with the observance of National Newspaper Week.)

NEW YORK—(INS)—You hold a newspaper that is the end product of many crafts, professions and talents. Myriad labors attended its birth.

Its features will instruct, its comics delight, its editorials remind you that the American press remains militantly free.

But its primary purpose is to bring you the news and enable you to keep that news with you as long as you wish.

The news in your paper was harvested by an astonishing network of wire services, foreign and domestic correspondents, special writers and others in the American press's far-flung army of news reapers. It is the exposed heart of the world. It is basic knowledge; the hard facts, almost invariably clear of bias, unencumbered by interpretation.

The three big news services alone gather, write, edit and transmit to their clients throughout the U. S. an average of 500,000 words of hard news every day of the year. News never takes a holiday. Nor can these global organizations ever relax, so keen is the competition, so urgent the need for speed. Nature produces nothing as perishable as news.

The wire services spend $45,000,000 a year gleaning, shaping and distributing the news and pictures you see in your paper. Tremendous additional sums are spent by individual papers for supplementary news and to bring knowledge of local events to you. In its finished form your newspaper presents you with the news in orderly, readable columns of type. Before it reached you in that form it might have been a few words scratched on a reporters pad at a small-time fire or an embossed edict from the court of the Dalai Lama.

Reporters and photographers from here to Timbuktu labored to reduce today's news into words and illuminate it with pictures. If the straight news came from abroad it most likely was transmitted to this country in condensed form and hydrated on the cable desk of a news service. For example:

INTERNEWS NYK SMITH SIXYEAROLD AMERICAN STEPHEN RUTTER FROM PINEFORGE PENNA SELECTED BE ONE PRINCE CHARLES SPARRING PARTNERS WHEN THRONE HEIR STARTS BOXING LESSONS EARLY THIS FALL STOP STEPHEN SON PETER RUTTER SECOND SECRETARY WORKING POLITICAL SECTION LONDON EMBASSY CAME LONDON TEN MONTHS AGO WITH PARENTS ATTENDED SMALL ENGLISH PRIVATE SCHOOL EATONSQUARE AREA LONDON SHAPED SO WELL BOXING LESSONS SELECTED GIVE EXHIBITION MATCH WITH SIXYEAROLD ENGLISH BOY GILES STIMSON SCHOOL . . .

In a matter of minutes, hundreds of U. S. newspapers had received and were putting this story into type. But by now it read:

BY CHARLES A. SMITH

"LONDON, Oct. 4 — (INS) — In this corner—Bonnie Prince Charles, Duke of Cornwall and the Tiger of Buckingham Palace.

"In this corner: Stephen Rutter, American, the pride of Pine Forge, Pennsylvania.

"It was announced today that six-year-old Stephen Rutter has been selected to be one of the sparring partners of Prince Charles, heir to the British throne, when Charles starts his boxing lessons early this fall . . ."

A skim through a New York paper this week, which is National Newspaper Week, brought news of a historic pact-signing in London, full details from Bonn as to what West Germany will deliver militarily to the defense of western civilization, and the results of a nationwide poll indicating that the Democrats are in the ascendancy in senatorial races.

Many weeks and months once would have had to pass before such news was known.

And the same is true of the news that day from Madrid, where Franco was pictured as priming a Bourbon prince as his successor, from Trebinje in Yugoslavia, where Tito offered to mediate in the Arab-Israeli trouble, from Anchorage, where the frozen earth quaked, from New Delhi, where Nehru was considering quitting, from Shiraz in Iran, where civil war brewed, from Kiev in the Soviet Union, where a great drought ended, from Rio De Janeiro, where an election was held, and from Castel Gandolfo, where the Pope received 6,000 pilgrims.

It took seven weeks for news of the official end of the War of 1812 between America and Britain to reach the United States from the treaty-signing site, Ghent, Belgium. Battles were fought here in the interim, hundreds died and rancor flamed, for want of news. The task of getting it to you faster and more complete is as paramount in the newsman's character today as in the days before the cable, telephone and wireless. Daily Bridge Lesson

LENGTH JUST AS USEFUL

DON'T be too stolid in applying any measure given you for determining the amount of high card strength needed for a reply to your partner's opening bid of one in a suit or No Trump. If you have extreme distributional values in the form of a six or seven card suit or perhaps two five-carders, your holding is by no means valueless. Instead of thinking only of the point-count of your honor cards or your honor trick total, consider also the playing-trick power of your long strings of cards. If you find as many as four of them, you may have enough for a minimum one-time call regardless of how low your honor potency may be.

	♠ 9 8 6 4 2 ♥ K 10 8 6 5 ♦ 4 ♣ K 2
♠ A 7 ♥ A Q 7 4 2 ♦ A Q 7 ♣ A 6 5	N W E S	♠ Q J ♥ 3 ♦ 10 6 5 2 ♣ Q J 9 8 7 4
	♠ K 10 5 3 ♥ J 9 ♦ K J 9 8 3 ♣ 10 3

(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
1 ♥	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
3 NT

That was not the bidding of this deal. What actually happened was a pass-out of West's 1-Heart. Even that low contract was set one because of North's bunch of trumps, his exasperating spade leads and West's own confused play because of discomfiture over his partner's pass.

East got a lesson when the deal was over. Not a very experienced player, he had been told by somebody that he shouldn't respond to his partner's opening bid of one unless he had "about one honor trick with a long suit or at least one and a half with a four-card suit, or else about a 7-count by the 4-3-2-1 method." Lacking these minima, he should pass, according to that advice.

West pointed out, then, the value of suit-lengths. East had about 3½ playing tricks in clubs alone and about one more in spades and diamonds combined. If he had bid 2-Clubs, West said he would have called 3-No Trumps. In that contract, even against a spade lead, nine tricks would have been easy—two in spades, five in clubs and the red aces, without even trying the diamond finesse for an extra trick.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ 8 4 ♥ K Q 7 6 3 ♦ 10 6 4 ♣ A 9 8
♠ A 2 ♥ 10 9 5 4 2 ♦ A K Q 3 ♣ J 5	N W E S	♠ K Q 10 6 3 ♥ A ♦ J 8 2 ♣ 10 6 4 2
	♠ J 9 7 5 ♥ J 8 ♦ 9 7 5 ♣ K Q 7 3

(Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

How should East play for 4-Spades if South scores the club K and shifts to the heart J?

CADILLAC

More and more car buyers have come to realize that a late-model used Cadillac is often a much sounder investment than a new medium-priced car. Their reasoning is obvious. Cadillac does not follow style trends—it establishes them. Used Cadillacs of recent vintage have barely tapped their great reserve of power and performance. Ever a used Cadillac brings to its owner infinitely greater prestige and pride of ownership. If you are considering the purchase of a new car, why not look at these first!

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Robert W. Fleek, who passed away 7 years ago today, Oct. 7, 1947.
Beautiful memories are all we have left.
Of the one we loved and shall never forget.
He had a smile for everyone, a heart of pure gold,
To those who knew and loved him,

In loving memory of my dear husband, William R. Evans, who passed away 2 years ago, October 7, 1952.
Sweet memories will linger forever.
Time can not change them, it's true,
Years that may come can not sever
My loving remembrance of you.
Sadly missed by Amanda Evans.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Robert W. Fleek, who passed away 7 years ago today, Oct. 7, 1947.
Beautiful memories are all we have left,
Of the one we loved and shall never forget.
He had a smile for everyone, a heart of pure gold,
To those who knew and loved him,
His memory will never grow old.
Sadly missed by wife, son and daughters.

In loving memory of my dear husband, William R. Evans, who passed away 2 years ago, October 7, 1952.
Sweet memories will linger forever.
Time can not change them, it's true,
Years that may come can not sever
My loving remembrance of you.
Sadly missed by Amanda Evans.

Market Mixed With Volume Heaviest In Over Month

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 (AP) — The Stock Market was up a trifle today in a hesitant manner.

Actually, the list was thoroughly mixed at the close. High flying stocks ended with gains between 2 and 4 points. Losses went to around 2 points.

Railroads were down along with most utilities, radio-televisions, and motors. Higher were the oils, steels, rubbers, mail order houses, aircrafts, airlines, and the coppers.

The industrial component was up 90 cents at a new high of $190.20 while the railroads declined 70 cents and the utilities lost 10 cents.

Royal Dutch created a flurry with an advance of 3¼ at 64¾ as the day's second most active issue. The petroleum company had a boost from high earnings estimates.

Rohr Aircraft, newest stock on the board, went ahead 4 points at 32 as the day's fourth most active issue.

Armour was at the top of the most active list up ⅝ at 12⅛ on 64,200 shares. It appeared on the tape frequently in blocks as big as 5,000 shares.

N. Y. Eggs And Butter

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 (AP)—(USDA): Eggs steady today. Receipts 18,653.

Nearby: Whites: Top quality (48-50 lbs) 44-45; mediums 23½-24; smalls 17½-18½; peewees 13-15.

Gains Made

have been cut by $7,400,000,000—the largest dollar tax cut in the history of the country. We have also put into effect a tax revision law which not only removes hardships from millions of taxpayers, but will help the economy expand and so create more and better jobs by removing restraints to initiative and free endeavor.

By reductions in spending, and also by better handling of our too-huge national debt, we have helped to check inflation. Inflation had caused cruel hardship to millions of citizens as the value of their savings dropped from 100 cents to 52 cents between 1939 and 1953. In marked contrast, the fiscal program of the Eisenhower administration has been largely responsible for the fact that the value of the dollar has changed less than one-half of one cent in the past 20 months.

Inflation Checked

Such inflation-producing policies had to be reversed by the Eisenhower administration so that a free economy might once again progress toward greater productivity, higher standards of living, and more and better jobs.

In many other ways the Eisenhower administration has reversed the trend toward a federal "superstate." Shackling federal controls over prices and wages were speedily removed. We started to turn back to the people the many enterprises which had unnecessarily come under government control. We sold the costly Inland Waterways Corporation. We are liquidating the R. F. C. We are selling the government's synthetic rubber plants. We are getting the military out of business activities which private firms can do for less cost. And these are only a few specific moves that are under way.

Businesslike Performance

As a business man now in government, I sincerely feel that a start toward a businesslike performance has been made in 20 short months.

We haven't yet balanced the budget. But we have come two-thirds of the way toward it, which is a good start, and we will keep continuously working at it. We are now moving a few steps at a time and, by tax reductions, getting money back into the hands of the people for them to spend for themselves as they deem best rather than having the government taxing and spending it for them.

Our program of less government and more freedom gives confidence to American citizens to again go ahead and to create new and better things for themselves.

We must have an America in which 160 million people are as free as possible to try to better themselves, to try to do a little more for their children than was done for them, with incentive to invent new things and better ways of doing things, to produce new products for better living and more enjoyment of living. The opportunity for these millions of Americans to do all these things, each restricted only by his obligation of fairness and decency toward his neighbor, has made our nation great. This opportunity must be preserved—in fact, expanded.

Market Mixed With Volume Heaviest In Over Month

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 (AP) — The Stock Market was up a trifle today in a hesitant manner.

Actually, the list was thoroughly mixed at the close. High flying stocks ended with gains between 2 and 4 points. Losses went to around 2 points.

Railroads were down along with most utilities, radio-televisions, and motors. Higher were the oils, steels, rubbers, mail order houses, aircrafts, airlines, and the coppers.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks remained unchanged at $137.40, the 25-year high reached yesterday after a mild correction in the previous week.

The industrial component was up 90 cents at a new high of $190.20 while the railroads declined 70 cents and the utilities lost 10 cents.

Volume was the heaviest in more than a month at 2,570,000 shares.

Royal Dutch created a flurry with an advance of 3¼ at 64¾ as the day's second most active issue. The petroleum company had a boost from high earnings estimates.

Rohr Aircraft, newest stock on the board, went ahead 4 points at 32 as the day's fourth most active issue.

Armour was at the top of the most active list up ⅝ at 12⅛ on 64,200 shares. It appeared on the tape frequently in blocks as big as 5,000 shares.

Gains Made

have been cut by $7,400,000,000—the largest dollar tax cut in the history of the country. We have also put into effect a tax revision law which not only removes hardships from millions of taxpayers, but will help the economy expand and so create more and better jobs by removing restraints to initiative and free endeavor.

By reductions in spending, and also by better handling of our too-huge national debt, we have helped to check inflation. Inflation had caused cruel hardship to millions of citizens as the value of their savings dropped from 100 cents to 52 cents between 1939 and 1953. In marked contrast, the fiscal program of the Eisenhower administration has been largely responsible for the fact that the value of the dollar has changed less than one-half of one cent in the past 20 months.

Inflation Checked

Such inflation-producing policies had to be reversed by the Eisenhower administration so that a free economy might once again progress toward greater productivity, higher standards of living, and more and better jobs.

In many other ways the Eisenhower administration has reversed the trend toward a federal "superstate." Shackling federal controls over prices and wages were speedily removed. We started to turn back to the people the many enterprises which had unnecessarily come under government control. We sold the costly Inland Waterways Corporation. We are liquidating the R. F. C. We are selling the government's synthetic rubber plants. We are getting the military out of business activities which private firms can do for less cost. And these are only a few specific moves that are under way.

Businesslike Performance

As a business man now in government, I sincerely feel that a start toward a businesslike performance has been made in 20 short months.

We haven't yet balanced the budget. But we have come two-thirds of the way toward it, which is a good start, and we will keep continuously working at it. We are now moving a few steps at a time and, by tax reductions, getting money back into the hands of the people for them to spend for themselves as they deem best rather than having the government taxing and spending it for them.

Our program of less government and more freedom gives confidence to American citizens to again go ahead and to create new and better things for themselves.

We must have an America in which 160 million people are as free as possible to try to better themselves, to try to do a little more for their children than was done for them, with incentive to invent new things and better ways of doing things, to produce new products for better living and more enjoyment of living. The opportunity for these millions of Americans to do all these things, each restricted only by his obligation of fairness and decency toward his neighbor, has made our nation great. This opportunity must be preserved—in fact, expanded.

Pow-Wows Set Tomorrow By Republicans

Eisenhower Talk Caucus Highlight

Here in Allegany County, according to Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, who is campaign chairman of the GOP headquarters at the Fort Cumberland Hotel, some 15 Pow-Wows have been scheduled throughout the day tomorrow.

They are being planned in conjunction with Republican National Precinct Day and Mrs. Roeder said last night the nation-wide observance will mark the largest national caucus in the 100-year history of the party.

Dawn to dusk pow-wows will be held all over the nation tomorrow to recruit thousands of new GOP precinct workers. Congressional and local candidates will spend the entire day visiting one pow-wow after another.

Tomorrow night a party caucus will be held at the headquarters and all precinct workers, candidates and others interested in a Republican victory are invited to participate in the "Open House" celebration highlighted by President Eisenhower's TV program at 9:30 p.m.

Jaycee Group Urged To Aid Projects

Wholehearted support of youth projects by the Junior Association of Commerce was urged last night by Murray F. Davis of Annapolis, who spoke at a dinner meeting of the Jaycees at Ali Ghan Country Club.

Davis, who is national director of the Jaycees for Maryland, commended the local organization for sponsoring such youth projects as the "Speak for Democracy" contests, the Road-e-o, Soap Box Derby and similar programs for youth participation.

Guests of honor at last night's meeting were members of the Jaycee baseball team, which won the pennant this year in the Hot Stove League. Murray congratulated the players and managers.

Robert Collins, president of the Hot Stove League, introduced two of the managers, Herman Cunningham and Robert Martin, of Central Fire Station, and the following players: Adrian Knippenberg, Bobby Page, Tommy Wegman, Tommy Dunbar, Jimmy Stinson, Jimmy Lepour, Glenn Twigg, Tom Davis, Leroy Gray, Gary Wolford and Harvey May.

Collins thanked the Jaycees for sponsoring the team and commented that the training the youths receive on the ball field is valuable in later life. He pointed out that Page had a season's batting average of over .500 with 26 hits in 51 trips to the plate.

Five of his teammates hit over .300, Collins added. In routine reports, Albert D. Darby, state director, gave a report on the Mid-Atlantic Institute held in Richmond last month; Ronald Screen reported on the progress of this year's Barter Theater projects, while Art Davis Jr. reported on the "Speak for Democracy" program.

George Carney, Jaycee president, read two letters. In one, E. Lamar Buckner, national president of the Jaycees, who visited here recently, thanked the organization for the 61-piece cut glass set presented to him.

H. B. Higgins, president of Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, who was sent a resolution adopted by the Jaycees when it was learned that the glass plant was to be built here, thanked the local group and commented on the "friendliness of the Cumberland people."

Md. Job Picture Now Brighter

BALTIMORE, Oct. 6 (AP) — Payments of unemployment benefits indicated today that the job picture in Maryland became a little brighter last week.

The number of benefit checks paid out dropped to 23,109, the smallest number since January with the exception of one dip two weeks earlier.

The total amount of money paid out—$596,160—reflected the same pattern.

The department had attributed the September sag in jobs to three factors:

1. Temporary shutdown of the Chevrolet and Fisher Body plants in Baltimore. 2. Temporary layoffs in Salisbury area food processing plants, and 3. Layoffs in an Elkton ordnance plant which had completed work on a big contract.

Workers have been going back at the Baltimore plants and the Salisbury and Elkton situations have also improved.

Margaret Truman To Boost Campaign Of Edward J. Ryan

Gov. Frank G. Clements of Tennessee and Margaret Truman, daughter of former President Harry S. Truman, will speak in behalf of the Congressional campaign of Edward J. Ryan, of this city and Frostburg, at a Democratic dinner in Washington next Tuesday evening.

The dinner, sponsored by the National Democratic Committee has as its slogan "Vote $54 for 54." The idea is to help raise funds for the Congressional contest in Maryland's Sixth and Fifth Congressional districts, and Virginia's Tenth District.

It is in these three districts that prominent Democratic candidates are challenging Republican incumbents. The Democrats consider these three seats "vulnerable" and are doing everything possible to win them.

Ryan is the candidate from the Sixth District, Richard E. Lankford, from the Fifth District, and John Webb of Arlington from the Tenth District of Virginia. Like Ryan, Lankford is a well-known attorney, and has visited here many times with Young Democrats and other state organizations.

Gov. Clements is running unopposed in Tennessee for re-election for governor of his state. He gained national prominence in his fight with the national Administration in behalf of TVA.

Reservations for the dinner may be made at headquarters, 1106 Connecticut Avenue, N. W., Washington, or telephone District 7-1717.

14,909 Now Registered For Voting

City Books Show Increase Of 56

City registration made a net gain of 56 during the month of September to 14,909 registered voters.

During September 64 new voters were added, divided equally between men and women. Three of the new registrants were colored, one man and two women.

Stricken off during the past month because of death were seven white men and one white woman. Some other voters changed their registration from one precinct to another. Twenty-four of them were white men and 30 white women.

Last month's registration activity was considered heavy in view of the fact that there will not be another city election until 1958. Observers said that discussion about the proposed referendum on the crosstown expressway and the stimulus provided by the deadline for county registration were the major reasons for the sizeable registration.

During August only 21 prospective new voters were added. In addition that month there were seven changes of registration and the removal of 10 persons because of death. That left the total registration as of August 31, 14,853.

Prior to his employment at Amcelle, he worked for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. He is a member of the Loyal Order of Moose, Lodge 271, and of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, Aerie 245.

Lancaster is an electrician who learned his trade at Amcelle. Among his hobbies are home woodworking and hunting.

Strike Question Enters Argument In Taxi Appeal

Cabbies Say Firms Ended Employment

Was there or was there not a labor dispute last February and March between the Astor Cab Company and the Yellow Top Cab Company and their drivers?

That question was argued at length yesterday afternoon before Associate Judge George Henderson as he heard appeals from the State Employment Security Board in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Immediately after drivers for the two companies stopped working for the cab companies in February they applied for and were granted unemployment compenseation. That decision eventually was affirmed by the Employment Security Board and the companies then appealed to Circuit Court.

Clarence Lippel, attorney for the companies, argued that the drivers left work voluntarily and should not have been granted unemployment compensation. He further argued that such unemployment compensation should not be charged against the companies' experience rating.

The effect of the decision by the Employment Security Board ruling was to subsidize the drivers at the companies' expense while they were on strike, Lippel said. He submitted photographs showing drivers carrying signs marked "On Strike" as they picketed the Yellow Top Cab Company premises.

Donald W. Mason, attorney for the drivers, argued that the companies themselves had terminated the employer-employe relationship when they insisted after the middle of February that the cabs be leased to the individual drivers, making each one an independent contractor. The employer-employe relationship was resumed in late March when a contract was signed.

Mason contended the drivers were entitled to unemployment compensation for three reasons. He said they were discharged with the temporary ending of the employer-employe relations, any action taken by the drivers after February 14 was merely an effort to get their old jobs back and there was no labor dispute existing because the employer-employe relationships had been ended.

Joins Argument

James M. Phillips, attorney for the Employment Security Board, joined in the argument for the affirmation of the board's decision.

The two cases along with two others heard yesterday afternoon were taken under advisement by Judge Henderson.

One of the others involves William H. Steele, RFD 3, Keyser, who was furloughed from the Celanese plant after 20 years employment. He was denied unemployment compensation because he owned a small truck which he used to haul some pulp wood to the Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company.

Leslie J. Clark, Steele's attorney, argued that the board's decision was an invitation to complete idleness. He said that his client collected only about $34 a month for hauling occasional loads of pulpwood. From that had to be deducted the cost of gas and oil and the depreciation of the vehicle. Had he gotten rid of the truck and sat around in complete idleness he could have collected compensation, Clark emphasized.

Clark also represented a fourth appellant, Mrs. Ruth C. Lippold. She was denied compensation by the board on grounds that she was a practical nurse and had been giving her services in a private home not covered by the Employment Security Law.

Equity Suits Filed

Three equity suits were filed in Allegany County Circuit Court. The bills of complaint were titled Victor A. Emerick vs. Roberta R. Emerick, Dolores I. Webb vs. George E. Webb and Mary E. Elbin vs. Marshall L. Elbin.

Dual Highway Slated From City To Amcelle

The first step in the eventual construction of a divided highway on U. S. Route 220 between the Dingle Hill city limits and the Celanese plant has been taken by the State Roads Commission with the acquisition of 2.37 acres of land along the south side of McMullen Highway, just past the city limits.

Attention was focused on this development yesterday with the filing of a deed for record for the property in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court.

Chelsia A. Liller and Mary F. Liller, his wife, and J. Wallace Close and Gladys M. Close, his wife, sold the property to the State of Maryland for use of the State Roads Commission.

G. Bates Chaires, district engineer for the State Roads Commission, said the decision to purchase the property immediately was made when Liller and Close began preparatory work for the construction of an asphalt plant on the property.

Had the commission waited until the asphalt plant was completed, the cost of the property would have been increased tremendously, Chaires said. As a result of the purchase, Liller and Close are constructing their asphalt plant in the Cresaptown area.

Originally, the commission had planned to add two lanes to the existing road, which is 30 feet wide in most points. However, because of the high cost involved in condemning improved property along the highway, that plan has been abandoned, Chaires reported.

Although no surveys have been made, the commission has prepared tentative lines carrying a northbound lane close to the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks until it nears the Celanese plant. It will be 24 feet wide. The present road would be used for south-bound traffic.

DIRECTS BAND — Kenneth R. Shafer, 36, of 509 Conrad Avenue, will teach instrumental music and direct the two bands at Fort Hill High School. The latter left last week to accept a position at Bermardsville, N. J.

Hyde And Ryan Debate Support Of Eisenhower

BETHESDA, Md., Oct. 6 (AP) — Election opponents Rep. Hyde (R-Md) and Edward J. Ryan, a Democrat, today took up the national issue of which party gives better support to President Eisenhower and, naturally, disagreed.

Hyde and Ryan, contending for Maryland's 6th District seat in Congress, gave their views during a question and answer forum at a women's club luncheon here. About 150 persons attended.

Hyde said Republican control of the next Congress "will mean better coordination with the President and hence a more effective administration."

Ryan contended, however, that Democrats should be elected because "we would give better support to the President's program." He mentioned the foreign trade and housing bills in the 83d Congress and said they were supported by Democrats but defeated by Republicans.

The two candidates also discussed the economic condition.

Hyde said the present state of the country's economy is good.

"The one bad spot in this district," he told his audience," is Allegany and Garrett counties." He said conditions there were "improving with the advent of a new plant made possible by the administration's economic policy and the tax program."

Hyde said unemployment was a bad problem in Western Maryland area during the late 1940s when Democrats were in control. "And the New Deal did nothing about it," he stated.

Ryan said the economic condition of the country "is far from healthy."

"There are five million out of work or under-employed," Ryan stated, adding this was "causing a 24 billion dollar drop in the nation's purchasing power."

He proposed increased tax exemptions in the low and middle income brackets.

Two Housewives Named Resource Music Teachers

Two area housewives have been employed as part-time resource music teachers in certain Allegany County public schools, according to Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster.

They are Mrs. William B. Ludman of LaVale and Mrs. Dorothy Hamill Stephen, 99 Mozelle Street, Keyser. Mrs. Ludman is working with the classroom teachers at Central Elementary School in Lonaconing and at Barton Elementary School. Mrs. Stephen is assigned to McCoole Elementary School and Hammond Street Elementary School and Hammond Street Elementary School in Westernport. They both teach three days a week.

Mrs. Ludman is president of the Music and Arts Club in Cumberland and is recording secretary of the State Federation of Music Clubs. A graduate of Indiana (Pa.) State Teachers College, she taught at Portage, Pa., before coming here.

A native of Keyser, Mrs. Stephen attended Potomac State School (now College) in Keyser for two years and then transferred to West Virginia University where she obtained a Bachelor of Music degree in public school music and also majored in English and social studies.

After graduation she taught three years in the Cumberland area in the resource music field. She worked at Columbia Street, LaVale, Oldtown and Gephart. Mother of five children, Mrs. Stephen belongs to the Keyser Branch of the American Association of University Women, is president of the Alumni Chapter of Eta Upsilon Gamma sorority and president of the Women's Bible Class of the Keyser Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Phyllis Chapman of Keyser originally was to have serve as resource music teacher at all four of the schools but she was moved in to teach junior high school music at Allegany High School to fill another vacancy there.

Court Probates Wills Of Two

The wills of two elderly men who died last month were admitted to probate Tuesday in Allegany County Orphans Court.

One was the last testament of John D. Keller, who was the 82-year old chief custodian of Beall High School in Frostburg when he died suddenly September 26.

Keller left his entire estate to a niece, Sarah K. Rank, 29 Bealls Lane, Frostburg, who also qualified as executrix of the estate. The will was dated February 17, 1954.

Edward B. Clark, who was 73 and had lived at 508 Columbia Avenue, left virtually all of his estate to a stepdaughter, Mrs. Mary Odessa Molinari, 508 Columbia Avenue.

His will gave his wife, Mary Minerva Clark, a life interest in his entire estate, but she died in September, 1952. Mrs. Molinari qualified as administratrix c.t.a. of the estate under a $1,000 bond. Clark made one cash bequest, a $100 payment to his daughter, Charlotte Clark of Pittsburgh, Pa. His will was dated July 16, 1951.

Pow-Wows Set Tomorrow By Republicans

Eisenhower Talk Caucus Highlight

The Republican Party is going all-out in its attempt to assure victory for that party in the general election next month.

Here in Allegany County, according to Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, who is campaign chairman of the GOP headquarters at the Fort Cumberland Hotel, some 15 Pow-Wows have been scheduled throughout the day tomorrow.

They are being planned in conjunction with Republican National Precinct Day and Mrs. Roeder said last night the nation-wide observance will mark the largest national caucus in the 100-year history of the party.

President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon will speak over the largest political radio-television network ever assembled.

Dawn to dusk pow-wows will be held all over the nation tomorrow to recruit thousands of new GOP precinct workers. Congressional and local candidates will spend the entire day visiting one pow-wow after another.

The locations of the pow-wows in Allegany County are available to candidates at local headquarters.

Tomorrow night a party caucus will be held at the headquarters and all precinct workers, candidates and others interested in a Republican victory are invited to participate in the "Open House" celebration highlighted by President Eisenhower's TV program at 9:30 p.m.

Jaycee Group Urged To Aid Projects

Wholehearted support of youth projects by the Junior Association of Commerce was urged last night by Murray F. Davis of Annapolis, who spoke at a dinner meeting of the Jaycees at Ali Ghan Country Club.

Davis, who is national director of the Jaycees for Maryland, commended the local organization for sponsoring such youth projects as the "Speak for Democracy" contests, the Road-e-o, Soap Box Derby and similar programs for youth participation.

Guests of honor at last night's meeting were members of the Jaycee baseball team, which won the pennant this year in the Hot Stove League. Murray congratulated the players and managers.

Robert Collins, president of the Hot Stove League, introduced two of the managers, Herman Cunningham and Robert Martin, of Central Fire Station, and the following players: Adrian Knippenberg, Bobby Page, Tommy Wegman, Tommy Dunbar, Jimmy Stinson, Jimmy Lepour, Glenn Twigg, Tom Davis, Leroy Gray, Gary Wolford and Harvey May.

Collins thanked the Jaycees for sponsoring the team and commented that the training the youths receive on the ball field is valuable in later life. He pointed out that Page had a season's batting average of over .500 with 26 hits in 51 trips to the plate.

Five of his teammates hit over .300, Collins added. In routine reports, Albert D. Darby, state director, gave a report on the Mid-Atlantic Institute held in Richmond last month; Ronald Screen reported on the progress of this year's Barter Theater projects, while Art Davis Jr. reported on the "Speak for Democracy" program.

George Carney, Jaycee president, read two letters. In one, E. Lamar Buckner, national president of the Jaycees, who visited here recently, thanked the organization for the 61-piece cut glass set presented to him.

H. B. Higgins, president of Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, who was sent a resolution adopted by the Jaycees when it was learned that the glass plant was to be built here, thanked the local group and commented on the "friendliness of the Cumberland people."

Md. Job Picture Now Brighter

BALTIMORE, Oct. 6 (AP) — Payments of unemployment benefits indicated today that the job picture in Maryland became a little brighter last week.

The number of benefit checks paid out dropped to 23,109, the smallest number since January with the exception of one dip two weeks earlier.

The total amount of money paid out—$596,160—reflected the same pattern.

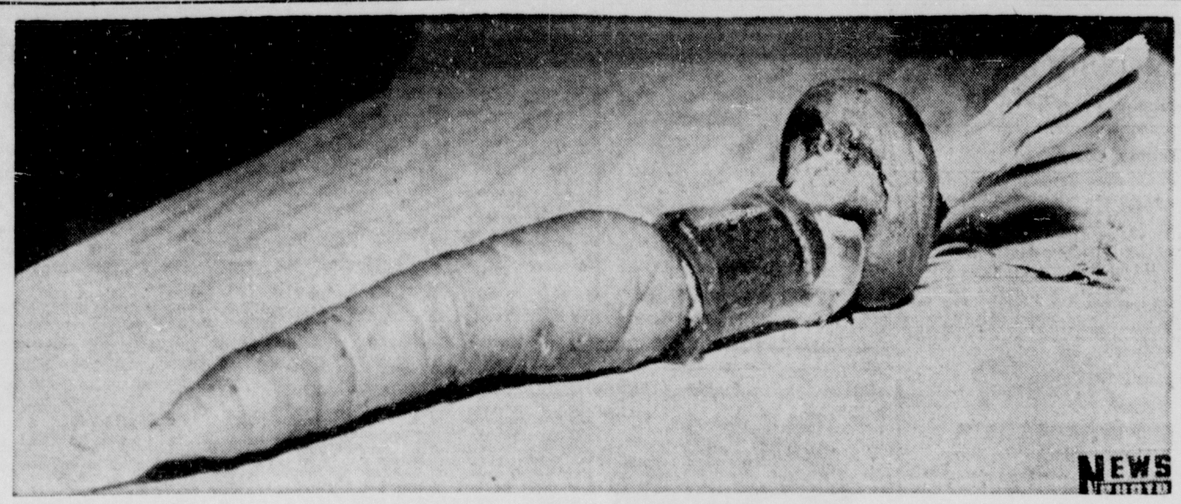

Recovery from a September setback was credited with the drop in benefits paid.

The department had attributed the September sag in jobs to three factors:

1. Temporary shutdown of the Chevrolet and Fisher Body plants in Baltimore. 2. Temporary layoffs in Salisbury area food processing plants, and 3. Layoffs in an Elkton ordnance plant which had completed work on a big contract.

Workers have been going back at the Baltimore plants and the Salisbury and Elkton situations have also improved.

Strike Question Enters Argument In Taxi Appeal

Cabbies Say Firms Ended Employment

Was there or was there not a labor dispute last February and March between the Astor Cab Company and the Yellow Top Cab Company and their drivers?

That question was argued at length yesterday afternoon before Associate Judge George Henderson as he heard appeals from the State Employment Security Board in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Immediately after drivers for the two companies stopped working for the cab companies in February they applied for and were granted unemployment compenseation. That decision eventually was affirmed by the Employment Security Board and the companies then appealed to Circuit Court.

Clarence Lippel, attorney for the companies, argued that the drivers left work voluntarily and should not have been granted unemployment compensation. He further argued that such unemployment compensation should not be charged against the companies' experience rating.

The effect of the decision by the Employment Security Board ruling was to subsidize the drivers at the companies' expense while they were on strike, Lippel said. He submitted photographs showing drivers carrying signs marked "On Strike" as they picketed the Yellow Top Cab Company premises.

Donald W. Mason, attorney for the drivers, argued that the companies themselves had terminated the employer-employe relationship when they insisted after the middle of February that the cabs be leased to the individual drivers, making each one an independent contractor. The employer-employe relationship was resumed in late March when a contract was signed.

Mason contended the drivers were entitled to unemployment compensation for three reasons. He said they were discharged with the temporary ending of the employer-employe relations, any action taken by the drivers after February 14 was merely an effort to get their old jobs back and there was no labor dispute existing because the employer-employe relationships had been ended.

Joins Argument

James M. Phillips, attorney for the Employment Security Board, joined in the argument for the affirmation of the board's decision.

The two cases along with two others heard yesterday afternoon were taken under advisement by Judge Henderson.

One of the others involves William H. Steele, RFD 3, Keyser, who was furloughed from the Celanese plant after 20 years employment. He was denied unemployment compensation because he owned a small truck which he used to haul some pulp wood to the Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company.

Leslie J. Clark, Steele's attorney, argued that the board's decision was an invitation to complete idleness. He said that his client collected only about $34 a month for hauling occasional loads of pulpwood. From that had to be deducted the cost of gas and oil and the depreciation of the vehicle. Had he gotten rid of the truck and sat around in complete idleness he could have collected compensation, Clark emphasized.

Clark also represented a fourth appellant, Mrs. Ruth C. Lippold. She was denied compensation by the board on grounds that she was a practical nurse and had been giving her services in a private home not covered by the Employment Security Law.

Equity Suits Filed

Three equity suits were filed in Allegany County Circuit Court. The bills of complaint were titled Victor A. Emerick vs. Roberta R. Emerick, Dolores I. Webb vs. George E. Webb and Mary E. Elbin vs. Marshall L. Elbin.

Dual Highway Slated From City To Amcelle

The first step in the eventual construction of a divided highway on U. S. Route 220 between the Dingle Hill city limits and the Celanese plant has been taken by the State Roads Commission with the acquisition of 2.37 acres of land along the south side of McMullen Highway, just past the city limits.

Attention was focused on this development yesterday with the filing of a deed for record for the property in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court.

Chelsia A. Liller and Mary F. Liller, his wife, and J. Wallace Close and Gladys M. Close, his wife, sold the property to the State of Maryland for use of the State Roads Commission.

G. Bates Chaires, district engineer for the State Roads Commission, said the decision to purchase the property immediately was made when Liller and Close began preparatory work for the construction of an asphalt plant on the property.

Had the commission waited until the asphalt plant was completed, the cost of the property would have been increased tremendously, Chaires said. As a result of the purchase, Liller and Close are constructing their asphalt plant in the Cresaptown area.

Originally, the commission had planned to add two lanes to the existing road, which is 30 feet wide in most points. However, because of the high cost involved in condemning improved property along the highway, that plan has been abandoned, Chaires reported.

Although no surveys have been made, the commission has prepared tentative lines carrying a northbound lane close to the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks until it nears the Celanese plant. It will be 24 feet wide. The present road would be used for south-bound traffic.

DIRECTS BAND — Kenneth R. Shafer, 36, of 509 Conrad Avenue, will teach instrumental music and direct the two bands at Fort Hill High School. The local business man agreed to take this job on a temporary part-time basis filling the vacancy caused by the resignation of Gordon F. Williams. The latter left last week to accept a position at Bermardsville, N. J.

Hyde And Ryan Debate Support Of Eisenhower

BETHESDA, Md., Oct. 6 (AP) — Election opponents Rep. Hyde (R-Md) and Edward J. Ryan, a Democrat, today took up the national issue of which party gives better support to President Eisenhower and, naturally, disagreed.

Hyde and Ryan, contending for Maryland's 6th District seat in Congress, gave their views during a question and answer forum at a women's club luncheon here. About 150 persons attended.

Hyde said Republican control of the next Congress "will mean better coordination with the President and hence a more effective administration."

Ryan contended, however, that Democrats should be elected because "we would give better support to the President's program." He mentioned the foreign trade and housing bills in the 83d Congress and said they were supported by Democrats but defeated by Republicans.

The two candidates also discussed the economic condition.

Hyde said the present state of the country's economy is good.

"The one bad spot in this district," he told his audience," is Allegany and Garrett counties." He said conditions there were "improving with the advent of a new plant made possible by the administration's economic policy and the tax program."

Hyde said unemployment was a bad problem in Western Maryland area during the late 1940s when Democrats were in control. "And the New Deal did nothing about it," he stated.

Ryan said the economic condition of the country "is far from healthy."

"There are five million out of work or under-employed," Ryan stated, adding this was "causing a 24 billion dollar drop in the nation's purchasing power."

Two Housewives Named Resource Music Teachers

Two area housewives have been employed as part-time resource music teachers in certain Allegany County public schools, according to Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster.

They are Mrs. William B. Ludman of LaVale and Mrs. Dorothy Hamill Stephen, 99 Mozelle Street, Keyser. Mrs. Ludman is working with the classroom teachers at Central Elementary School in Lonaconing and at Barton Elementary School. Mrs. Stephen is assigned to McCoole Elementary School and Hammond Street Elementary School and Hammond Street Elementary School in Westernport. They both teach three days a week.

Mrs. Ludman is president of the Music and Arts Club in Cumberland and is recording secretary of the State Federation of Music Clubs. A graduate of Indiana (Pa.) State Teachers College, she taught at Portage, Pa., before coming here.

A native of Keyser, Mrs. Stephen attended Potomac State School (now College) in Keyser for two years and then transferred to West Virginia University where she obtained a Bachelor of Music degree in public school music and also majored in English and social studies.

After graduation she taught three years in the Cumberland area in the resource music field. She worked at Columbia Street, LaVale, Oldtown and Gephart. Mother of five children, Mrs. Stephen belongs to the Keyser Branch of the American Association of University Women, is president of the Alumni Chapter of Eta Upsilon Gamma sorority and president of the Women's Bible Class of the Keyser Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Phyllis Chapman of Keyser originally was to have serve as resource music teacher at all four of the schools but she was moved in to teach junior high school music at Allegany High School to fill another vacancy there.

Court Probates Wills Of Two

The wills of two elderly men who died last month were admitted to probate Tuesday in Allegany County Orphans Court.

One was the last testament of John D. Keller, who was the 82-year old chief custodian of Beall High School in Frostburg when he died suddenly September 26.

Keller left his entire estate to a niece, Sarah K. Rank, 29 Bealls Lane, Frostburg, who also qualified as executrix of the estate. The will was dated February 17, 1954.

Edward B. Clark, who was 73 and had lived at 508 Columbia Avenue, left virtually all of his estate to a stepdaughter, Mrs. Mary Odessa Molinari, 508 Columbia Avenue.

His will gave his wife, Mary Minerva Clark, a life interest in his entire estate, but she died in September, 1952. Mrs. Molinari qualified as administratrix c.t.a. of the estate under a $1,000 bond. Clark made one cash bequest, a $100 payment to his daughter, Charlotte Clark of Pittsburgh, Pa. His will was dated July 16, 1951.
